HOOVER READY TO LET PUBLIC END FUND ROW

May Appeal to People to Settle Question of Budget Increases.

INTENTION FOLLOWS NAVAL BOOST PLEA

Defers Until December Decision on Asking Higher Taxes.

WARNS EXECUTIVES NOT TO SEEK RAISE

(Associated Press.)

Discord exists between President Hoover and some departmental lieutenants over appropriations to be asked this winter, and he is ready to let the public decide who wins.

Unless the officials toe the mark, he has in mind to go to the people on behalf of asking Congress for the minimum cash required.

Some Navy executives have displeased him by working to get more money for that service than he considers warranted. Their activities evoked a stern warning yesterday against the like of such.

It was put this way:

If the Government departments themselves advocate increased funds, through issuance of public statements or information to newspapers, for example, the President will take to the people his insistence against the increases.

Presumably, he would rely on a quick reflection of public opinion on Congress to attain the end sought.

Publicity Made Plea.

Only last week-end the President appealed publicly for an abandonment of financial demands on Congress until times improve. His statement was directed particularly at organization attempts to get funds for special projects.

One purpose of the President's firmness against increasing departmental expenditures is to protect the already suffering Treasury. So sadly has Federal income been depleted that the adequacy of the income tax system has been brought into serious question in high quarters, together with discussion for and against a tax increase.

Concentrating more now on reducing expenses, Mr. Hoover is deferring until Congress meets in December his decision whether higher taxes are to be recommended.

Each department has just been asked by the Chief Executive to reconsider its requests for appropriations, with a view to scaling them down.

Slice in Navy Budget.

In the highest quarters it was said the President would like to have $61,000,000 sliced from the $401,000,000 asked by the Navy for 1933.

Secretary Adams said Mr. Hoover "asked us to see what we could do," without setting any definite figure.

This fiscal year the Navy had $360,000,000. In other words, $41,000,000 more was wanted next year. That's what set the White House on the aggressive. It was emphasized, however, that all was harmonious between the President and his Navy Secretary.

It was explained Mr. Hoover does not want the present building program scaled down. This includes seven cruisers of 10,000 tons, one aircraft carrier of 13,800 tons and three submarines, two of 1,100 tons and one of 1,500 tons.

Later Secretary Adams announced a cut from eleven to five in destroyers which are to be built now. For this purpose $10,000,000 is available.

The Navy's present program includes only five new destroyers, the construction of which the Chief Ex-

THE WORLD SERIES AT POST BUILDING

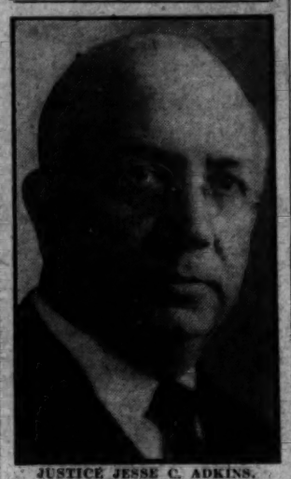
The Post again will bring the world series home to Washington fans by its magnetic scoreboard, radio and public address system.

See each game depicted on the front of The Post Building exactly as it transpires on the scenes of action at St. Louis and Philadelphia starting tomorrow.

Every movement of the baseball in each of the series games can be followed accurately as the magnetic ball moves across the scoreboard illustrating a strikeout, putout, single, double, triple home run or error.

A member of The Post sports staff will supplement the radio accounts, detailing the progress of the game and describing the characteristics of each player as he assumes the limelight. Next best to a box seat is The Post's scoreboard.

CALLED BIASED



JUSTICE JESSE C. ADKINS.

BIAS LAID TO ADKINS IN MARCUM DIVORCE

Man Charged With Failing to Pay Alimony Says Court Is Unfair to Him.

Philip H. Marcum, a special assistant to the Attorney General, and assigned to the alien property custodian's office, yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court an affidavit charging Justice Jesse C. Adkins with being prejudiced against him so that he could not get an impartial hearing in matters relating to a limited divorce obtained by his wife.

Justice Adkins granted Mrs. Marcum a limited divorce June 6, and yesterday she complained that her husband had become in arrears in the $135 a month maintenance the court directed him to pay. Attorneys D. E. Rorer and Cyril S. Lawrence asked the court to issue a rule for the husband to show cause why he should not be adjudged in contempt for his failure to meet the payments.

Mr. Marcum early this month had filed suit for injunction restraining his wife from collecting maintenance, basing his case on the decision of the Court of Appeals in Nelson vs. Nelson, holding a bill for maintenance can not be amended into a bill for divorce.

He pointed out that his wife originally brought suit for maintenance, amending her suit last November into a bill for limited divorce. Yesterday he contended his suit for injunction should be passed on before the court proceeded with a hearing on Mrs. Marcum's motion.

The hearing was scheduled for yesterday, and on behalf of Mr. Marcum Richard L. Merrick asked for a continuance until some disposition had been made of his injunction suit. Justice Adkins refused because of the pressing need of Mrs. Marcum for money, and then the affidavit was filed.

The affidavit read, "Justice Adkins is prejudiced against this defendant and can not and will not render an unbiased decision upon and in connection with the rule to show cause, as is evidenced by his conduct during the progress of the trial, which was that of impatience and intolerance toward the defendant and the evident disbelief of his testimony, although the same was corroborated to a large extent by other witnesses, and an urging of more haste in the conclusion of the defense, although plaintiff had consumed three full days, while the defense had occupied only one and one-half days."

The hearing on the rule to show cause went over to the October term, when it will be brought before Chief Justice A. A. Wheat in Motions Court.

CANNON DENIES HUSTON HELP IN FIGHTING SMITH

Bishop Offers Affidavit to Disprove Finding by Nye Group.

USE OF $5,000 CITED EXPLAINED BY CLERIC

Frelinghuysen Says He Gave $20,000; Committee Report Showed $10,000.

(Associated Press.)

Bishop James Cannon, jr., yesterday produced a banker's affidavit to disprove an accusation before the campaign funds committee that $5,000 used in the anti-Smith Democratic campaign in North Carolina came through him from Claudius Huston, a former chairman of the Republican national committee.

The bishop made the following statement:

"On August 28, before the senatorial committee on campaign expenditures Mr. W. H. Wood, of Charlotte, N. C., stated that he telephoned me and that I said that I would send him a check for $5,000 and that I did send him $5,000 for use in the North Carolina anti-Smith campaign. Mr. Wood also stated that on October 24, 1928, he received a check for $5,000 drawn on the International Germanic Trust Co., of New York City, and made payable to him. Mr. Wood said that he could not state definitely who signed the draft drawn upon the International Germanic Trust Co., of New York, but that he thought that Bishop Cannon signed it.

Held Charged to Huston.

"On the same day M. Conrad C. Probst testified before the same committee that Mr. W. H. Wood, president American Trust Co., Charlotte, N. C., received on October 24, 1928, a check drawn on the International Germanic Trust Co. for $5,000 with instructions to turn over to Bishop Cannon, I believe that is——

"The chairman, Mr. Nye asked:

"'Isn't your memoranda perhaps there transposed?' to which Mr. Probst replied.

"'I did that myself. I imagined, however, Mr. Wood mailed this check for collection on October 24, 1928, by air mail to the National Bank of Commerce, of New York City, who received it by air mail October 25, and put it through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and we received it on October 26, at which time it was charged to the account of C. H. Huston.'

"This testimony seemed to indicate that I had sent to Mr. Wood a draft for $5,000 on the International Germanic Trust Co., of New York City, which check was charged to the account of Mr. C. H. Huston. When I saw in European newspapers this statement I cabled through Associated Press that I did not remember that I had ever had any conversation or correspondence with Mr. Huston, or had ever met him.

Banker Signed Affidavit.

"Upon my return home after many hours of careful search I found my draft for $5,000 drawn on the Continental Trust Co., of Washington, D. C., dated October 23, payable to W. H. Wood. I carried this draft to Mr. Wade H. Cooper, former president of the Continental Trust Co., and showed it to him and also the ledger account furnished by him to the senatorial investigation committee. After careful examination Mr. Cooper signed the following affidavit:

"'I hereby certify that a draft dated October 23, 1928, was drawn by

WOOD REVEALS CHICAGO HOLD ON CAPITAL GAS

Company President Says Peirce Concern Gave Orders Here.

HEARING BRINGS OUT MANAGEMENT CLASH

George A. G. Wood, president of the Washington Gas Light Co., testifying yesterday in the Public Utilities Commission inquiry to ascertain the true ownership of the local gas system, skirted the brink of a direct admission that the Central Public Service Corporation, of Chicago, $400,000,000 utilities holding corporation, owned the Washington gas companies.

Mr. Wood, in response to questions put by William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel, did not say that the Central Public Service Corporation owned the local gas system, but he told a story of constantly closer and more detailed management of the local company by the officers of the Chicago corporation, and explained that they were interested in protecting their investments.

He told how he had asked the Central Public Service Corporation send a consultant engineer here but, he added, that was so he could get rid of the one already here at the direction of the corporation. The last straw, he said, was when he commented on a proposal by a supposed consulting accounting expert that a certain organization project would come under Richard A. Ennis, controller of the local company.

Last Straw Reached.

"He said," Mr. Wood testified, "it will be under your controller, but not Mr. Ennis. That, I thought, was the last straw."

It was subsequent to this that Mr. Wood wrote to Albert E. Peirce, president of the Central Public Service Corporation, that he would not again permit his name to be advanced for election as president of the Washington Gas Co. when his present term expires in February.

All of his dealings with Mr. Peirce, Mr. Wood said, had been in his capacity as head of the Central Public Service Corporation, and not as owner of the Westfield Trust, which the Chicago interests insist is the owner of the Washington gas system.

He obeyed the commands from Chicago, he said in substance, because he understood that the Central Public Service Corporation either had an option on the stock of the Washington company or an obligation to find a purchaser for it. The investment of the corporation, Mr. Wood said, probably explained its desire to run the local company as it thought it should be conducted.

Although he accepted the situation until the last straw was piled on, Mr. Wood was not complimentary about the men sent to the local company from Chicago.

Planned to Replace Battin.

In an effort to displace W. I. Battin, whom he had not asked for but who had been sent here by Chicago, Mr. Wood said he had asked that Alfred Hurlburt be sent as consulting engineer. He got his wish about Mr. Battin who had, Mr. Wood said, tried to force engineers of the local company to buy more natural gas than was needed. But Mr. Hurlburt, who was chief engineer of the Central Public Service Corporation, didn't help the situation from his viewpoint, Mr. Wood said. He was caustic in describing a program proposed by the Chicago engineer.

"Hurlburt," Mr. Wood said, "made an ill-advised and poorly considered

Schneider Trophy Winner Breaks His Own World Mark.

London, Wednesday, Sept. 30 (A.P.).—Flight Lieut. G. H. Stainforth established a new world's airplane speed record of 408.8 miles an hour over a three-kilometer course at Calshot yesterday, it was officially announced this morning.

Lieut. Stainforth broke his own record of 379.05 miles an hour, made in the Schneider trophy race September 13. He flew a seaplane fitted with special engines.

The announcement was not made until 4:20 a. m., following a prolonged examination and comparison of the judges' checks. The following speeds were finally given for the four successive laps: 415.2; 405.1; 409.5, and 405.4. These gave an average speed of 408.8 miles an hour.

What they said about the Coolidge article:

Senator Fess, of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee—"The announcement has been evident to all thinking people, and it insures the all but unanimous renomination of President Hoover."

Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader of the Senate—"Just what everybody expected of him."

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa—"The second-term idea is wrong, and Mr. Coolidge was eliminated anyhow."

Senator Frazier (Republican), North Dakota—"His announcement makes no difference, as the Northwest is looking for a candidate who is a real progressive."

Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut—"A splendid example of loyal support."

Coolidge Too Shrewd.

Representative James (Republican), Michigan—"Coolidge is too shrewd to run when between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000 are out of employment."

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York: "Of course he doesn't care to run again until 1936."

Representative Knutson (Republican), Minnesota: "Will go far to quiet talk of another candidate."

Senator Gore (Democrat), Oklahoma: "Runs true to Coolidge's canny, cunning foresight."

Representative Welsh (Republican), Pennsylvania: "The soundest party policy."

Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana: "Herbert Hoover should be renominated and reelected. The American people, furthermore, should not swap horses in the middle of the stream."

Thompson Would Draft Coolidge.

Former Mayor William Hale Thompson, Chicago: "Mr. Coolidge's statement does not alter my course to draft him. The renomination of President Hoover would be the end of the Republican party."

Senator Otis F. Glenn, of Illinois: "All good and patriotic Republicans should be in accord with Coolidge's definite expression."

Former Senator Charles S. Deneen of Illinois: "It is excellent that Mr. Coolidge has made such a wise and important statement at this time."

Louis K. Liggett, Massachusetts, former member of Republican national committee: "As usual, Calvin Coolidge has shown his sound political judgment."

Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire: "The expected has happened."

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts: "I have always thought that when the time came former President Coolidge would come to President Hoover's support."

Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan: "It's just what I expected.

Wounded Chinese Foreign Minister Retires From Cabinet Berth.

Nanking, China (Wednesday), Sept. 30 (A.P.).—The Central Political Council today accepted the resignation of Dr. C. T. Wang, as foreign minister of the Nationalist government, and appointed Alfred Sze to succeed him.

Although Dr. Wang is steadily recovering from wounds suffered Monday when he was attacked by a group of students, events of the last ten days so weakened his political position with leaders of the Koumintang (political party behind the government) that he found retention of his office impossible.

Sze at present is China's delegate to the League of Nations.

Pending Sze's return to China from Geneva, the vice minister of foreign affairs, Frank W. Lee, a native of New York City and former Chinese Minister to Mexico, will act as foreign minister.

Former President Makes Positive Decision in Signed Article.

ASKS SECOND TERM FOR HIS SUCCESSOR

Fess Sees Withdrawal as Insuring Nomination for Incumbent.

PARTISANS PLEASED BY VERMONTER'S AID

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Whatever doubt existed that President Hoover will receive a second nomination—and little did exist—yesterday was swept away by the man he succeeded in the White House, Calvin Coolidge.

In a Saturday Evening Post article, for which he is reported to have received $10,000, former President Coolidge eliminated himself from the running and called on all Republicans to support President Hoover.

"When I announced my determination not to run for President in 1928," wrote Mr. Coolidge, "my decision had been made a long time. • • • Why would it be supposed that what I was then seeking to escape I am now seeking to acquire? • • •

"A retired President ought to be an example of loyal support to his successor.

"In an emergency like the present, the responsible elements of our party should offer a solid front in their support of the President.

"That is the course I propose to pursue."

Article Eagerly Read.

To politicians in Washington, the Coolidge article was a succulent literary morsel. By afternoon all of them evidently had seen it. Messengers could be seen carrying copies of the magazine into the Capitol and the Senate Office Building throughout the day. President Hoover, it was made known, also had read it, but had no comment to make.

Republicans like Senator Fess, of Ohio, felt that the announcement by Coolidge insures the "all but unanimous renomination of President Hoover."

Democrats like Senator Gore, of Oklahoma, took the position that it was another example of "Coolidge cunning." Coolidge, they contended, was too smart to run in a year when Republican defeat seems certain.

The Progressives—if Senator Frazier, of North Dakota, voices their sentiments—held that it made little difference, and that what they wanted was a real Progressive candidate, presumably Senator Borah, of Idaho.

Believed Looking to 1936.

There were some in both parties who believed that Coolidge was eliminating himself now in order to be available in 1936.

In that year Mr. Coolidge would be 64 years old and therefore clearly eligible from an age standpoint.

In any event, the man from Northampton, whose "I do not choose to run" statement in 1928 had the entire country guessing, has now made one about which there can be no equivocation. He has made it clear that he is not a candidate, and he has made it clear that he will do much to support his successor.

Every survey that has been made, every poll that has been taken, has indicated that President Hoover would again be his party's nominee. In the last 60 years only three Presidents have been denied a second nomination—Johnson, Hayes, and Arthur.

Likewise, there has been every indication that Calvin Coolidge had no desire to be nominated for a second term in 1932. Not so long ago he was quoted as saying that if Herbert Hoover couldn't be renominated and

LABOR PARTY TO BAR COALITION MEMBERS

MacDonald and 12 Others Affected; Election Decision Expected Today.

London (Wednesday), Sept. 30 (A.P.).—The Daily Herald, Labor organ, announced this morning that the national executive of the Labor party has decided that all members and supporters of the national government are no longer members of the party.

The decree rules out thirteen members of Parliament, including Prime Minister MacDonald, Philip Snowden and the other former Labor ministers who remain in the new cabinet, as well as two peers, Lord Chancellor Sankey and Lord Amulree.

All Labor party candidates for Parliament who have avowed adherence to the national government are also ruled out.

The decree, the Herald said, provides that any of those expelled may be readmitted to the party on giving assurance that they will uphold its constitution in the future and will cease to support "hostile organizations."

The procedure, it was said, was the same as that adopted, with Prime Minister MacDonald's approval, when Sir Oswald Mosley and his followers seceded to form the "new" party.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald discussed with King George in Buckingham Palace yesterday afternoon the delicate question of whether there shall be a general election next month. Although Britons are chary of "bringing the crown in position," it was accepted in political circles that the king asked him to carry on with his national government.

The king was said to be anxious that, for the time being, the government avoid an appeal to the country in an election.

MISSOURI ELECTION WON BY DEMOCRAT

Johnson Piles Up Top-Heavy Majority for U. S. House From Seventh District.

Sedalia, Mo., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—While State and national political leaders watched avidly for an indication of which party will control the next House of Congress, the Seventh Missouri Congressional District, in a special election today, overwhelmingly elected Robert D. Johnson (Democrat), of Marshall.

With complete unofficial returns from 230 of the 241 precincts in the district tabulated, Johnson was leading his Republican opponent, former Representative John W. Palmer, of Sedalia, by 9,240 votes. L. L. Collins, independent antiprohibition candidate, was far behind with 3,721.

While political observers generally had expected Johnson's election, his margin of victory was far more decided than his most optimistic supporters had predicted.

While the few missing precincts are in territory generally Republican Johnson's margin over Palmer was expected to be approximately 9,000, the largest ever given a candidate for Congress in the district.

In th 1928 Hoover landslide, Palmer defeated the late Sam C. Major (Democrat), of Fayette, by 6,685, the previous high mark in the district, but Major was elected again in 1930 by 2,579.

It was Major's recent death which made today's special election necessary.

Late tonight Palmer issued a brief statement saying: "In view of the

2 Slain, 18 Hurt as Miners And Canadian Police Battle

Strikers in Saskatchewan March on Estevan; Fight Rages Fiercely 40 Minutes and Rioters Threaten to Return; Military Reinforcements Sent.

Estevan, Sask., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Two strikers were killed and eighteen persons, including nine Royal Mounted Canadian Police officers and two women, were injured in a clash between striking miners and police today.

All available police in southeastern Saskatchewan were concentrated here in anticipation of further disorders.

A dozen miners were arrested when the strikers withdrew, leaving their wounded behind. They retreated before swinging batons and tear gas bombs, following more than 40 minutes of intense fighting with police.

The battle culminated weeks of bitterness arising from the strike of workers in the coal mines at Bienfait and Taylortown near here. It followed shortly after Mayor Bannatyne forbade a parade and march on the town.

The marchers were met at the town limits by a squadron of police hurriedly summoned from various mines in the district. The strikers wielded knives, clubs and rocks with telling effect before they finally retired, threatening to return with reinforcements.

Entering the town on trucks and automobiles, the strikers jumped to the ground and marched through the streets. A block from the town hall they encountered a cordon of police, armed with revolvers. Showering a barrage of missiles on the officers, they pressed on while the police slowly withdrew.

The officers at first began firing in the air. They wielded their batons

The Policemen's Association last night rallied to the support of comrades suspended without pay on brutality and other charges, in a resolution offering financial aid to the families of those reported to be in need.

Originally intended to apply only to three members of the association suspended from duty on third degree counts, pending grand jury disposition of their cases, the resolution was broadened to include all suspended policemen, when the association voted to strike from it all references to the "third degree."

COOLIDGE DECLINES AND BACKS HOOVER

Refuses to Be Candidate in 1932 and Urges Loyalty to Incumbent.

win in the election, then no Republican could expect to win.

Nevertheless, there have been recurrent "draft-Coolidge" movements, and these have been extremely irritating to such Hoover enthusiasas as James F. Burke, the general counsel of the Republican national committee.

Judge Burke, though he has never believed that Coolidge wanted the nomination this time, appeared to be gratified yesterday over the Coolidge magazine article.

"This clinches the nomination for President Hoover," he said.

To politicians like Burke, the idea of nominating anybody but President Hoover is ridiculous, for, as he points out, to turn down the President would be to plead guilty to the Democratic charge that the Republican party has failed.

Pleased by Coolidge Aid.

What pleased Burke and Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, was Coolidge's appeal to Republicans to give their loyal support to President Hoover in these trying times.

Burke expects that it will stop many Republicans from "spreading poison" about their own leader, and will cause them to climb on the bandwagon again.

Two men are now regarded as active aspirants for the Republican nomination in 1932. They are Gifford Pinchot, Governor of Pennsylvania, and former Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland. Both are self-starting candidates, and neither is regarded as a formidable foe.

Some of the Progressives would like to see Senator Borah attempt to wrest the nomination from President Hoover, but those who know the Idaho statesman believe there is little likelihood that he will allow his name to be used. Senator Borah is on his way here now, and may have something to say about the boom that has been started for him.

Of course, from time to time there are booms for Senator Dwight Morrow, wet, of New Jersey, but these are inspired by enthusiasm, not logic.

Curtis' Attitude Mystery.

The one big remaining mystery in the Republican party grows out of the attitude of Vice President Charles Curtis. Thus far, he has not indicated whether he will seek the nomination for a second term.

For months he has been pondering his problem, figuratively standing at a crossroads and wondering which road to take. One leads to the Republican nomination for Vice President, the other to a Kansas seat in the Senate.

Reports from Kansas are to the effect that Curtis' lieutenants are busy at work to win the senatorial nomination for him.

It also is reported that these lieutenants of the Vice President have encountered a considerable sentiment against him in Kansas and that they are as yet by no means sure that he can get another senator nomination, even if he seeks it.

Opposition to Curtis Noted.

There is also a considerable sentiment against Curtis in connection with the Vice Presidency. This was revealed in a Nation-wide poll which The Post conducted last April among the delegates and alternates to the Kansas City convention.

While most of the delegates and alternates said that Curtis ought to get the vice presidential nomination in 1932 "if he wants it," 162 of them suggested somebody else.

Sixty of them suggested Theodore Roosevelt, while 34 boomed Senator Morrow. These 34, it may be safely assumed, were for the most part wets, who would like to see the ticket balanced with a wet.

Reverting to the Coolidge article in the Saturday Evening Post, not the least important aspect of the piece is its value as a campaign document. The Republican national committee is expected to have copies of it distributed throughout the country.

Thus far, President Hoover has not announced that he is a candidate for another term. That he is a candidate, however, is taken for granted.

If there were any doubt about it, the doubt was dispelled when Senator Fess and other Republican politicians made their speeches before the Young Republicans here a couple of months ago.

Second Term Beneficial.

In connection with the second term idea, Mr. Coolidge had this to say in his magazine article:

"It has long been the practice to give a President in office a second nomination. It is a practice that has been beneficial to the country. Any other course is open to grave objections and in danger of being attended by serious consequences. The great safeguards of order and precedent, of respect for public office, of obedience to duly constituted authority ought not to be weakened. In an emergency like the present, the responsible elements of our party should offer a solid front in their support of the President. That is the course I propose to pursue."

Nowhere in his article did Mr. Coolidge mention the name of Herbert Hoover. He used 2,809 words in his article but never once mentioned the Persident by name. Throughout the piece he referred to him as the President.

Politicians last night were wondering to what extent Mr. Coolidge would support President Hoover in 1932. There is no question but what Mr. Coolidge, whose regime was contemporaneous with the most prosperous era in the country's history, has a tremendous influence with the American voters. Consequently, whatever aid he should give Persident Hoover in the 1932 campaign would be very much appreciated by the Republican national committee.

Man, 73, Convicted of Forgery.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Edward L. Hall, 73, accused of affixing the signature of Miss Eugenia Cedarholm, who disappeared in 1927, to a lease on her expensive home in Brooklyn, was convicted of first degree forgery today. Hall had insisted on acting as his own lawyer.

THE PRESIDENT'S CALLERS

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 29.

Mr. Silas Strawn.

The Cabinet.

Sheldon Whitehouse, Minister to Guatemala.

Coolidge Stand Highlights

In an emergency like the present the responsible elements of our party should offer a solid front in their support of the President. That is the course I propose to pursue.

* * * *

When we need more harmony, more cooperation, and more confidence, it would be a distinct disservice to promote a factional conflict against a President in office. * * *

* * * *

Why should it be supposed that what I was then seeking to escape I am now seeking to acquire?

* * * *

Those who are suggesting, under the present disturbed conditions in our country and in the world that a former President should use his prestige to attempt to secure a nomination against a President of his own party, probably have not stopped to consider fully what would be implied by such a course. * * *

* * * *

It would arouse animosities and create bitterness which would afflict the people for years to come. In comparison with these things the relative success or failure of an administration is not very important. * * *

* * * *

A party which temporizes, which compromises itself, which surrenders to opportunism, which deserts its leaders, even if it wins a temporary victory, will find little but discredit in its success, and generally will disintegrate and disappear.

* * * *

One of the things a political party most needs is integrity. It can not go very far on expediency. Before it is always the necessity of standing by its principles and supporting its loyal leaders. Under such a course, an occasional defeat may be encountered, but if its policies are sound it will emerge stronger than ever and remain a vital instrument of government.

LABOR PARTY PLANS TO BAR MEMBERS OF NATIONAL BODY

authoritative was made public concerning the deliberations, it was apparent they were proving difficult.

Today is expected to bring a decision, for MacDonald has promised at that time to inform the House of Commons of the government's decision.

Conservative members of the cabinet have been wanting—almost demanding—an immediate election with tariffs as the chief issue in the government's program.

Liberal cabinet members are declared to be no less vigorously opposed both to an election and to tariffs.

Recent forecasts that MacDonald could retain the support of his Liberal ministers if he adopted a full-fledged tariff program today lost their air of authority. Similarly, it was said that in Conservative ranks there is a growing feeling the party would have extreme difficulty in winning an election under any other leader than MacDonald.

The platform on which the Labor party will fight the next election was made public last night. The party executive has approved resolutions opposing tariffs, condemning any fresh attempt to force sterling back to the gold standard and pledging Labor to reverse the government's unemployment policy. These resolutions will be submitted to the full party conference next month.

A wide degree of socialism is called for in the labor program. The party demands public control of England's banking and credit system and recommends that the nation take the initiative in summoning an international monetary conference.

A call is sounded for Britain to put forward drastic and far-reaching proposals for the disarmament conference to be held in Geneva next February. A new setiement of war debts and reparations is asked.

Premier Might Resign.

Public ownership and control is demanded. The resolutions reject the national government's cuts in the dole.

Prime Minister MacDonald is known to want to go ahead with his present government without recourse to an election. His greatest anxiety is to pull Britain through her financial crisis. But whether he would be able to carry on in the face of the divided views of his ministers was a question.

In the absence of authoritative word, it remained possible that Mr. MacDonald would carry out his threat to resign and retire—at least temporarily—from politics. In that event, some observers say, he might become Viceroy of India or accept some other high position.

The House of Commons last night gave the National government a majority of 55 votes on the third and final reading of the national economy bill, which empowers the government to make drastic cuts in national expenditure by orders in council and without parliamentary action.

The vote on the bill was 297 to 242.

It was sent immediately to the House of Lords and read for the first time there. The lords are expected to put the bill through its remaining stages today, and it will then be given the royal approval.

Battle With Police.

London, Sept. 29 (U.P.).—A large demonstrators and attempted to disperse the crowds which overflowed Whitehall, jeering and shouting.

At least one policeman was forced to use his truncheon. The demonstrators were slowly driven from the district. Twelve were arrested.

A crowd of unemployed, cheering and singing "The Red Flag," rushed from Hyde Park into the restricted district around the Parliament buildings tonight and was driven off after a brief clash with foot and mounted police.

Several policemen were injured in the fighting. Police charged the Followed Protest Meeting.

The militant unemployed groups had been holding a protest meeting in Hyde Park, denouncing the 10 per cent dole reduction. Later they marched to the Parliament district, where they attempted to hold a demonstration despite a ban on such assemblies within a mile of the Whitehall area.

They rushed into the streets, singing and shouting, but were driven back by police, who arrested several leaders. A deputation of six was permitted to enter the House of Commons and present to the Labor party a petition signed by half a million unemployed workers protesting against the dole cuts. The government announced that the total unemployed had increased by 22,535 to a total of 2,811,615 last week.

CANNON DENIES HUSTON AIDED FUND IN DRIVE AGAINST SMITH

James Cannon, jr., chairman, upon the Continental Trust Co., payable to W. H. Wood; that the notations on the draft indicate that it was deposited on October 24 in the American Trust Co. of Charlotte, N. C., J. E. Davis, secretary and treasurer, and forwarded to the Federal-American National Bank, of Washington, D. C., which received it on October 26, 1928, and that our records show that a check for ($5,000) five thousand dollars was paid by the Continental Trust Co. on October 26, 1928, and charged to the account of James Cannon, jr., chairman.

"'Wade H. Cooper.

Sincerity Not Questioned.

"I have no intention or desire to reflect in any way upon the sincerity of Mr. Wood or Mr. Probst, but I herewith present the facts which do positively indicate that both of them are entirely mistaken, and that the draft sent by Mr. Wood to New York for $5,000 upon the International Germanic Trust Co. was not a draft signed by me or with which I had any connection whatever.

"This instance of the effort of the committee to show that I had some connection with Mr. Huston or had failed to report $5,000, which I had received from him for use of the headquarters committee of the anti-Smith Democrats is only one of similar baseless and far-fetched implications and innuendoes of some members of the committee and its investigators to smear my reputation and destroy my influence.

"After further study of the transcript I shall indicate similar instances of this method of procedure."

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former senator from New Jersey, disclosed today that he contributed $20,000 to the Virginia campaign fund handled by Bishop James C. Cannon during the 1928 presidential campaign.

The Nye senatorial committee, investigating Bishop Cannon's part in that campaign, was told Frelinghuysen contributed $10,000, but the senator set the figure at double that amount when he returned on the Ile de France from Europe.

"It is true that I contributed to the presidential campaign in 1928," he said. "I was requested to make a contribution in behalf of the campaign in Virginia by C. Bascom Slemp, as it appeared there were great possibilities of carrying this State in the Republican column.

Ready to be Quizzed.

"I agreed to assist to the extent of $20,000 and was requestd to give the money to Bishop James C. Cannon to be expended in behalf of carrying the State for President Hoover, which I did."

Frelinghuysen said that he did not make public record of the contribution because he understood money contributed to a campaign outside the State did not have to be listed by the contributor and that he assumed that the Virginia campaign committee would list the contribution.

"Had I known that the Nye committee had any wish to see me before I went abroad I should have been glad to appear before it," Frelinghuysen said. "I would be glad to appear before that committee any time they desire to question me."

Man's Skull Fractured In Elevator Shaft Fall

Arthur L. Seaton, 613 Twenty-third street northwest, watchman at the American Security & Trust Co. Building, Fifteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, was in serious condition at Emergency Hospital last night after a 35-foot fall down the elevator shaft of the Trust Co. Building early yesterday.

Seaton was making his rounds at 4 o'clock and was about to ascend to one of the upper floors when he stepped through the door of the lift, not knowing that the elevator had been stopped at another floor, and plunged to the subbasement, two floors below. He was found shortly afterward and rushed to Emergency Hospital in the fire rescue squad ambulance. He was said to be suffering from a fractured skull and possible internal injuries.

LEADERS COMMENT ON COOLIDGE VIEWS

Fess Avers Announcement Insures Renomination of Hoover.

I always thought Mr. Coolidge was too canny to step into a mess like this."

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York: "Wait until he sees my budget." The governor did not amplify his comment.

John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee: "I have no comment to make."

John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1924: "Nothing to say."

Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia, Republican, New York: "Coolidge's gesture seems to me to indicate a most pessimistic outlook for Hoover in 1932—something, indeed, that the Republican national convention may well consider."

Dan Moody (Democrat), former Texas Governor:

"Such a natural thing, comment is unnecessary."

Assures Hoover's Nomination.

Representative Harry M. Wurzbach (Republican), Texas: "This indorsement will doubly assure Mr. Hoover of the nomination."

Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas: "Coolidge's forceful appeal will have widespread approval and will be of great help to President Hoover."

Myers Y. Cooper, former Governor of Ohio: "It will meet with the approval of the vast majority of Republicans throughout the country."

Representative Edith Nourse Rogers (Republican), Massachusetts: "Knowing Mr. Coolidge as I do, it is what I always expected him to do."

Burke Brings to Hoover Rosy Political Report

(Associated Press.)

A report, tinged with optimism, upon economic and political conditions in eighteen Western States was delivered to President Hoover yesterday by James F. Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee.

Burke said he had found everywhere it was considered a foregone conclusion that President Hoover would be renominated and that there was "a growing impression" that the President would be reelected.

The entire world, Burke said, has been passing through a period of economic illness, and the belief appeared to be growing that the President has been assuming the role "of the old-fashioned physician" by the side of business.

Burke has been reported as one of several of the President's friends who have been gathering impressions as to the political and economic conditions in the various States.

Republican Convention Counted On for Chicago

(Associated Press.)

The prediction that Chicago would be selected by the Republican national committee for the 1932 convention was made yesterday by Representative Britten, of Illinois.

Britten said he had canvassed a number of the Republican leaders and members of Congress, and "it would appear that there is but one choice and that Chicago is certain to have the Republican convention."

DEMOCRAT ELECTED BY MISSOURI VOTERS

incomplete returns thus far received, I evidently have been defeated for the seat left vacant by the death of the late Sam C. Major."

Thoughout the campaign, which was vigorously waged by the three candidates, Palmer stoutly defended the Hoover administration, the tariff and the Federal Farm Board, while Johnson assailed the Farm Board and the tariff.

Present economic conditions, most observers agreed, contributed to Palmer's defeat. He always has been regarded as a "regular."

Johnson, 47 years old and an attorney, long has been known as a "fighting Democrat." He never has been defeated for any office for which he ran, the voters of Saline County twice having elected him circuit clerk and twice prosecuting attorney.

The special election attracted Nation-wide attention because of its bearing on which party will control the next House of Congress. Political leaders in Missouri and Washington anxiously awaited the outcome, as it is expected to indicate the trend of six other special elections to fill House vacancies, all of which will be held by the night of November 3.

Johnson's election gave the Democrats 214 seats, the same number the Republicans now hold. One seat is held by a member of the Farmer-Labor party.

Dredge Founders; Crew of 19 Saved

Nahant, Mass., Sept. 29 (U.P.).—The 1,800-ton Army dredge Toledo, one of the largest in the world, foundered today in a heavy sea four miles off Bass Point. Coast Guards rescued the entire crew of 19.

The Toledo was in tow of the Boston Tug Clara Doane, en route to Lynn from Boston. It had a replacement value of $1,000,000 and was to have participated in ceremonies preceding the start of a $700,000 dredging project in Lynn Harbor. Huge waves swept over the dredger and its hull filled quickly, leaving it unmanageable and obviously doomed.

The Coast Guard Cutter 278 hastened to the dredger and succeded in transferring 13 men before the craft began to sink. The last six, including Capt. Kay, narrowly escaped death as the dredger plunged to the 40-foot bottom in 20 seconds. The Toledo was owned by G. H. Breyman, of 17 Battery place, New York City.

Hurling Rocks—Verbally To Be Senatorial Sport

By JOHN J. DALY

As the wets and drys were lining up for a battle to the death, the air became surcharged with debate over the relative merits of Vermont Granite and Indiana Limestone.

High Republican leaders, led by Senator James E. Watson, on one side, and Senator Warren R. Austin, on the other, thrashed out their differences over the proposed memorial to George Rogers Clark, to be erected at Vincennes, Ind. The Old War Horse lost out, in the first skirmish; but this, by no means, is the end of the debate.

In the days to come, the Senate chamber will undoubtedly reverberate with oratory. From the rock-bound coasts of Maine to the limestone quarries of Indiana the representatives of the people will gather in the National Forum and tell their tale.

* * * *

NATURALLY, the granite men will have handier references; for it will be recalled that Galileo, when he first raised the newly constructed telescope to the heavens and saw fulfilled the grand prophecy of Copernicus, beholding the planet Venus "crescent like the moon," stood on Polish granite. From the granite hills of Vermont to the sapphire Gulf of Mexico, they have heard that story. The Nation has become granite-conscious through a sesquicentennial of oratory—mostly delivered on the Fourth of July.

Columbus, when he landed at San Salvador, stepped not upon Indiana limestone, but upon the granite vein that has its northwest tip in the good old State of Vermont, an attraction that led later to a similar adventure on the granite-covered coast of Massachusetts. One solitary adventurous vessel, the Mayflower, freighted with the prospects of a future State, came across the unknown sea and landed its cargo on the iceclad rocks of Plymouth—as firm an assemblage of granite as ever surged from the sea.

NOT, you understand, Indiana limestone, but granite—and, though it was not Vermont granite, but Massachusetts granite, it was, none the less, granite. Coming as they did, from England, these early pilgrims could easily have brought limestone from the Limehouse district of London, but they did not; carrying only a limited supply of limewater. Granite, they knew, awaited them; and so, in the faith that moves mountains, they landed on a granite rock.

Suns rise and set, moons are eclipsed, are at the quarter, the half, and then into the home stretch, the full moon; but granite, eternal as the ages, never moves nor wears nor tears away. This world was made of granite, so the Vermonters declare, and they ask the loyal men of Indiana how long it would have lasted if made of limestone.

And so they will build the George Rogers Clark memorial of granite, unless Senator Jim Watson can advance better arguments for limestone.

* * * *

WHAT can he say—what proof can he bring—this colossus of debate from Indiana, in disparagement of the reputation of granite?

Ever and always the new shoves aside the old, except in this one case — granite, the imperishable, which furnished the domestic hearth of the Union, and to whose everlasting qualities William Cullen Bryant referred when he divided his fellow men, at the end of the long, long passage:

"So live, that when thy summons comes to join
The innumerable caravan . . .
Thou go not, like the quarry slave at night,
But, like one who wraps the drapery of his couch
About him, and lies down to pleasant dreams."

SUSPENDED POLICE PLEDGED ASSOCIATION'S FINANCIAL AID

their families. Many of them are in dire straits."

Whereas only three policemen would be eligible for relief under the original resolution, presented by Lieut. Frank A. Varnet, chairman of the association's ways and means committee, Policeman Housechild said fifteen could apply for benefits under the amended resolution proposed by Lieut. Smith.

The resolution, as adopted, follows: "Be it resolved. That any member of the Policemans Association now under suspension, or who may be suspended from duty, and who shall make known to the association the fact that his family is in need of the necessities of life, and such fact being established by such investigation as the president of the association may direct, be authorized to draw monthly upon the treasurer of the association for a sum to be determined by the president as the result of their investigation until such time as such officer is restored to duty or until final disposition has been made of his particular case."

The original resolution was drafted by Lieut. Varney with the assistance of two other committee members, Headquarters Detective Clarence Tally and Lieut. H. W. Lineberg at the suggestion of President Housechild, he said.

Virtually no opposition developed to the amendment, according to the president. Besides Lieut. Smith, speaking for the measure were Policeman W. H. McGrath, past commander of the Washington Police Post of the American Legion; Policeman J. E. Scott, new commander of the legion post, and Policeman W. C. Adcock, of the Twelfth Precinct, treasurer of the association. It was said that the association has approximately $10,000 in its treasury, which it considers adequate to finance the measure.

Repetition of police third degree testimony before the new grand jury selected to hear the brutality allegations will begin on October 12, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover decided yesterday.

Meanwhile no additional warrants have been issued by the district attorney's office which bear in any way on the case; and it appeared that, lacking fresh charges against the police, Mr. Rover's presentation before the jury will be limited to allegations already aired in the press.

Subpenas which had been held in his office pending decision on a date for opening the hearings will go out this week to the approximately 200 Government witnesses whose testimony before the July grand jury was thrown out when findings of the body were declared invalid after it was discovered a Federal pensioner was a member.

With the consent of Attorneys Henry I. Quinn and Albert W. Jacobson, Mr. Rover yesterday asked for and received a continuance of the arguments to have expunged from the official court records a report by the grand jury requesting the removal of Policeman Joseph Hunt, of the Second Precinct, and, by inference, criticizing Inspector Louis J. Stoll for his part in the proceedings that brought about the dismissal of Policeman Orville Staples from the force.

Justice Jesse Adkins asked Quinn, for Inspector Stoll, and Jacobson for Hunt, if they had any objections, and when he was assured that they had not, he continued the case until October 9.

Additional Police Brutality Charges to Be Made Today

Charges that a colored prisoner arrested Saturday night on a drunk and disorderly charge was brutally beaten and was held incommunicado for three days, after his arm was broken by police, will be made this morning to Department of Justice agents investigating police brutality allegations.

The charges were made by James Lester, 38, colored paperhanger, of 1600 New Jersey avenue, who was still held last night for appearance in court today. A friend, Allan Griffith, colored Department of Justice employe, of 1704 Fourth street northwest, who saw Lester last night at the precinct after trying in vain to do so for three days, told The Post he will submit the charges to the Justice Department today.

According to the story told him by his friend, Lester was arrested Saturday night while sitting on the porch in front of his home. While taking him to the station house in a patrol, he charged, one policeman held his arm while another leaned on it until it broke.

At the precinct, according to Griffith, he was struck in the face and about the mouth, and later taken to Freedman's Hospital. That institution refused treatment, he alleges, and he was taken to Gallinger Hospital, where, he asserts, he was left until yesterday morning before his arm was set. When he left the hospital he was sent to another precinct, he claims.

Griffith charged that when he inquired at the precinct what collateral was necessary to release his friend, he was first told $15. When the desk officer saw he had that much, he charged, he called up the other precinct, and then informed him that $125 would be necessary. Griffith alleges the amount is far in excess of that usually charged in such cases.

Brig.Gen. R. C. Berkeley Relieves Butler Today

Quantico, Va., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Brig. Gen. Randolph C. Berkeley is formally to relieve Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler of the Marine Corps command here at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning.

It is understood that the appointment of Gen. Berkeley is only temporary and that the command later will be taken by a higher ranking officer not yet designated.

Former Justice Clarke To Make Home on Coast

Cleveland, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—John H. Clarke, former Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, will leave Cleveland November 1 to take up permanent residence at San Diego, Calif. A throat irritation has made it necessary for him to seek a milder climate than that of northern Ohio.

Mr. Clarke, associated closely with movements toward world peace since he resigned from the court in 1922, has lived in Cleveland for 34 years save when he sat on the bench in Washington.

Robbers Get $25,000 Gems.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Two robbers today held up a jewelry salesman's helper in the Germantown section and escaped with three bags of gems said to have been valued at between $25,000 and $30,000.

Shipping Board Grants Plea to Sink Nautilus

(Associated Press.)

Permission to sink the submarine Nautilus in the North Sea, off the coast of Norway, was granted yesterday to Sir Hubert Wilkins, by the Shipping Board.

The board consented that Wilkins take the vessel that carried him to the Arctic for an underice expedition out to deep water and scrap it, instead of returning it to a North Atlantic port. Secretary Adams was consulted after Wilkins sought permission to scrap the boat about three weeks ago. First denied permission, he explained to the board he considered it dangerous to attempt the ocean crossing.

DEBTS, REPARATIONS AND TARIFFS LINKED

Wiggin Says Basle Report Holds Cure for World Economic Ills.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—If tariffs, reparations and interallied debts are lowered and if Germany and France settle their differences, Albert H. Wiggin, head of the world's largest bank, believes the United States soon will be "doing business as usual."

Mr. Wiggin, chairman of the governing board of the Chase National Bank and chairman of the international committee which studied the German credit situation at the suggestion of the London conference, expressed that opinion as he arrived home today from Europe on the liner Majestic.

"The business depression is worldwide," he told reporters. "Normal business conditions will not prevail in the United States until there is purchasing power in Europe, South America and Asia and until Europe—and particularly England and Germany—can function normally.

Holds Report Crisis Remedy.

"England and Germany already have taken vigorous action, but they need the help of the rest of the world, and particularly the United States and France.

"The gold of the world is concentrated in few hands. The extension of credit is necessary, but credit alone is not enough, nor can adequate credit be given under existing conditions.

"In my judgment an adequate program for reviving confidence and for establishing a sound basis for credit is contained in the report of the Basel committee.

"I believe prompt action along the lines of this report will speedily turn the course of world affairs so that the necessary credit to other nations can be extended and the United States again do business as usual."

Specific on Reparations.

He was asked what he considered the chief provisions of the report that he and his fellow conferees drew up at Basel, Switzerland, after their study of the German situation, and which he felt should be carried out to insure the speedy recovery he mentioned.

His reply was that the essence of the report said restoration of Europe's credit depended on lower reparations, lower interallied debts, lower tariffs and rapprochement between France and Germany.

Mr. Wiggin's summary of the report he helped draw up was much more definite and specific than the report itself, which not once mentioned the word "reparations."

When Washington Was Younger—No. 60

THESE gentlemen, left to right, James A. Bates, Matthew Trimble, and S. T. Morsell, supervised the awarding of saloon licenses in 1900 as members of the Excise Board. They also licensed the wholesale liquor dealers.

An idea of the extent of their work may be gained from the Commissioners' report for 1897, which stated that there were 547 barrooms licensed, and 147 wholesalers. The report added that this was a reduction of 58 saloons and 25 wholesale dealers in two years.

Their power was arbitrary, and they held in their hands the fate of such centers of congregation as Shoomakers' bar, the famous saloon near the National Theater, and others equally renowned.

LEAGUE ASSEMBLY ENDS 12TH SESSION

Help of U. S. in Promoting Cause of Disarmament Draws Praise.

Geneva, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The assembly of the League of Nations today completed its twelfth annual session, in which the outstanding development was collaboration by the United States along two lines—in promoting the cause of disarmament and seeking conciliation between Japan and China in the Manchurian controversy.

This cooperation by the United States was valued chiefly at Geneva for what it seemed to promise for the future. American collaboration now is counted on by league leaders in every move for securing world peace and prosperity.

The significance of the interest shown by the United States in the league's recent activities was emphasized today by the Journal de Geneve, which declared, "The mechanism of the League of Nations for the prevention of wars has reached the point where it functions perfectly, provided the United States associates itself with the league."

Incomplete success was attained by the assembly in the attempt to realize a truce in armaments, but it was freely admitted by league leaders that the attitude of the Washington government was largely responsible for the degree of progress recorded.

Invited into the disarmament committee, the United States, through Hugh R. Wilson, minister to Switzerland, cordially supported the Italian proposal for a one-year armament holiday by a "gentlemen's agreement."

In the face of French doubts and Japanese opposition, Wilson was instrumental in bringing about adoption of a resolution designed to put the truce into effect November 1 if the governments by that time are ready for it.

The move for a truce is looked on as useful preparation for the February disarmament conference in its moral and psychological effects rather than in its material significance.

American cooperation in efforts to settle the Sino-Japanese trouble pacifically was less intimate, but was regarded here as no less efficacious and fortunate.

MISSISSIPPI TAKES UP COTTON CURBING

Measure Introduced in Both Houses to Cut Planting 70 Per Cent.

Jackson, Miss., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A bill to limit cotton acreage to 30 per cent of the land in cultivation in 1932 and 1933 was introduced at the extraordinary session of the Mississippi Legislature today, after Gov. Bilbo had pleaded for uniting of factions to advance the State economically.

The reduction measure, introduced simultaneously in the Senate and House by Senator W. B. Roberts and Representative Walter Sillers, both large cotton planters of Rosedale, was virtually the same as that passed recently by the Texas Assembly and signed by Gov. Sterling.

About the same time, Gov. Parnell of Arkansas, asked legislators of that State if they would be willing to serve without pay in an extra session to enact cotton relief legislation. The governor let it be known definitely that he planned to call the extra session.

Gov. Parnell's action followed several meetings of farmers, who went on record as favoring a special session to adopt a cotton acreage reduction law to conform with the Texas measure.

At Shreveport, La., a State committee recently organized to conduct a South-wide campaign for the plan of Gov. Long, of Louisiana, which would ban planting of cotton next year, adopted a resolution urging a conference of governors of Southern States to be held immediately to devise a uniform plan of cotton relief.

A movement for State economy was launched in the Mississippi House with the introduction of three bills by Representative Dave Glass for reducing salaries of legislators and all appropriations by 25 per cent.

Gov. Bilbo, who was blamed in many quarters for the suspension of the State's four major colleges from the Southern Association of colleges and secondary schools because he was alleged to have dominated them through political means, said in his message to the Assembly that he was willing to sign "anything" to put the schools back in good standing.

State Ends Case Against Alleged Slayer of Girls

Newkirk, Okla., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The State late today closed its circumstantial case against Earl Quinn, accused of murder in the gruesome killing of Jessie and Zexiz Griffith, sisters, after testimony of Mrs. M. M. Patton, of Muskogee, that Quinn had stopped her about a month before the crime near the spot where the bodies were found.

The defense will begin presentation of its testimony tomorrow with Mrs. Earl Quinn, wife of the defendant, probably the first witness. Quinn also is expected to testify.

Capone's Attempts To Balk Trial Fail

Demurrer Quashed, Court Tells Gang Lord to Be Ready Tuesday.

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Al Capone's efforts to balk trial for income tax evasion and to examine the Government's evidence against him were quickly disposed of in Judge James H. Wilkerson's court today.

His demurrer to the indictments was overruled, the court declined to make the Government expose its hand and the lord of Chicago gangs was told to be ready for trial next Tuesday.

The trial, attorneys agreed, will probably occupy two weeks. Capone, who once pleaded guilty to the two indictments but changed his mind, is accused on 22 counts of having failed to file an income tax return for the years 1925-1929 and having attempted to evade taxes on an alleged million dollar income.

SOVIET TO INCREASE PUBLIC FOOD SUPPLY

Speeded Program Announced Despite Industry's Failure to Meet Schedule.

Moscow, Sept. 29 (U.P.).—The government today ordered reorganization of all Soviet food industries to improve the living standard of Russia's masses, but simultaneously the chances of fulfilling its 1931 program for heavy industry dwindled to almost certain failure.

A 46 per cent increase in heavy industry was scheduled for this year. The latest available totals indicated that nothing short of a miracle could make up for present backwardness before the end of the year. The failure, however, is merely in relation to the ambitious task undertaken. The actual gain in major industries will be between 15 and 20 per cent for the year.

Coal production, for instance, was about 1,000,000 tons ahead of last year for the month of August, but it was seriously behind the schedule and the government has taken measures to increase the rate of output. Production of pig iron last month totaled 315,429,000 tons, but was only 70 per cent of the scheduled total. Steel was even further behind and the oil output was 18 per cent behind schedule.

In spite of these facts, Joseph V. Stalin, in behalf of the Communist party, and Viacheslav Molotov, president of the Council of Peoples Commissars, in behalf of the government, announced a gigantic program for expansion of the meat and canning industries to improve living conditions which in the past have taxed the endurance of the people. By 1933 the Kremlin hopes to have achieved a great improvement in the living standard, particularly in regard to food, which has been difficult to get in the past.

In the next year or so, there will be 57 huge meat packing combines, producing 1,500,000 tons of foodstuffs annually. The factories will have a capacity of 2,500,000,000 cans of stuffs annually and there will also be a campaign for enlargement of existing canneries and slaughter houses.

Stalin ordered "a basis reconstruction of all food industries," declaring:

"Each year millions of new workers pour into the Socialist industry. The population of our cities are speedily increasing. New cities are arising around numerous new industrial constructions. The old life and habits of the workers and their families have been broken.

"Public feeding is growing on a wide scale, but the demand is growing even faster."

Straus Made Head Of New York Aid

Commission Named to Handle $20,000,000 Fund for Idle Relief.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A commission headed by Jesse Isadore Straus, merchant and prominent Democrat, was appointed today by Gov. Roosevelt to administer a $20,000,000 unemployment relief project—the first undertaking of its kind organized for the winter by a State.

The two other members of the commission named by the governor are Philip J. Wicksar, Republican civic worker of Buffalo, and John J. Sullivan, president of the State Federation of Labor.

The $20,000,000 relief fund, of which the three commissioners will hold the sole purse strings, is to be raised by a 50 per cent increase in the State income tax, in line with Roosevelt's contention the money should be raised by "those who have for those who have not."

Contract Assured In U. S. Lines Deal

Shipping Board Members May Sign Agreement Next Week.

(Associated Press.)

Chairman O'Connor, of the Shipping Board, expressed assurance yesterday there would be "no difficulty" in completing a contract by October 15 to transfer the United States Lines to the Paul W. Chapman-Kenneth D. Dawson-Stanley Dollar interests.

A contract agreed upon by the board last Wednesday, O'Connor said, called for payment of $3,170,000 to the board for existing mortgages on the lines, with an additional assurance in cash or letter of credit of $3,500,000 to guarantee sufficient capital to operate.

"The board approved the contract on September 2," O'Connor said, "and they have until October 15 to sign it. They may sign it next week, or they may wait until October 14."

NEW DIVORCE CANON OFFICIALLY ADOPTED

Protests Few as Episcopal Deputies Cast Vote on Liberalizing Law.

Denver, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The Protestant Episcopal Church adopted a new matrimonial canon today, a canon flavored with liberalism and approved over scattered opposition by convention delegates weary from prolonged legislative sessions.

The church in its new canon takes cognizance of persons who have been divorced and remarried in contravention to the law of the church. Such persons may retain their communicant status and be admitted to baptism, confirmation, and Holy Communion under conditions which require the approval of ecclesiastical courts operating through the bishops.

Marriages which have been dissolved or annulled by a civil court may be declared null and void by the ecclesiastical courts and the bishops in certain specified instances outlined in the canon. The nullification decree of the ecclesiastical courts must be based on one or more of nine listed impediments to matrimony, existing prior to marriage. With the issuance of such nullification the parties concerned have the right to be married by a minister of the church.

Few Voices Protest.

A rather unruly house of clerical and lay deputies raised only few voices in protest as the Rev. ZeBarney Phillips, Washington, D. C., presiding officer, called for the vote on the most controversial issue of the convention. The vote was not recorded, but was overwhelmingly favorable.

In the house of bishops, 76 affirmative votes were cast against 19 nays after Presiding Bishop James de Wolf Perry, of Rhode Island, had guided the bishops through a parliamentary maze and speakers had presented final objections amid cries for the question.

The canon, as finally adopted, was a compromise between the bishops and the deputies. Questions not definitely settled were referred to the next general convention.

Marital Courts Provided.

Futile attempts were made in both houses to recommit the entire question to the joint commission on divorce and marriage.

The canon provides for the establishment of an ecclesiastical court operating through the bishop for the consideration of matrimonial cases, in each diocese and missionary district, at the discretion of the diocese or district.

The bishop or ecclesiastical court has the power to declare null and void the marriage of any person which has been annulled or dissolved by a civil court, but the basis of annulment by the bishop or ecclesiastical court is limited to nine listed impediments to marriage.

The specified impediments are: Consanguinity, lack of free consent, mistaken identity, mental deficiency, insanity, failure of either party to have reached the age of puberty, impotence, existence of venereal disease and bigamy.

Any person whose former marriage has been annulled or dissolved by a civil court and pronounced null by the bishop on grounds of any of the listed impediments, may then be married by a minister of the church.

Bishop to Give Judgment.

Ministers who have cause to believe a person desirous of baptism, confirmation or Holy Communion, who "has been married otherwise than as the word of God and the discipline of the church allows," may refer the case to the bishop. The bishop, taking into consideration, "the godly discipline both of justice and of mercy," shall give judgment and may admit the person in question to the ordinances.

The canon also provides that "any persons who have been married by civil authority or otherwise than as the church provides," may apply to the bishop or to the ecclesiastical court of their domicile for recognition of communicant status, or for the right to apply for Holy Communion or baptism.

In the event of a favorable decision, "a minister of this church may, at his discretion, bless the parties of the union."

Marriage Pledge Defeated.

The deputies desired that parties to a marriage sign a pledge setting forth their belief in the Christian ideal of marriage. The bishops declared there was no object in signing a pledge to keep a pledge and the question was referred to the next convention. The bishops desired that one party to a marriage should be a baptized person. Objections of the deputies were sustained and this matter, too, goes to the next convention.

A threatened fight over a proposed amendment to the constitution of the church, providing for creation of special missionary districts for Negroes, under supervision of Negro bishops, was averted when the House of Bishops deferred action until the next convention.

The deputies concurred with the House of Bishops in a petition to the United States Senate to approve the entrance of the United States into the world court.

National Council Recommended.

Members recommended for a six-year term on the national council of the church by the deputies were:

Bishop Ernest M. Stires, Long Island; Bishop George Craig Stewart, Chicago; Dr. Percy Silver, New York; Dr. Karl M. Block, St. Louis.; Harper Sibley, Rochester, N. Y.; Z. C. Patton, Chattanooga, Tenn.; William R. Castle, Washington, D. C.; A. E. Newbold, Philadelphia. Those named for a 3-year term were Bishop Warren L. Rogers, of Ohio; Dean Benjamin D. Dagwell, Denver, and John Stewart Bryan, Virginia.

Both houses will meet separately tomorrow morning and then hold a joint session in the afternoon to hear the pastoral letter of the House of Bishops.

Arts and Sciences Dean Is Elected at Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 29 (U.P.).—Kenneth Ballard Murdock today was elected dean of the faculty of arts and sciences of Harvard University to succeed the Late Clifford Herschel Moore, who had been dean from 1925 until his death August 31.

Dean Murdock is master of Leverett House, one of the seven units of the Harvard house plan, which is to go into complete operation this autumn for the first time. He is also associate professor of English at Harvard.

SPLIT WORK HOURS URGED AS IDLE AID

Work, Rather Than Charity, Sought in Proposals by Gifford Group.

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The spreading of employment through reduced working hours or "other practical methods" was suggested today in the first recommendations submitted to President Hoover's unemployment commission by its subcommittee on employment plans and suggestions.

The committee emerged from a mass of hundreds of suggestions and a two-day session with a statement, approved for release by Walter S. Gifford, head of the parent body, in which it made the following recommendations:

That all work now available be equitably distributed among those normally employed in each unit of the various industries.

That unemployed be given work rather than charity.

That careful consideration of public works programs be secured as soon as possible.

Although it was careful to point out that its early report, made after limited study, could not be considered as dealing "with those fundamental and permanent factors in industrial stability which can only result from continuing study and analyses," The committee released its statement under rather auspicious circumstances.

Chairman Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago banker, said he had discussed the report over telephone with Gifford in New York, and that the national unemployment chairman had given his approval for a release in Chicago at this time.

McKellar's Attack Draws Wood's Fire

Says Tennessee Man Did All in Power to Add to Deficit.

(Associated Press.)

Senator McKellar, of Tennessee, yesterday was charged by Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, with doing "everything in his power" to "contribute toward the present deficit" of the Treasury.

Wood, in a statement issued through the Republican national committee, said the Tennessee Democrat either introduced or voted for bills aggregating $1,445,000,000, including the Tennessean's ballot to override President Hoover's veto of veterans' legislation.

"There is no intention to charge Senator McKellar with responsibility for the present deficit," Wood said, "because he voted to incur these expenditures, but for a man whose record reads like anything but an attempt to insure Government economy, his criticism of expenditures under President Hoover is entirely unwarranted and open to the suspicion of demagogism."

Filipinos Gratified At Davis' Decision

Porto Rico Is Reassured Roosevelt Will Stay as Governor.

(Associated Press.)

Commissioners Guevara and Osias expressed satisfaction yesterday "in having Gov. Davis' assurances that he is not resigning as Governor of the Philippines."

The commissioners were understood to view the Governor's declaration he would take only a temporary leave without resigning as removing a further element which had been contributing to confusion in the Philippine situation through continued speculation as to Davis' resignation and a successor.

Satisfaction likewise was reflected in Porto Rican circles, where Gov. Davis' announcement was taken as indicative the island would not lose to the Philippines Gov. Roosevelt, who has been mentioned persistently as Davis' possible successor.

Immigration Cut To New Low Mark

Only 7 Per Cent of Quota in July Is Reported; 1,060 Given Visas.

(Associated Press.)

Efforts to keep out foreigners who might add to the unemployed reduced immigration to only 7 per cent of the monthly quota in July.

The figure, announced yesterday at the State Department, sets a new low mark since President Hoover on September 8, 1930, ordered that immigration visas be withheld from applicants unable to prove they would not become public charges.

In the first nine months under this policy, visas were granted to only 12 per cent of the total admissable under quotas. The figures covering July, the tenth month, show that of 14,846 immigrants from quota countries who could have been admitted, only 1,060 were given visas.

Life Insurance Mounts $1,250,000,000 in '31

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A net increase of $1,250,000,000 in outstanding life insurance in the first half of 1931 was announced today.

The Association of Life Insurance Presidents said that despite the business depression, it is found that the total insurance in force for all United States legal reserve life insurance companies on June 30, 1931, exceeded $109,250,000,000.

Jailer Slyly Uses Soda And Cures Drug Addict

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Cure of a narcotic addict whose keen imagination made household soda appear like drugs was claimed by the turnkey at the municipal jail here today.

"When he wanted a 'shot,' I would give him a little soda in some water and his imagination did the rest," said the turnkey, Dave Bryant. He displayed a letter received from the former addict, who was imprisoned here a month ago on a minor charge. He wrote he believed he is cured of the habit and thanked the turnkey for his sly method.

Alien Smuggling Probe Is Extended to Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Murray W. Garrison, special Assistant Secretary of Labor; W. F. Watkins, chief field supervisor of the Labor Department, and 30 agents established headquarters in Chicago today to continue an investigation of a Nation-wide alien smuggling ring.

The inquiry was started in New York, where the headquarters of the gang were believed to be, but Garrison said the ramifications of the ring extended all over the country. Several indictments have already been returned and others are expected as the result of the Eastern investigation.

HUGHES DEDICATES MADISON'S STATUE

Chief Justice Extols Work of Former President on U. S. Constitution.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, delivering an address at the dedication of a bust of James Madison in the Virginia Capitol today, said a wise application of the controlling principle of Madison in the formulation of the Constitution still constitutes the solution to the problem challenging democratic government.

"We can not save ourselves by worshiping the forms of our institutions, if we fail to make them serve our just interests," he said.

"Success in solving our problems lies in a wise application of Madison's controlling principle of the maintenance of a strong National Government, together with the essential authority of the States over their local affairs, and with constant respect for those individual rights which experience and conscience teach us should be inviolable."

The Chief Justice termed Madison the "father of the Constitution," and a genius whose greatest service was that of an architect of institutions and a defender of liberty. Madison became an early advocate of liberty, in framing the Virginia constitution, the Chief Justice said, when he became a champion of religious liberty.

Madison's Place in History.

"Madison takes his place with Roger Williams and Thomas Jefferson in the front rank of those to whom we are indebted for the American conception of the essential freedom of the spirit from governmental license or restraint," he added.

He said Madison viewed the need as a Federal and State government which were to be different agents of the people, constituted with different powers and designed for different purposes. In maintaining individual liberty against interference from the Federal Government, he said the Constitution builder had in mind protection against both legislature and executive and that he relied upon an independent judiciary to maintain the guarantees.

"The problem of securing a just and efficient government is far more difficult today than when Madison made these observations. It is the irony of the present situation that in the hour of the apparent triumph of democracy, when the rule of the people instead of monarchs was thought to have been made secure, there should be the most serious challenge of Democratic ideals.

Challenge Is Fundamental.

"The challenge is more fundamental than one to the particular forms of Democratic or Republican institutions.

"It is a challenge to the efficiency, wisdom and justice of popular rule carried on through the instrumentalities of responsible legislators and administrators. Whether the attack is in the interest of the State conceived as the protector of the social interests of all the people, or it is motivated by class consciousness is a particular interest, there is common ground in denying the capacity of the people to make laws and execute them through representatives freely chosen without dictatorship.

"There is no indication that we desire to abandon this system in favor of any form of autocracy, whether contrived to promote efficiency or to establish class rule. * * * We desire to foster our collective interests, but we have not yet been persuaded that we should be the gainers in the end either by subordinating all individual concerns to the wholly uncontrolled will of the majority, or by submitting to any sort of dictatorship."

Night Classes Near In Colored Schools

Beginning of Term Is Set for Monday; Age Ruling Given.

Night schools for colored pupils will open next Monday night, October 5, and registration will begin at 7:30 o'clock Friday night at the Shaw Junior High School, Seventh street and Rhode Island avenue northwest. Registration for the other colored night schools will not begin until 7 o'clock Monday night.

Applicants at the Shaw School, where senior high commercial and academic work will be offered, must have completed the eighth grade and be 16 years of age. An exception is made for pupils between 14 and 16 who have completed the eighth grade and receive permission from the department of work permits to attend evening schools.

Senior high vocational courses will be offered at the Armstrong High School, O street between First and Third streets northwest. The other night school buildings are the Francis Junior High and the Garnet-Patterson Junior High, and the following elementary schools: Bell, Burville, Deanwood, Lovejoy, Slater and Briggs. Classes at the Shaw will be from 7 o'clock until 10 o'clock and at the other buildings from 8 o'clock until 10 o'clock.

MAN READY FOR QUIZ UPON DEATH OF TRIO

Surrenders to Attorney as Officers Hunt Him; No New Clews Found.

One of the men sought for questioning in connection with the deaths of Goodwin Miller and his wife and child near Kopp, Va., on Friday night appeared yesterday at the office of Commonwealth's Attorney Thomas H. Lion to surrender himself.

Eugene Barber, the brother of B. J. Barber, who is held at the county jail at Manassas with Jonah Cole on a vagrancy warrant, told Mr. Lion that he was willing to submit to questioning.

A warrant for his arrest on a vagrancy charge was not served. He told Mr. Lion that he was in Maryland at the time of the deaths of the Miller family. If the authorities wished to question him further, he said, they would find him at the cabin, where he lives with five others, about 2 miles from the Miller home.

While Barber was at the courthouse, Sheriff John P. Kerlin and Justice of the Peace William A. Lloyd were searching for him in the woods near his home. It is likely, Sheriff Kerlin said, that they will talk with Eugene Barber today.

Ben Dooley, another member of the group, will also be sought today for questioning. A hearing for B. J. Barber and Jonah Cole on the vagrancy charges is scheduled for the latter part of this week.

Sheriff Kerlin and Mr. Lloyd said last night that no new leads had been uncovered to substantiate their beliefs that Miller and his wife and 6-month-old son had been murdered before their home was burned.

Four Masses Each Day To Honor Saint's Relic

Veneration services for a relic of St. Theresa of Jesus, known to the Catholic world as "The Little Flower," will be held at the Immaculate Conception Church, Eighth and N streets northwest, beginning tomorrow and continuing through the feast day of St. Theresa Saturday. Four services each day will be held at 6:45 a. m., 7:30 a. m., 12:15 p. m. and 7:45 p. m. The relic consists of a part of the body of the saint.

For the first time in the history of the Catholic Church locally noon day masses are to be held beginning tomorrow in the church. The masses, which are to be known as "The Mass of the Sick," will be said by the Rev. Francis J. Hurney.

Judge Delays Sale Of Big Apartments

Ten Days Not Enough for Wyoming Advertising, Court Decides.

Holding that ten days advertising did not adequately meet requirements for a building worth nearly $1,000,000 Justice Jesse Adkins ordered yesterday that the sale of the Wyoming Apartments, 2022 Columbia road, be postponed until October 26 at 2:15 p. m. The sale was scheduled for yesterday afternoon.

At the same time, Justice Adkins named John L. Barr, 1713 G street northwest, as receiver for the building. He will collect rents and pay bills and take over other managerial tasks.

A petition by Johnson R. Morgan, 1715 Riggs place northwest, brought the proposed sale before the court. Morgan asked that it be halted and that a receiver be appointed to conserve assets of the apartment structure. He named as defendants Emory L. Coblentz, Frederick, Md., Charles C. Mathias and Claude S. Hahn, trustees under a second deed of trust on the property.

Contractors' Body Meets Here Today

National Association Plans Program for Aiding Unemployed.

A conference of far-reaching importance to the construction industry and general business will open here today with the convening of the two-day fall meeting of the governing board of the Associated General Contractors of America to deal with problems of the present depression and unemployment.

Leading general contractors from every section of the country, headed by A. P. Greensfelder, of St. Louis, president of the association, will be in attendance, as well as President Silas H. Strawn, of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The primary purpose of the meeting will be to develop a program whereby the construction industry can be utilized to afford immediately unemployment relief in face of the approaching winter, and at the same time stimulate general business.

Singer's $500,000 Action Against Otto Kahn Opens

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A jury of tradesmen today began hearing a $500,000 damage suit brought by Mme. Lydia Lindgren, blonde singer known as a "Swedish nightingale," against Otto H. Kahn, banker and opera patron.

Mme. Lindgren, the wife of Raoul Querse, Italian opera singer, charged that Kahn failed to keep an agreement to provide her with a manager and his own moral support on condition that she drop a slander suit which she instituted in 1929 against Mme. Julia Claussen, Metropolitan Opera Company diva.

"At the request of Kahn," her counsel said in opening the case in a Long Island city court, "Mme. Lindgren withdrew her action against Mme. Claussen. Kahn promised to pay her $160,000 in cash and secure a career for herself and her husband.

"He paid her $13,000 and then stopped. She has not seen him since he persuaded her to withdraw the slander suit. This suit is to recover the $160,000 and for damages sustained by Mme. Lindgren by reason of his failure to keep his verbal agreement."

Mme. Lindgren was in court but the financier was not present. There were indications he would testify tomorrow.

The plaintiff sang with the Chicago Opera Company and in concerts but never in prominent roles at the Metropolitan. She was an associate in that organization of Mme. Claussen, and her complaint against her former friend in the slander action recited that Mme. Claussen had circulated stories involving her with Kahn.

Mme. Lindgren's counsel said she met the opera patron in 1914 soon after her arrival in America and that he managed an audition for her.

George W. Whiteside, counsel for Kahn, admitted that Kahn paid Mme. Lindgren the $13,000, but said the payment was actuated by his kindly feeling toward struggling musical artists and to some extent by publicity given to a slander suit started by Mme. Lindgren against Mme. Julia Claussen, a rival "Swedish nightingale."

"The defendant," Whiteside said, "did not promise to pay any more, but thinks he might have suggested that he would send Mme. Lindgren a Christmas present."

FOREIGN TRADE BODY HITS FEDERAL CURBS

Conference in New Orleans Ends With Cooperation Pledges to Latins.

New Orleans, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The Southern Foreign Trade Conference closed today after passing resolutions condemning "government-imposed restraints on trade."

Delegates pledged closer cooperation between industries of the South and Midwest with the Latin Americas.

Adoption of the resolutions condemning "government restraints" followed an attack on tariff barriers by T. J. Caldwell, Houston banker, who said "the great underlying cause of the depression of which the world is suffering today is government interference with the full flow of commerce in the form of protective tariff, embargoes and subsidies, all of which resulted in uneconomic production, unsound capitalization and credit inflation."

The conference resolution said: "It is our studied conviction that government-imposed restraints on business are contributing to the delay in the revival of reciprocal trade, which is so essential to business recovery throughout the world.

"It is our opinion that the economic welfare of all nations would be well served were the Government to eliminate, insofar as possible, all unnecessary restraints and hardships on reciprocal trade."

Simon J. Lubin, Sacramento, Calif., chairman of the Pan-American Institute of Reciprocal Trade, blamed present business conditions on "loose thinking" and lack of industrial leadership.

Granville O. Woodward, United States trade commissioner at Hongkong, and R. L. McKellar, Louisville, Ky., discussed the possibilities of expanding the South's foreign trade.

Capt. Frank M. Hawks, speed flier, flew here today from Dallas to be the honor guest at a luncheon. He disclaimed any interest in records, but said he had "merely been trying to demonstrate the feasibility of fast travel between cities."

He made the Dallas-New Orleans trip, 400 miles, in 2½ hours, after flying yesterday from Pennsylvania to Dallas, 1,400 miles, in 7 hours 15 minutes.

No date was set for the next conference.

Police Hold Coupe Used in Robbery

Occupant Jumps Out and Runs After 4-Mile Anacostia Chase.

Eleventh Precinct police are holding a small coupe, seized after a 4-mile chase in Anacostia early Monday, which is believed to have figured in a Leonardtown, Md., robbery. Not until a broadcast for the car and its supposed occupant was made Monday night did Policeman M. W. Hanger or his superiors at the Eleventh Precinct learn that it was wanted in connection with the theft.

Hanger stopped the car at Thirtieth street and Naylor road southeast after a 3-mile chase, but it driver and sole occupant jumped out and fled.

He is said to be the man, whose name is known to St. Mary's County authorities, who entered Saul Levison's jewelry store in Leonardtown last week and stole two watches valued at $60. Wanted for questioning, he fled the town last Sunday in the machine now held by Washington police.

Child Back Home After Wide Hunt

Bernard Pumphrey, Jr., Is Safe; Spent Night Peacefully in Strange House.

Three-year-old Bernard Pumphrey, jr., of 1367 C street northeast, yesterday was safe at home, after wandering off to see the world Monday afternoon, spending the night in a strange house, and returning home at 8 o'clock yesterday morning.

While he was sleeping peacefully at the home of Mrs. O. R. Lamb, 516 C street northeast, who found Bernard wandering near Sixth and C streets, his parents and police were exerting every effort to locate him. Mrs. Lamb said she reported the matter to the Ninth Precinct Station, but due to the bustle of changing shifts no record was made, and when Mr. and Mrs. Pumphrey made several visits to the station they were told the child had not been found.

However, Mrs. Lamb took him home in the morning and all's well again.

Record Low Bid Made For Alley Paving Here

A record low bid on paving with concrete was revealed yesterday when R. M. Brennan, chief clerk of the District Engineer Department, opened bids for paving alleys with cement throughout the city.

Corson & Gruman Co., which submitted the lowest of six bids, gave an estimate of $12,143 for the work on the basis of $1.45 a square yard. The highest bid was $15,818.

BODY OFFERS CLEW IN COLLINGS PROBE

Waters Surrender Possible Key; Hole Discovered in Back of Head.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—From the waters of Long Island Sound today came the body of an unidentified man—a possible "key" to the Benjamin Collings yacht murder mystery.

Apparently about three weeks in the sound waters, the body was washed ashore at flood ide on Asharoken Beach, near where the Collings cruiser was twenty days ago when Mrs. Collings says two men, who boarded the cruiser for the announced purpose of seeking aid for a wounded companion, killed her husband and abducted her.

Search for the third man produced no results, and authorities until today leaned to the theory that he was mentioned only as a pretext for invading the Collings yacht.

But the body, found at daybreak by Milton Bonneau, a milkman, bore a hole in the back of the head, possibly a pistol wound.

Belt Buckle Thought Clew.

An autopsy was begun in a Northport garage to determine if possible his identity and the cause of his death.

Dr. Vincent McAuliffe at Huntington performed the autopsy. It was McAuliffe who, at the autopsy over the body of Collings two weeks ago, acted for District Attorney Alexander G. Blue as official observer supplementing the work of Dr. Otto H. Schultze.

A belt buckle marked "S" seemed to offer the most tangible clew to the man's identity. He was about 5 feet 7 inches tall, and probably weighed not more than 140 pounds.

The authorities said a current in Long Island Sound easily could have carried a body from the scene of the Collings tragedy to the spot where it was found today.

N. L. Noteman, a New Rochelle boatman, related hearing the struggles of an apparently drowning man in the water near the Collings cruiser on the fatal night.

Tonight Assistant District Attorney Fred G. Munder, of Suffolk County, said Detective Felix de Martini, who earlier had gone to Bridgeport tracing blankets which have figured in the case, had been partially successful.

Munder said De Martini had shown the blankets to Fred J. Voos, president of the Bridgeport Baseball Club, who had identified one marked with the name of the Hotel Charles, Springfield, Mass., and three others as having been stolen from his motorboat.

Knife Wound Suspected.

The blankets were among six which Mrs. Collings said the elder of the two "pirates" had given her, after he had attacked her and abandoned her in a moored boat.

Efforts to trace a pair of tennis shoes which the man also gave her bore no results.

Munder said that two pairs of trousers, a bathing suit and other items of clothing dragged Sunday from the water near Prices Bend, in Oyster Bay Harbor, did not check with descriptions of articles Mrs. Collings had said the elder pirate threw overboard.

After the preliminary autopsy Munder said it had been determined the man was in the water at least ten days and possibly longer.

"On that basis," he said, "we can not dismiss the possible connection with the Collings case."

A heavy bruise was found on the top of the head, but the skull was not fractured. A healed scar was found on the inside of the upper right arm. The hole in the head could not be definitely analyzed, but the autopsist expressed belief it might have been a knife wound.

An examination of the vital organs was undertaken to determine if the man died by drowning.

WILD CHEERS GREET MINISTERS IN PARIS

Briand and Laval Are Given Ovation on Arrival From Berlin.

Paris, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand returned to Paris tonight from their visit to Berlin and were greeted by wildly cheering crowds at the station.

The two statesmen arriving shortly before midnight, one feature of their welcome was the playing of the "Bourree," traditional lively dance of Auvegne, home province of the premier, by two orchestras at the station. The musicians used ancient Auvergne instruments.

Police forced a way through the enthusiastic crowds for the two ministers to pass to their automobiles, in which they were whisked away.

The cheers of the crowds indicated that Parisians thoroughly appreciate the outcome of the Berlin visit.

Commission Chief Result.

The chief result of the trip was the agreement concluded with the German chancellor, Heinrich Bruening, and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius to establish a Franco-German economic commission to work out cooperative plans for French and German economic advancement.

It was the first time that French ministers had visited the German capital for more than 50 years on an official mission.

The German crowds at Berlin cheered enthusiastically for the Frenchmen when they left last night, and presented the veteran foreign minister, M. Briand, with a complete fishing equipment. He is an inveterate angler.

They also loaded him down with several china plates filled with dainty cakes—"to sweeten Franco-German relations."

U. S. Party Is Picked.

Experts in finance and foreign affairs will accompany Premier Laval when he goes to Washington next month to confer with President Hoover.

Among those who probably will be in the premier's party are Louis Escallier, director of the movement of state funds in the finance ministry, and Charles Farnier, vice governor of the Bank of France.

Phillipe J. L. Berthelot, general secretary of the French foreign office, who is virtually assistant foreign minister, and Emmanuel Monick, financial attache at the French Embassy in Washington, also may be among the premier's advisers.

M. Laval is expected to sail October 12.

Historical Session Attended.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Steele, of this city, were among the 350 attending the thirty-second annual meeting of the New York State Historical Association at Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., over the last week-end. Mr. and Mrs. Steele also attended a complimentary luncheon given by Union College to the association.

The Lee House Spokesman Says—

THAT many opportunities come to hotel folks to convey inspiring messages to their guests, and good hotel proprietors find a pleasure in these occasions.

WE, at The Lee House, have this opportunity daily and we know that this thing which we do carries a message. A message of a greeting and something akin to fraternalism. It is wrapped in and around the ROSE we present to every guest at luncheon each day.

WE have an interest in this gift, more than just the desire to please a guest in a commercial way. We think this rose says: "Our compliments and our thanks for this visit."

THE Lee House spokesman knows that a message comes back to us many times which says "My thanks to you. This bit of beauty does make for kindly thoughts."

WE like this. Won't you let us present a rose to you at luncheon?

COPELAND FAVORS LIQUOR REFERENDUM

(Associated Press.)

Nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt by the Democrats in 1932 and adoption of a platform pledging a referendum on prohibition were advocated yesterday by Senator Copeland, of New York.

The senator said that if the Democratic convention were held today Roosevelt would be nominated. He said he supported the New York Governor, but made no predictions about what would happen when the convention meets next year.

Legion Action Cited.

Copeland praised the suggestion recently advanced by Senator Bulkley, of Ohio, for a Democratic platform pledging party members in Congress to vote for resubmission of the eighteenth amendment.

"I just came from Detroit," he said, "where I asked sober and upstanding citizens about the legion convention. They were universally of the opinion it was a serious and sober-minded group that met there.

"The legion action on prohibition was very significant. It was a cross section of the American people, a group who fought and were ready to die for their country."

Sharper Line Drawn.

A choice between modification or repeal last night was called the only pending prohibition issue by labor's national committee on modification of the Volstead act.

A statement issued by Matthew Woll, chairman of the committee and vice president of the American Federation of Labor, said "unless there is moderation of the dry opposition to change, it may well turn out that repeal, instead of modification, will be the result.

"The reports that come to us daily * * * show us beyond doubt that the tide of hostility to the bigotry of so-called prohibition is rising at a rapid rate."

The statement of Dr. Clarence True Wilson on drunkenness at the Detroit American Legion Convention was said by Woll "to cast a wholly unmerited slur upon members of the legion, and to seek solace for a lost cause in that pitiful misrepresentation which is customarily the last refuge of a bad and ungracious loser."

Methodist Board Opposes Prohibition Resubmission

(Associated Press.)

Proposals that congressional "drys" join "wets" to resubmit the prohibition amendment were condemned last night by the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, as efforts "to short circuit the regular constitutional process."

Bishop James Cannon, jr., chairman, joined Dr. E. L. Crawford, secretary, in a formal statement holding "the fact that the 'wets' have not a sufficient majority in Congress to pass a resubmission resolution is sufficient proof of the attitude of the country on the prohibition question."

"No resubmission resolution should be adopted," it continued, "until the people elect senators and congressmen who have declared themselves before election days that they are favorable to that proposal."

"The eighteenth amendment," the statement added, "put the brand of the criminal upon the liquor traffic in all the territory under the United States flag. The cry for beer is an effort to remove that criminal brand from some sections of our great country.

"If the beer is not strong enough to intoxicate it will not satisfy those who want and demand intoxicating liquors. If it is strong enough to be intoxicating it will be in direct conflict with the Constitution."

John Washington Rites Tomorrow

Fewer Dry Arrests Made In Woodcock's First Year

Justice Administration Results in Jailing 30,108, Seizing 5,002,229 Gallons of Beer, 1,833,276 of Spirits and 21,373 Stills.

(Associated Press.)

Prohibition agents, under Justice Department managership, made 62,902 arrests during the fiscal year that closed June 30.

This did not equal the 68,173 arrests of the preceding year under Treasury Department direction, but the Justice Department said yesterday these activities resulted in 30,108 jail sentences, averaging 224 days and the imposition of 36,341 fines averaging $154.

The bureau brought 58,938 cases for prosecution in Federal courts and 9,251 in State courts. The ratio of convictions to terminations of cases was reported at 86 per cent in the Federal courts.

Other activities during the first year of Justice Department rule and the commissionership of Amos W. W. Woodcock included:

Seizure of 8,261 automobiles, 67 boats, 21,373 stills and 27,634 fermenters, 5,002,229 gallons of beer, 1,833,276 of spirits, 291,582 of wine, 30,918,559 of mash, 4,000,000 pounds and 142,785 gallons of distilling and brewing materials.

The bureau returned $150,000 of a total appropriation of $9,623,390 to the Treasury.

3 SLAIN, 20 HURT AS MINERS AND CANADIAN POLICE BATTLE

and called the fire department to their assistance. An attempt to turn the hose on the rioters was frustrated when the fire engine was surrounded by yelling miners.

The police then directed their fire at the crowd and the invaders retreated toward the mines.

Some 600 men were in the crowd, according to the mayor. He said some were armed with rifles while many had knives. The mayor asserted Communist leaders from Winnipeg were among the attackers.

Another woman, Olive Butterworth, was reported suffering from a bullet wound.

Regina, Sask., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Vigorous steps to maintain law and order in Saskatchewan's coal fields were being planned tonight by the provincial government and officers of the royal Canadian mounted police.

"If necessary we will call out the militia to maintain law and order," declared M. A. McPherson, attorney general.

Late this afternoon 40 additional constables and officers of the royal Canadian mounted police were rushed by train to the strike area to reinforce the already strong detachment there. H. E. Sampson, agent for the attorney general, accompanied them.

The town of Estevan, scene of today's battle between police and strikers, is in the southeast corner of Saskatchewan, a short distance north of the boundary of North Dakota.

The coal mines are about 9 miles from the town and have been the center of attention since miners went on strike early in September. One or two small mines are still in operation, but the larger ones are tied up. The miners are dissatisfied with conditions and demand more pay.

James B. Hughes Dies at Hospital

Theater Treasurer, World War Veteran, to Lie in Arlington.

James B. Hughes, 40 years old, treasurer of the Shubert-Belasco Theater, died yesterday in Mount Alto Hospital after an illness of several months.

Mr. Hughes, who was prominent in theatrical circles in the Capital, was born in Brooklyn. He came here nine years ago to become treasurer of Poli's Theater. When that theater was abandoned last year to make room for Government building operations Mr. Hughes was made treasurer of the Shubert-Belasco.

He enlisted early in the Army in the World War and served overseas fourteen months, participating in major operations of the American Expeditionary Forces.

He is survived by his wife, Lillian B. Hughes. He made his home at 809 Quackenbos street northwest. Funeral service will be at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon in Hysong's funeral home. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Masonic funeral services for John Daniel Ligon, retired employe of the Government Printing Office, who died at his home, 1411 Longfellow street northwest, Monday after an extended illness, will be held at his late residence this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

Mr. Ligon was a member of Hill City Lodge, No. 183, F. A. A. M., a charter member of the Myron M. Parker Lodge, No. 27, the National Union Assurance Society, and the Columbia Commandery, No. 2, Knights Templar.

Mrs. G. H. Cooke, Florist, Is Dead

Widow Carried On Trade Founded by Husband 28 Years Ago.

Mrs. George H. Cooke, florist here for a number of years, died early yesterday. She had been ill several weeks, but the end came unexpectedly, since she had evidenced signs of improvement recently. She was 68 years old and lived at 1605 Kearney street northeast, with Mrs. Edward Niedomanski, her daughter.

Born in England in 1863, Mrs. Cooke came to this country in 1884, settling in this city shortly after. With her husband she established the florist business at 1709 Connecticut avenue northwest in 1903. Since the death of Mr. Cooke in 1920 Mrs. Cooke had carried on the business alone.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Niedomanski, the dead woman is survived by three grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Funeral service will be at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the chapel of Joseph Gawler's Sons, undertakers. Interment will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

MR. COOLIDGE'S POSITION.

Former President Coolidge has spoken the right word at the right time in regard to his attitude toward the campaign of 1932. In an article in the Saturday Evening Post he exhorts all Republicans to stand loyally by President Hoover. He holds that Mr. Hoover should be renominated and announces that he will support him.

Mr. Coolidge makes a valuable contribution to public thought in his discussion of the Presidency. The line that separates a citizen's duty and his privilege is somewhat hard to define when the question is raised as to loyalty to the Government as personified in the President. More and more the people look to the President for leadership, and more and more they rely upon him to execute the people's will. When they choose a man for President they choose an agent. He is bound to act for them. When he does this in good faith, to the best of his ability, is it right that his efforts should be handicapped by opposition, criticism, and abuse? Mr. Coolidge makes a good argument in behalf of the theory that the people ought to support their President, who represents to them their Government, in order that he may execute the laws with greater efficiency.

Democrats will disagree with this theory, so far as it applies to them; but how can insurgent Republicans logically disagree with it? When a political party is placed in control of the Government it is bound to fulfill its pledges, if possible. Its President is spokesman of the party and is held responsible for the performance of its duty. Opposition to him within his party, amounting to frustration of the party's program, is certainly breaking faith with the people who placed the party in power.

Mr. Coolidge makes no direct reference to the collision of 1912, in which former President Roosevelt attempted to prevent the renomination of President Taft, but that experience is sufficiently fresh in the minds of the people to give weight to Mr. Coolidge's statement that an attempt by a former President to wrest the office from his successor can lead only to bitterness, confusion, and disaster. Custom has made it virtually necessary for a party to renominate a President for a second term. Its record is his record, and it can not decently ask for another lease of power while repudiating the man who above all others has acted for it in administering the Government.

According to custom President Hoover is entitled to renomination. No well-informed Republican has doubted at any time that he would be renominated. Those who insisted that Mr. Coolidge was not sincere in 1928 when he declared that he did not choose to run have been overshrewd in assuming that he hoped that events would shape themselves in such fashion as to enable him to wrest the nomination from Mr. Hoover next year. He has cherished no such thought, and now he puts a quietus upon such vain imaginings by asking all Republicans to stand solidly behind President Hoover, as he himself intends to do.

FUR ANIMALS ON FARMS.

The breeding of fur animals has increased so rapidly in the last few years that furriers now look to this source for many of their finest pelts, especially foxes. Through the efforts of the Steel Trap League, as well as many private individuals an attempt has been made to acquaint the women of America with the cruelties of trapping wild animals. The suffering of these creatures because of the present methods of capture will only be terminated when the sentiment of the women who buy the skins has turned against the torture. In the meantime the breeding of fur animals in captivity not only provides higher average quality of fur but puts an end to animal torture.

A prominent society woman of New York has started a mink farm on her Westchester estate. It is her opinion that the farmer's wife should turn from the meager profits of her butter and egg business and substitute a side line that will bring her greater dividends. The raising of fur animals, according to Mrs. Frederick Fox, is ideal for this purpose. After giving the problems of the business intelligent study and having visited the Government experimental fur farms Mrs. Fox started her own farm with 24 valuable minks. The last year has increased the number to 60.

Basing her opinions on her own experience as well as upon what she has learned from other breeders, Mrs. Fox is preparing a book which will serve as a guide to farm women who would like to take up mink raising. It is her hope that in time all pelts will be produced from captive animals and thereby do away with the cruelty of trapping. A trapped mink, Mrs. Fox says, suffers for 36 hours, while the captive mink can be killed without pain through the use of chloroform or ether gas. Born in captivity and carefully tended, it knows no other mode of life and, therefore, suffers no hardship.

NAMING THE AGGRESSOR.

China and Japan are furnishing an excellent opportunity for would-be peacemakers to test their schemes for preserving international tranquillity but none of them is taking advantage of it. The League of Nations sidestepped the issue. Advocates of "implementing" the Kellogg peace pact to make recalcitrant nations behave have not attempted to show how their plans would work out in the present situation. When theories give way to actual conditions peace panaceas fade out of the picture.

The most common scheme to banish war forever from the earth is to have the whole world agree to fall upon an aggressor. All the important nations have agreed to outlaw war as an instrument of national policy. They will not resort to arms unless attacked. But ardent pacifists are not satisfied with that. It is necessary, they say, for all nations to agree to plunge into war against an aggressor. All that would be necessary then would be to identify the nation responsible for the hostilities.

Japan has notified the State Department that its military forces in Manchuria will refrain from any hostilities unless Japanese lives and property are jeopardized by Chinese aggression. From the viewpoint of Japan the occupation of Manchuria was necessary to protect the interests of that country. Japanese citizens were being slain. Even while negotiations for a settlement are going on Chinese mobs continue to assassinate Japanese residents. In the opinion of Japan, China has brought about a situation that makes military protection for Japanese citizens essential.

China reports to the State Department that "our territories have been invaded, our cities and towns have been occupied and in certain cases ransacked, our public officers and innocent citizens have been injured, insulted and murdered." The Chinese believe that international law has been "trampled under foot." The population is thirsting for revenge, as indicated by the ferocious attack of students upon Foreign Minister C. T. Wang.

Here is a complicated situation in which it is impossible to designate the aggressor. History records few cases in which war broke out as a result of clear-cut aggression on the part of one combatant. International rows always have two sides, and each participant always considers the other belligerent the aggressor. Otherwise there could be no war spirit, and consequently no fighting.

Events that lead up to a rupture of diplomatic relations are always clouded with propaganda, emotional patriotism and general confusion. No one, least of all governments that are thousands of miles away from the scene of action, can ascertain which, if either, of the disputants is in the right. This fundamental fact was illustrated in the Sino-Russian dispute two years ago. It comes to the front again in the Manchurian row and will continue to vex the peacemakers so long as men are subject to prejudice, hate and conflicting mental viewpoints.

When war threatens statesmen are confronted with a highly complicated set of conditions and human emotions, not with a simple theory. Instead of making war impossible the crude machinery that the theorists wish to set up to "enforce" peace would probably draw the whole world into conflict every time a serious regional dispute arose.

NEW HOPE FOR EUROPE.

Organization of a French-German commission to examine economic questions involving the mutual interests of those countries is one of the most hopeful signs that have appeared on the troubled horizon of Europe during the last year. Apparently this new venture is undertaken with good will and good faith on both sides. If a conscientious effort to arrive at an economic understanding is made the outlook for European industry and commerce may be entirely changed.

The visit of Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Briand to Berlin was a concession on both sides. The Frenchmen laid aside their former arbitrary attitude toward Germany. With unexpected enthusiasm the German people hailed their visitors and President von Hindenburg, whose name once headed the list of "war criminals" and who has been a special object of French hatred, received them graciously. The very fact that a personal contact has been established and that each government recognizes the economic advantages of a Franco-German understanding is significant.

Attempts at political rapprochement between France and Germany have failed ever since the war. The recent conference at London indicated that political negotiations at present would be futile. Discussion of politics revives all the animosities and problems growing out of the war and produces fresh irritation. Apparently both governments recognize this and are trying to make a new approach to good will by the economic route. They have left disputed issues in the background while coming together on the only practical basis that is available to them.

France gave up her demand for a preliminary settlement of political questions. Germany relinquished for the time being her demand for revision of the Young plan and the Treaty of Versailles. The sources of irritation between the two countries have been by no means removed, but if the governments are able to work out a program of economic cooperation it will dull the edge of national antagonism. The Berlin meeting constitutes only a first step. It may mean much or little, depending upon how this successful beginning is followed up. But the fact that a first step toward the elimination of friction between these traditional enemies has been taken is of vast importance to Europe and the world.

France and Germany hold the key to the restoration of Europe. Any progress they are able to make toward a mutual understanding will revive confidence in the whole world. Americans will not forget that it was President Hoover's moratorium that first brought the French and German statesmen together at Paris and that led to the series of week-end conferences which has just culminated at Berlin.

DIPHTHERIA IMMUNIZATION.

The progress made in the extermination of diphtheria in the last few years has been cited many times and is generally known as one of the most important triumphs of preventive medicine. At the recent meeting of the American Public Health Association Dr. W. T. Harrison gave the credit for this advance principally to Dr. W. H. Park, of New York University. It was Dr. Park who developed the toxin-antitoxin and his influence on the health departments, parents and physicians enormously reduced the diphtheria death rate in many American cities. Death from diphtheria today, Dr. Harrison believes, is a result of ignorance or neglect.

An explanation of the methods of prevention and treatment of the disease shows the safety of the process. In the early stages of the disease it may be treated by antitoxin. This is an antidote to the poison produced in the system by the diphtheria bacillus. The toxin-antitoxin, however, is a toxin largely neutralized by the antitoxin, and is used to immunize the person. When it is introduced into the body the antitoxin gradually splits off, leaving more and more of the toxin. These small doses keep developing a resistance to the disease until the individual is completely immune.

The present injections used for the purpose of immunization are absolutely harmless. No case of injury has yet been known to follow their use, according to Dr. Harrison, nor is there danger of serum sickness. The new injections are of toxoid, which is 20 to 30 per cent more efficient even than toxin-antitoxin. By adding a small amount of common disinfectant formalin to the toxin the toxoid is made. It is then kept at a temperature of 100 to 102 degrees for from three to six weeks. During this time it loses all its toxicity, but retains its immunizing properties. The discovery of this method, which can result in no ill effects and yet can positively immunize a child, is recommended especially for children of preschool age. Cooperation on the part of all parents will permanently eradicate the disease.

LIGHT ON SHAKESPEARE

From the New York Herald Tribune.

Perhaps nothing so stirs the imagination of reading men and women as the discovery through scholarly agencies of new and important material in fields with which they themselves are familiar. So many of the learned who throng the great universities of the world are concerned alone for research in highly specialized fields, as any list of theses submitted for doctorates will show, that it is doubly pleasant when discoveries are achieved in branches of learning appreciated by what may be termed the amateur scholar as well as the professional savant.

It is for this reason that especial significance attaches to the record of his researches in Elizabethan documents published by Dr. Leslie Hotson, of Harvard, in the current issue of the Atlantic Monthly. Dr. Hotson already has earned for himself an enviable reputation as a literary investigator by his discovery a few years since of the circumstances, long shrouded in doubt and conjecture, of the death of Marlowe, but his present contribution to the world's knowledge of Shakespeare must by its very nature overshadow in importance his earlier achievements.

Every schoolboy is familiar with the legend that Shakespeare as a young man was forced to leave Stratford-on-Avon after having been involved in deer poaching. Nicholas Rowe, writing in the year 1710, recounts how Sir Thomas Lucy, land owner and justice of the peace of Stratford, prosecuted young Will for deer stealing from Charlecote Park and how the poet lampooned the baronet in a ballad. The story is corroborated by Archdeacon Davies, of Sapperton, and internal evidence of Shakespeare's enmity for Sir Thomas has ever since been discerned by scholars in the creation of the character of Justice Shallow, who makes his appearance in the second part of "Henry IV" and "The Merry Wives of Windsor," and whose prototype they have believed Sir Thomas to have been.

Now, however, Dr. Hotson, after an investigation of the court records of Elizabeth's time, the account of which is as exciting as the most ingenious of detective thrillers, has come upon evidence which leads him to believe that William Gardiner, justice of the peace in Bermondsey, and not Lucy, was the rogue and villain Shakespeare had in mind when he created the much disputed character of Justice Shallow. The details of the discovery of the Gardiner arms with their "silver luces," which had so often set commentators wrongly on the trail of Sir Thomas Lucy, engrossed on a communion cup in use to this day in a Bermondsey chapel, is the conclusion to a literary odyssey almost as gratifying as the ultimate revenge exacted in the Homeric poem. The musty records of the British Museum, the heraldic significance of silver fish and the ingenuity of Dr. Hotson have produced a story at once accurate and romantic and have forever dissociated the Warwickshire magnate from the character of Justice Shallow.

Whether or not Dr. Hotson's discovery tends to cast doubt on the authenticity of the deer poaching legend of Rowe and the archdeacon by destroying the theory of internal evidence of enmity between the poet and the baronet is not of particular importance. What does matter is that Dr. Hotson has executed a brilliant bit of detective work in tracing the true original of a Shakespeare character and in reconstructing the background of a few important years of the poet's life.

POST HASTE.

China and Japan should have a look at the love feast in Berlin and get together.

Ambassador Forbes says "the Japanese feel deeply hurt over our immigration restrictions." There are others. And it is rumored a few don't like our tariff.

The Episcopalians compromise on divorce, France and Germany on closer union, the Legion on bonus and beer, China and Japan on war, Hindus and Moslems on something. Necessity is the pother of contention.

Senator McKellar told a Tennessee audience that "unless something is done and done quickly, the United States is likely to have a receiver instead of a President," so he announced that "at the very earliest possible moment I will vote for a cash payment of the remaining part of the bonus."

We hate to think it, but a few are going to be terribly disappointed that plans for winter relief of unemployment are working out so well.

Legion post-convention debate has developed equal splits among both Democrats and Republicans on the beer issue. If prohibition can't be taken out of politics it looks as though the parties would be able to pair votes before election.

Here is work for Walter Gifford. A late census shows that only 51 per cent of the families in California have radios.

Japan, with a little private war on hand that she says does not concern the League of Nations hasn't time just now to consider the Gandhi armament truce.

American Legion members hereabouts are a little bit peeved over the non-bonus action at Detroit, so they will ease pent-up feelings by building a combination air field, golf course and clubhouse near the Capital.

Mexico pretends to be friendly, but it now develops that her cotton crop is 25 per cent larger than last year's.

A senator remarked that Calvin Coolidge had lost none of his canniness since leaving the White House. Well, none of those correspondents who journeyed up to New England secured a renewal of "I do not choose to run," but the Tuesday Satidy Evening Post has a million-dollar article to that effect. PAUL HUDSON.

Unfair to Japan.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

With the United States and the League of Nations anxious to have Japan and China adjust their difficulties in Manchuria arising out of the action of Japanese troops at Mukden and other points, it is no great help to have Senator Borah publicly charge that Japan has "violated every international law." Both the League Council and Secretary of State Stimson have been most careful not to give the appearance of bringing undue pressure to bear on Japan. Senator Borah is talking irresponsibly when he asserts that all the wrongs of this case are on one side and all the rights on the other.

JUST FOLKS

IMAGINARY ILLS.

Whene'er a printed tract I read
Concerning pain and human ills,
By night I always find I need
The recommended course of pills.
When I with doctors chance to be
And hear them glibly talk of gout,
Imagination breeds in me
The very pain they've told about.
Now let them lecture to themselves.
Henceforth I shall not seek to know
The secrets on the doctors' shelves.
In ignorance I'd rather go.
I'm done with "spots before the eyes!"
And twinges 'neath the shoulder blade.
This thinking I am symptom-wise
A nervous wreck of me has made.
I've learned my lesson! I am sure,
From past experiences sad,
The ills most difficult to cure
Were those I merely thought I had.

A Free Man Can't Burn His Own House If Fire Endangers the Neighbors

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHETHER you are a farmer, a dentist or a stenographer, your prosperity depends on sane control and regulation of America's products.

The more wealth is produced, the more there is to divide; the more waste and loss are tolerated, the smaller your share of the profits.

Consider cotton. For many years cotton was America's chief export. That is, the sale of our surplus brought in foreign wealth—new wealth—to be divided among us. America had a virtual monopoly. Then the high price during and immediately following the war encouraged greater plantings in other countries; the world found almost half of its supply outside of America; cotton lands produced far more than the world could use, and the price dropped below the cost of production.

What is that to you? Millions of people, denied a profit, are unable to buy the thing on which you depend, directly or indirectly, for a living.

In a desperate and tardy effort to mend matters, laws are now being framed to prohibit the planting of cotton in America next year. They are State laws and therefore useless, for one State never knows what another will do. And even if the laws should be made uniform and effective, the net result would be to increase cotton acreage in other lands; give others the benefit of any increase in price and permanently sacrifice America's market.

There can be no success in war without unified command, and this is war—war against waste and loss and poverty.

Producers of cotton, wheat and oil need the kind of cooperation that can be assured only by Federal control.

Was liberty destroyed when the law told radio stations when and how they could broadcast? When the law told railroads where and how they could compete? When the law required destruction of crops harboring insect pests? When the law prohibited unfair combinations in restraint of trade? When the law regulated traffic?

Showing men how to make a profit isn't a trespass on their liberties. Profit depends on cooperation; cooperation requires central direction and control; and the Government alone has power to make cooperation effective.

Traffic lights restrict liberty, but they also lessen the number of cripples.

PRO AND CON

Ignoring the Gangster.

Chicago Tribune.

Mayor Walker, returning from Europe, told an organization of newspaper men that if they would take the gangster off page one they would take him out of existence. Mr. Walker probably meant that it would remove the gangster as a nuisance in the life of a mayor. Gangsters aim to increase their profits and decrease their competitors. Publicity pays them nothing. They seek it about as avidly as J. P. Morgan seeks out the interviewers. Their political supporters have the same craving for public notice.

Page one is about the only deterrent the gangs encounter. Vivid publicity does occasionally make a city so hot that it must be allowed to cool off before business in crime can be as usual. The idea that the gangster lives to see his name in the paper in connection with the abrupt passing of some of his rivals, with a few children, policemen or innocent citizens, represents Mr. Walker at his funniest if not at his best.

Brookhart, the Sniper.

Mason City (Iowa) Globe-Gazette.

Senator Brookhart is quoted as saying President Hoover "should not run" for reelection next year. That may be the way the colonel feels about it, but we seriously doubt whether that is the way Iowa Republicans feel. Three years ago Senator Brookhart was beating the prairies with a song of praise for the President. Many accepted the President on the senator's recommendation, it is to be assumed. Within a month after the Hoover inauguration, the Brookhart repudiation and sniping program had begun. The reason for it was not then and is not now apparent. Mr. Hoover is still the same Mr. Hoover; it was the colonel who changed. Mr. Brookhart once read himself out of the party—with disastrous results. One wonders if he is not now about to repeat the performance.

Democratic Straws.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The fourth presidential preference poll sponsored by Mr. Jesse I. Straus, a prominent New York Democrat, among influential members of his party again shows a majority favoring Gov. Roosevelt, who led in the three previous straw votes. This poll was taken among industrial directors in every State except New York. Of the 1,000 replies received, Gov. Roosevelt had 405 votes to 288 for Mr. Owen D. Young and 114 for former Gov. Smith. The remainder were scattered among seven other potential candidates.

The significance of these results is weakened by the fact that they were received before the movement for Mr. Young declined and that for former Secretary of War Baker gained momentum. Mr. Baker, who received a total of only 91 votes, is now regarded as the strongest candidate next to Gov. Roosevelt for the Democratic nomination.

There are other minor factors, such as the candidacy of former Senator Reed, of Missouri, which likewise may alter the picture presented by these polls.

Offensive Politics.

Sioux Falls (S. Dak.) Argus-Leader.

A moratorium on cheap politics would be a wonderful relief. There is no way of forcing the gutter politicians to remain silent, of course, but they may learn before many months have passed that their tactics are offensive to the American people. Rational discussion of governmental and economic issues is desirable in both good and bad times and there can be no opposition to such arguments. The thought that sane political controversy should be eliminated is not in accord with the principles of free discussion upon which the success of our Government has been based. But there is a wide difference between honest election arguments and cheap politics. Let's have much of the former and little of the latter.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Wet Contends That Congress Has Authority to Legalize Liquor in Spite of Eighteenth Amendment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: May I be permitted to take exception to your editorial in The Post of September 23 entitled: "Beer—Nothing Doing?"

In effect you say that the wets have convinced themselves that the legalization of 3 per cent beer can be accomplished by an amendment to the national prohibition act declaring that such beer is not intoxicating. Is not that the exact truth?

The eighteenth amendment prohibits the manufacture and distribution of intoxicating beverages, but it does not say just what beverages are intoxicating and what are not. The definition of what is intoxicating has been left to Congress.

Unless I have been misinformed, the Supreme Court has rendered a decision to the effect that Congress has power to fix any standard for intoxicants it pleases; and that such standard, however fallacious in fact, shall be accepted as the standard in law.

By act of Congress the standard for intoxicants has been fixed at one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol; which standard is utterly arbitrary and absurd. Yet this arbitrary and fallacious standard is "the law of the land."

It would not be a nullification of the Constitution if Congress, by amending the present law, should fix a new standard for intoxicants, which has some respect for truth and reason. HUGH B. ROSSELL.

Dr. Wilson's Attack on American Legion Arouses Ire of Virginia Protestant.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The castigation of the American Legion for its 100 per cent Americanism by Dr. Clarence True Wilson is entirely unworthy of the space and prominence given it by the press of the Nation. It is by no means the first time he has given vent to his narrow-minded view and gone off half-cocked on the prohibition question.

The Legion did no more than to ask that the views of the American people on the question be ascertained. Why should Dr. Wilson or any other sane person, regardless of his personal views and convictions, oppose the unquestionable right of the citizens of this country to express their views on this or any other question? His entirely unwarranted attack on the Legion proves that he himself believes that if the people are once given the opportunity to express their views on the prohibition question the vote will be overwhelmingly in favor of modification or repeal. The dry fanatics are afraid of this, and whenever any intelligent citizens or organized body of patriotic Americans advocate the submission of this question to the voters they are branded as "drunks" and as being unrepresentative.

As a Protestant I feel quite certain that Dr. Wilson is not representative of the Protestant churches and that their members greatly regret and disapprove of his un-Christian attack upon the American Legion.

A VIRGINIAN.

Former Soldier Berates Reformers Who Try to Regulate the Lives of Others.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The bersking of the American Legion, of organized labor, of the American bar, the American Medical Association, and of individuals who dare to disagree with their doctrines by members of fanatical reform bodies clearly illustrates the dangerous paranoid tendencies of those who lead these agencies. It is the same unholy zeal that lighted the fires of Torquemado's Inquisition and burned witches in Salem.

One can not but wonder at a civilization where men in the sacred name of religion extract pennies from Sunday school children that they may wax fat in an attempt to be mentors of human conduct. One may well inquire just how long a nation will endure that permits religious watch towers to shadow the Capitol Building and exert their influence on spineless politicians who draw the salary of legislators.

Perhaps in building a sarcophagus to the Unknown Soldier we have just exalted "another drunk." Two million of us went to France for no other purpose than to get "likkered" up on high-powered spirits. Well, all right—if war comes again why not let all the purists fight it?

NONDRINKER.

Correspondent Thinks Building and Repair Work Would Be Stimulated if Union Wages Were Reduced.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It appears that The Post favors high tariffs and high wages, irrespective of what the effect may be on economic conditions of the country and citizens generally. You take the position that these "highs" should go hand in hand.

What do you believe the effect would be should the bricklayers, stone-masons, carpenters, lathers, plasterers, in fact all organized unions, come out for a 25 per cent reduction of their present wages? Don't you really believe such would stimulate building and repair activities, thereby giving employment to many who are now walking the streets? Don't you believe that there are many, many persons right here in Washington, and elsewhere, who would consider having houses painted, repairs made, paper hanging and other waiting jobs attended to? In my own case—and I know others who feel the same way—I will not pay the outrageous wages these organized labor unions demand for members. Money rates, rents, food, clothing and everything have come down and come down to stay awhile except wages demanded by the labor unions.

HOMER LEWIS.

JAPAN SAYS HARBIN DESIRES REPUBLIC

Largest Manchurian City Is Reported in Favor of Independence.

Tokyo, Sept. 27 (A.P.).—Dispatches received here, but lacking complete confirmation, asserted today that political factions in Manchuria were seeking to overthrow Gov. Chang Hsueh-Liang and set up a state independent of China.

A move was reported afoot by Chinese of Mukden to make the provinces of Mukden, Kirin, Heilungkiang, Jehol and Mongolia an independent republic. A commission was said to have been formed to plan secession from the Nationalist government at Nanking.

Minister of War Minami, it was said, informed the Japanese cabinet that Harbin, largest city of Manchuria, desired independence for Manchuria and had appointed a committee headed by Gen. Chang Chin-Hui to protect foreigners at Harbin.

White Russians Aid Move.

A Mukden dispatch to the Rengo News Agency said white (anti-Soviet) Russians had become active for an independent state in northwestern Manchuria, bordering Siberia. There they have large farming, cattle and dairying interests.

These reports have been circulated since Japanese troops occupied cities of southern Manchuria after clashing with Chinese troops.

The Japanese have insisted they hold no territorial aspirations in Manchuria and would soon withdraw within the zone of the Japanese-owned South Manchurian Railway. The League of Nations and the American Government have proposed that China and Japan settle their differences amicably by negotiation.

Chang Still in Hospital.

While his enemies seek to undermine him in Manchuria, Chang remains at the Rockefeller Hospital in Peiping, capital of Chihli Province, of which he is also governor as ally of the Nanking government. Chang has been in the hospital several weeks, his condition uncertain.

Thirty years old, Chang has had a military career since he joined the army of his father, Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, dictator of Manchuria. The son was then 19 and has seen much army strvice.

When Chang Tso-Lin was killed in June, 1928, in an explosion which wrecked his train while entering Mukden, the son took over his powers.

As reward for his aid in putting down rebellion a year ago in northern China the Nationalist government made him vice commander in chief of its forces, and he has administered Chihli as well as Manchuria.

Soviet Chief of Motor Construction Is Dead

Moscow, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The death of M. S. Mikhailovikanov, director of all tractor and automobile construction in the Soviet republic, was revealed by the press today as having occurred Sunday in Stalingrad.

The director, who was also a member of the presidium of the supreme economic council, died from typhus three days after he speeded up the Stalingrad tractor plant to a record production of 100 machines a day. He was 37 years old. The body will be brought to Moscow and will lie in state in the hall of columns pending funeral arrangements.

A new lease on life

THAT'S what you sign when you register at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall! Salt air, good food, exercise and sound sleep are clauses in the lease. A million dollars' worth of furnishings for your comfort, a thousand servants trained to make your stay pleasant. And this is one lease you can sign very profitably right now, for new low 1931 rates are in effect. May we quote them to you?

Two Virginia Cities Gain in Population

Native Whites Increase in Numbers in Richmond and Norfolk.

(Associated Press.)

Following the trend of the State at large, Richmond and Norfolk were shown in census reports yesterday to have increased in native white population and decreased in foreign born.

Richmond's native white population of 112,937 in 1930 jumped 11.4 per cent to 125,835 in 1930. The total of foreign born dropped from 4,637 to 4,046, or 12.7 per cent, in the ten-year period.

There were 81,175 native whites in Norfolk in 1930, as compared with 65,639 in 1920, an increase of 23.7 per cent.

Laura Ingalls to Seek New York-Havana Mark

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A 26-year-old Brooklyn girl decided today to try wrest one of Capt. Frank Hawk's speed records from him.

Miss Laura Ingalls, who recently abandoned a plan to fly the Atlantic, said she would take off in a week or so on a round-trip nonstop flight between New York and Havana.

Jack Pickford Improves.

Hollywood, Calif., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Jack Pickford, film actor and brother of Mary Pickford, who has been critically ill for several days, passed a comfortable night and showed signs of improvement today, it was announced at the Pickford residence. The actor is suffering from complications following a severe cold.

Michigan Wants Trains To Keep Up With Clocks

(Associated Press.)

Michigan wants the trains to keep up with the clocks in the State.

The State Legislature had the clocks run up an hour to Eastern standard time in a law fixing that as the legal time for the State. But the railroads have continued to operate on Central time.

Attorney General Voorhies asked the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday to declare the State in the Eastern time zone and thus require the railroads to keep pace with the State. Previously only Detroit has been in the Eastern time zone.

Yukon Gold Seekers Rush to New Strike

White Horse, Yukon, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—A rush of gold seekers from all parts of Yukon and Alaska was on today following discovery of gold at Livingtown Creek on the head waters of the Big Salmon River in southern Yukon. Mining men from Juneau, Skagway, White Horse, Dawson and other Yukon points are hurrying to the scene to stake ground.

From an open cut which Tom Koloff, White Horse, uncovered, quartz ore, assaying from a trace to $70 in gold to the ton, has been taken.

Canada Closes U. S. Offices.

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Offices of the Canadian department of trade and commerce at Chicago and San Francisco, will be closed "in view of trade conditions and urgent needs for new economies," Robert S. O'Meara, Canadian trade commissioner here, announced today.

More Relics Found At Andree's Camp

Oslo, Norway, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Additional discoveries at the last camp of the Arctic balloon expedition of Prof. Salomon Andree on White Island were reported today.

Gustav Doebler, a restaurant manager, said a ship on which he was acting as chef this summer stopped at the island for two hours and that he and other passengers visited Andree's camp. They found a small camera, a knitted cap, a windproof cap and a small human bone.

Doebler said they saw the skin of a polar bear which they believed the explorers had killed and partly eaten and expressed the opinion other articles could be found.

Our Linoleum Shop is Showing

Armstrong's Ten New Shaded Embossed Linoleums

For use in sunrooms, offices, stores, pantries, kitchens, breakfast rooms, bathrooms, nurseries, recreation rooms, and public places.

Our new shipment now being shown includes Armstrong's Fall 1931 patterns, in soft, rich, harmoniously blending colors embossed to give a depth and texture equal to Old World floorcraft. Also Straightline inlaid linoleums, marbleized effects, marbleized tile patterns, flagstone, modernistic, and brick and tile effects. Five features of Armstrong Linoleum superiority:

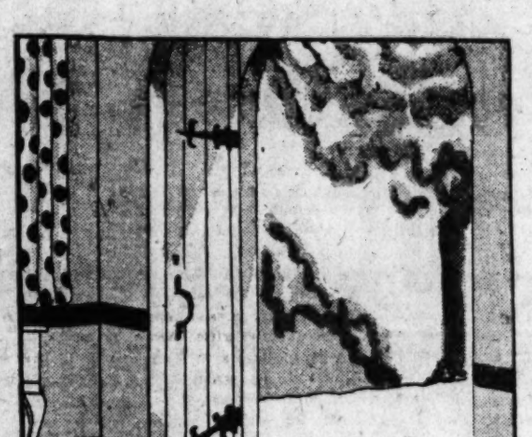
1. All tiles are beautifully shaded, not marked by sharp lines.
2. All shaded effects go clear through to the back.
3. Interliners are a pleasing mottled gray that does not readily show dust and dirt.
4. No sharp edges in the embossing—thus enabling greater speed and ease in waxing, polishing, and relacquering.
5. Satin smoothness of surface—a smoother, denser surface than has ever been achieved in moulded linoleum.

A Gauge Linoleums, $2.75 square yard.
B Gauge Linoleums, $2.25 square yard.
Lighter Weight Linoleums, $1.50 square yard.

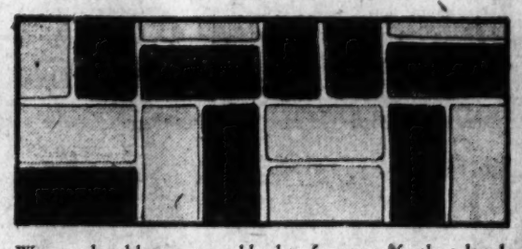
Our Own Skilled Workmen
Will Lay the Linoleum

Floors covered with cork-filled linoleum, and laid by our time-tested Woodward & Lothrop method have proved to be the most satisfactory. We lay monogrammed floors and make special and elaborate designs in floor coverings to suit your interior. Call DIstrict 5300—and we will gladly call and estimate the cost of your contemplated work.

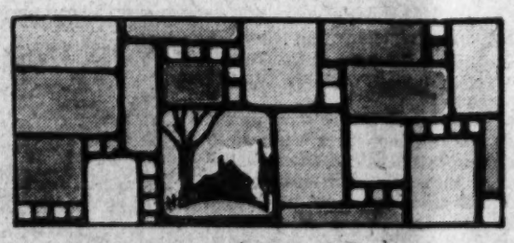
LINOLEUMS, FIFTH FLOOR



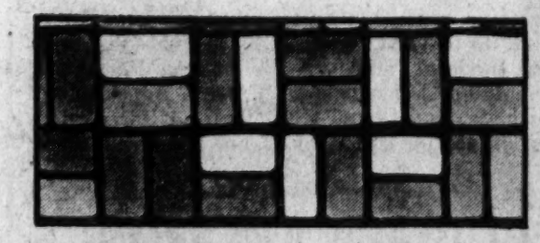
You may choose this pattern in cool green tones or the more vivid red. A small tile pattern with conventionally designed insets in contrasting colors. Armstrong's B Gauge Linoleum, $2.25 square yard



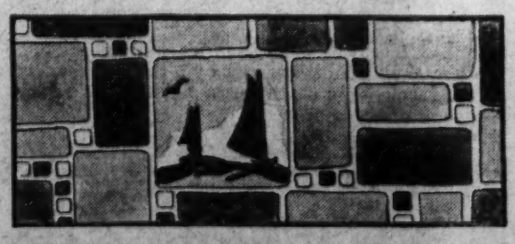
Warm red and brown tones blend to form a perfectly colored impression of a brick flooring. A conventional pattern that will be much used in halls and public places. Armstrong's A Gauge Linoleum ..... $2.75 square yard



A multi-colored linoleum in soft, deep colors inset with a quaint landscape in silhouette. A most appropriate design for a sunroom, porch, or library. Armstrong's A Gauge Linoleum ..... $2.75 square yard

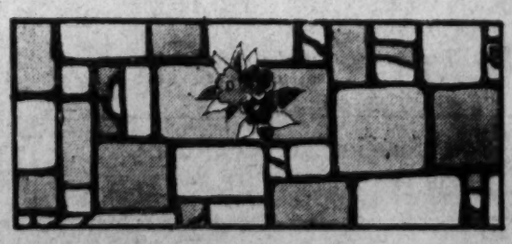


Shaded Embossed Linoleum in three colorings—a soft pastel effect predominantly blue and rose (very smart in the new "pastel kitchens"),—a warm red, rose, and brown—and a shaded green and orange. A Gauge Armstrong's Linoleum, $2.75 square yard



A delightful pattern, ideal in a recreation room or play room and in unusual color combinations. Deep orchid, gray, tan, orange, and black with an inset showing two gay sailing boats. Armstrong's A Gauge Linoleum ..... $2.75 square yard

RUGS AND LINOLEUMS, FIFTH FLOOR



Charming for a nursery or informal bedroom . . . this quaint pattern is reminiscent of hooked rugs and pine chairs. Choose from a rose, blue, and tan or lavender, green, and beige combination . . . both with a gay nosegay in pale orange, blue, and green. Armstrong's B Gauge Linoleum .... $2.25 square yard

Fur Coats

Quite logical, too, that smart young Washingtonians should be choosing their fur coats here—because, knowing just what sort of fur coats these smart, young, modern women want—we have a very good collection ready. Example—the copy of Bruyere in a very chic and very popular spotted fur, with black lapin (rabbit) collar and cuffs—not forgetting the black suede belt that gives the smart pinched-in waist. $235. This is but one of the group that includes spotted furs—with terribly smart lines—muskrat, black pony, lapin (rabbit) in all the lovely, flattering brown-tan tones—raccoon, and leopard, too.

You really must see them to know all the smart details of lines, collars, sleeves and belts—and, now that "economy is quite smart socially"—you will find our prices most interesting—

Fur Coats, $95 to $350

Vassar Girls From Capital Await Study

Opening of Institution Has Been Postponed Until October 7.

School is going to keep this semester at Vassar College, despite that the opening has been postponed twice, owing to the epidemic of infantile paralysis in the East. First scheduled for September 18, the opening was later postponed until September 25, and now classes will not begin until the morning of October 7. So, at the present time, Washington girls who are enrolled as students at Vassar are busy preparing wardrobes for school days, and incidentally enjoying a last fling before settling down to their studies.

Heading the coterie of Washington girls who will leave shortly for the college is Miss Carolyn Payne, daughter of the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Frederick H. Payne, who will leave October 6 for Poughkeepsie. She will join her parents in Washington for Thanksgiving holidays and for the Christmas vacation, when she will be presented to society at a tea dance, December 19, at the Mayflower, resuming her studies the first of the year.

Other Vassar students are Miss Virginia Cheatham, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Cheahtam; Miss Rosalind Deakyne, daughter of Brig. Gen. Herbert Deakyne, U. S. A.; Miss Sarah Louise Snell, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Bertram Snell; Miss Mary Wing, daughter of Mrs. David L. Wing, who is principal of the Madeira School; Miss Charlotte Partridge, Miss Janet Wright, Miss Margaret Jameson, Miss Virginia Flannery, Miss Elizabeth Maddern, Miss Clifford Watson, who will enroll as a freshman; Miss Alice McDaniel and Miss Mary Elizabeth West.

Two Washington girls will spend their junior year studying in Spain. They are Miss Elizabeth Brereton and Miss Elizabeth Breckinridge.

Presumably the festivities which were arranged for the opening of Vassar September 26 will be held as scheduled when college commences in October. The Vassar Alumnae Association, of which Mrs. Percival Hart is president, will give a tea at Vassar House, in the Diana court, for the new students and the girls who are returning for their sophomore, junior and senior years. Last June's graduates will be asistant hostesses.

Ambassador of Chile Host to Envoys.

The Ambassador of Chile, Senor Don Miguel Crushaga, entertained at tea yesterday afternoon at the embassy from 5 to 7 o'clock, when his guests were the heads of foreign missions and their wives, and members of the embassy and legation staffs.

The Governor General of the Philippines, Mr. Dwight F. Davis, will take a leave of absence from his duties some time after the close of the Insular Legislature in November and will visit Mrs. Davis, who is recuperating in Paris. The Governor General probably will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Cynthia Davis, who is his hostess in Manila, and they, of course, will visit Washington before their return to the islands.

Rear Admiral Julian L. Latimer, Mrs. Latimer and their daughter, Miss Laura Latimer, passed through town yesterday on the way to their home in Charleston, W. Va., from Boston, where they have been staying.

Col. and Mrs. Frank Elbridge Webb have returned from New England, where they have been guests of the Gov. Ely of Massachusetts. They attended a gathering of all the New England governors while there. They have traveled through New England for the last ten days.

Maj. and Mrs. John C. F. Lee have leased the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Tierney at 2815 Woodland drive and will take possession tomorrow. Mr. Tierney will spend most of the winter in West Virginia and Mrs. Tierney will be with her sister, Miss Bessie Hickey, and her niece, Miss Jocelyn Hibbard.

Mr. John K. Caldwell, chief of the Far Eastern division in the Department of State, will sail today from New York for Europe.

Dr. and Mrs. Edmund Horgan are at the Shoreham Hotel, where they have taken an apartment.

The American Consul at Leipzig, Germany, Mr. Ralph C. Busser, and Mrs. Busser are at the Powhatan.

Mrs. J. W. Newman, of Washington, has leased the Princeton home of Mrs. William O. Hughart, jr., of Grand Rapids, Mich., who before her recent marriage was Mrs. Robert Johnston, of Princeton.

Underwood & Underwood.

MISS VIRGINIA CHEATHAM, daughter of Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Cheatham, will resume her studies at Vassar College this year. She made her debut in Washington two seasons ago.

Fish Home Is Reopened By Family

Representative Returns to Place Children at School.

Representative and Mrs. Hamilton Fish, jr., are again established in their house in Ashmead place after a summer's absence in the North. They made an early return to Washington to place their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Fish, in Holton Arms School, which opened the fall term on Monday. Little Hamilton Fish 3d also entered school here.

During the summer Mrs. Fish and their family were in Murray Bay, Canada, where, for some years, they have leased a cottage. She was joined there for a part of the summer holidays by Representative Fish, who divides his summers between Murray Bay and New York, where he likes to devote time to his father, Mr. Hamilton Fish. Representative Fish will return tomorrow from Schenectady, N. Y., where he went on Monday to make an address.

Mr. Silas Strawn, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, is a guest at the Shoreham. He will attend the fall board meeting of the Associated General Contractors of America, which will open today and continue for two days. Mr. Strawn will address the dinner meeting of the board tomorrow.

Grand Duchess Marie Arrives in New York.

The Grand Duchess Marie of Russia, who has been spending the summer in Paris and on the north coast of France, arrived in New York yesterday on the Ile de France and will again take up her residence in the metropolis. The Grand Duchess last winter visited Washington two or three times, motoring down with Mrs. William Brown Maloney, editor of the New York Herald Tribune Sunday magazine.

Mr. Walter Edge, jr., son of the Ambassador to France and Mrs. Edge, arrived in New York yesterday from a summer's stay with his parents in Paris.

Mrs. Montgomery Blair, jr., and her young daughter, Laura Beatrice Blair, have returned to their residence in Corcoran street to join Dr. Blair, after spending several months at Easthampton, Long Island. Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery Blair, sr., who are now in Easthampton, plan to spend the greater part of the winter season in Hot Springs, Va.

Capt. and Mrs. Adolphus Staton, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Blair, have come to Washington and have leased a house in Cleveland Park, where they will reside during Capt. Staton's tour of duty at the Army War College. Mrs. Staton, before her marriage, was Miss Edith Blair.

Former Representative and Mrs. S. Wallace Dempsey reached New York yesterday from Europe, where they spent the latter part of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Turlington, who have been in Havana a year, where Mr. Turlington has been serving in a legal capacity with the Ambassador to Cuba, Mr. Harry F. Guggenheim, will return to Washington in October and will again occupy their Georgetown house.

Capital Man To Be Married In New York

Washburne Wright Will Make Mabel Wilson Bride October 10.

The wedding of Miss Mabel Wilson, daughter of Mrs. C. Arthur Comstock, of 770 Park avenue, and of the late John C. Wilson, and Mrs. Washburne H. Wright, son of Mrs. Hamilton Wright, of Washington, will take place on October 10 in the Central Presbyterian Church, New York.

Miss Wilson, who will be escorted by her brother, Mr. Daniel L. Wilson, has chosen Mrs. Robert Phillips, jr., of Washington, for her matron of honor, and Miss Patricia Janss, of Los Angeles, a cousin, for her maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Susan Wigglesworth, of Milton, Mass.; Miss Natalie Ponvert and Miss Harriet Cox, of this city.

Mr. Hamilton Wright will be his brother's best man and the ushers will be Mr. William Cookman, Mr. John H. Pope, Mr. George Brewster Loud, Mr. Burton Lee, Mr. Gordon Brown and Mr. Thomas Wilson. A reception will follow at Sherry's.

Miss Wilson is a recent debutante and attended Miss Porter's School in Farrington, Conn., and is a member of the New York Junior League.

Mr. Wright, who was graduated from Yale in the class of '29, is a grandson of the late Senator William Drew Washburne and great-nephew of Elihu B. Washburne, Secretary of State and Minister to France, and of Gov. Cadwallder Washburne and Gov. Israel Washburne, jr. His family has been closely associated with the history of the country since Colonial days, Mr. Wright being a direct descendant of Gov. Bradford and Winslow. Three of his great uncles served in Congress at the same time from three different States.

Mr. Wright's uncle, Maj. Stanley Washburne, noted war correspondent for the London Times, married Miss Alice Langhorne, of Virginia, cousin of Lady Astor. His youngest sister, Miss Leslie Livermore Wright, who has recently returned from school in England, will make her debut this winter.

Mrs. Tracy Dows and daughter, Miss Deborah Dows, are expected in Washington soon from New York, where they docked yesterday after spending some time in Europe.

Judge and Mrs. Wilbur R. Turner are at their apartment at 2400 Sixteenth street, after passing the summer in the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania. They closed their house in Casco Bay, Me., early in the season, preferring this year a season in the mountains.

Mr. Archibald Welles has gone to Chicago and Kansas City, where he will spend three weeks, returning then to Washington.

Mrs. Green, wife of Capt. R. K. Green, of Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex., is the guest of Mrs. Waldo Ickes, at the Chalfonte.

Miss Caroline Miller, daughter of Mrs. Archibald Miller, and the late Col. Miller, U. S. A., has resumed her studies at Gunston Hall School.

Former Envoy To Italy Wed In Newport

Richard Washburn Child Takes Mrs. Everson as His Bride.

Mr. Richard Washburn Child, former Ambassador to Italy and widely known author, and Mrs. Dorothy Gallagher Everson were married at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Gallagher, in Newport, R. I., on Monday night. The bride has been a secretary in the Child family for some time.

Judge Hugh B. Baker, of the Rhode Island Superior Court, performed the ceremony in the presence of relatives of the couple. Mrs. Frederick Clifford was matron of honor and Joseph M. Gallagher, a brother of the bride, best man.

Mrs. Everson is Mr. Child's fourth wife. Their engagement was announced on September 6, but it was not known until shortly before the wedding that they were to be married at an early date.

Mr. Roy C. Hamm, of Chicago, is a guest at the Fairfax. He was host to a group of men there at dinner on Monday evening.

Mr. Clifford Berryman, chairman of the program committee of the Arts Club, announces an "experience meeting" for tomorrow night, when members of the club will be asked to tell of their summer activities and adventures, with the chairman of the literary and dramatic committees acting as judges. At the close of the evening, Mr. Berryman will present a silver cup, in the name of the Arts Club, to the member adjudged the best story teller of the evening.

Mrs. Clarence Crittenden Calhoun, who has been the guest of Mrs. H. R. Butler, in New York, left yesterday by motor for Springfield, Mass., to attend the wedding of her cousin, Mrs. Josephine Marr Witherspoon, and Mr. George W. Fable, of Germantown, Pa. Mrs. Calhoun will return to Washington at the end of the week.

Miss Priscilla Parker To Be Bridesmaid.

Miss Priscilla Parker, of Washington, will be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Margaret Murray Stump and Mr. Alexander Shaw, of Belair, Md., which will take place on Saturday, October 10, at noon in St. Margaret's Church, Emmorton, near Baltimore.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bertram North Stump, of Belair, and was presented to society several seasons ago at the first bachelors' cotillion. Mr. Shaw is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Shaw, of Belair, and is a graduate of Princeton.

The first fall meeting of the Washington Alliance of Delta Delta Delta Fraternity will take place tonight in the home of Mrs. Howard Hosmer on Reno road. Assisting Mrs. Hosmer will be Mrs. W. L. Fulton and Mrs. Theodore B. Nickson.

Miss Ruth Steidel Plitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Plitt, and Mr. George Holmes Dasher, son of Col. C. L. Dasher, U. S. N., and Mrs. Dasher, whose marriage will take place this afternoon, were entertained at the dinner dance Monday evening at the Shoreham Hotel by Miss Katherine Varela, whose guests numbered 16.

The marriage of Miss Plitt and Mr. Dasher will take place in the home of the bride's parents, in Edgemoor lane, in Edgemoor, Md., at 4 o'clock, and will be followed by an informal reception.

An October wedding of interest to Navy circles will take place in Cincinnati, Ohio, on October 8, when Miss Helena Margaret Sampson, daughter of Mrs. Frederick E. Sampson, 1392 Myrtle avenue, Cincinnati, and Mr. Robert Wills Greenslade, son of Capt. John Wills Greenslade, U. S. N., and Mrs. Greenslade, will be married. Miss Sampson and Mr. Greenslade are now visiting Capt. and Mrs. Greenslade at 3325 Rowland place. They will reside in Kilgore, Tex.

Second Debutante Supper Next Sunday.

Mrs. W. Wayne Wirgman will give a second of her series of informal suppers for debutantes next Sunday evening at her home in West Florence Court, the first having taken place last Sunday night, when she entertained a group of young people, including some of the debutantes of the season, for her daughter, Miss Atlee Wirgman, who will be presented in December.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther S. Cannon, of 125 Chestnut avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Susan Ruth Cannon, to Mr. Robert Miles Harris, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Good—and Lonesome.

DEAR Frances McDonald: I am one of those "good" girls. I'm 19 years old, have never had a date, never been kissed, never been to a dance, never even been given a lift by a young man, and I know a few (slightly) that own cars. The only men that give me a lift are married men, old enough to be my father. They tell me it seems good to find a young girl not always after the boys. One of them said he wished his daughter was more like me—and she calls me "dead!"

I don't know why I should be so unpopular. My hair is not stringy, I polish my nails, use rouge, and don't think a lipstick "an instrument of the evil one," although I don't use one because I don't need it.

I never went to parties until this year and my mother was the one who urged me to go. I only go to the socials they have at our church, but although I have fun I was scared stiff at first. I get a thrill out of things most girls of 19 think nothing of. I nearly always spring something that everybody laughs at and calls me "a scream," although half the time I don't even know what they're laughing at.

I went to art school and got acquainted with a few of the girls, but the boys didn't know I existed. The teacher was always pointing me out as a good example, being conscientious and so forth. The other girls pleased the boys. I pleased the teacher. The funny part of it is I may seem dead to some of them, but they don't know I'm a saxophone player. I'm not a "ham" player. I've played over radio. Only about six of my friends (all girls), have heard me play. They thought it a great joke that I should be a saxophone player, but after they heard me play I haven't heard anything sarcastic about sax players, like I did before, but it was all in good fun.

It seems as if you can't get even the notice of the young men if you're "good," but you get the admiration of the older folks, their parents. And if you're popular with the boys the older folks don't think much of you. I suppose once I get to going to dances, &c., I'll find out what I'm missing and I won't be satisfied to be so quiet, but I'm young yet, as my mother says. When I'm 21, I think, will be time enough to begin "stepping out." LOU.

And by the time you are 21, Lou, you may have learned how to camouflage your general competence, and look helpless when big strong men are near. Ask advice on your art work, seek help from some male sax player, and apparently bloom under his expert tutelage. Woman since time began has been two-timing man at his own game and leading him meekly to the altar by the simple process of seeming to need his manly strength and god-like wisdom, and efficiency. It is a lot easier than playing the sax over the radio. It is really just a matter of getting over the idea of hating yourself for looking sidewise out of the corners of your eyes and blinking your lashes at big handsome brutes. But once you get the habit you will never go back to the dull business of merely being competent. Brains are great. Cleopatra was a brainy women, but by the time Anthony discovered it, who cared?

The really clever woman is the one who makes a man feel able to fight his weight in wild cats, and not the one who makes him feel like an ant who has attracted the attention of a spider.

Blink your lashes, Lou, and learn what Cleopatra knew by instinct—that no man is greater than he sees himself in the eyes of woman, and no woman a complete success until she has learned to subjugate man.

Blink hard!

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

MULCHING MATERIALS.

There is no special date when we should cover up our plants, because the time depends on the condition of the soil and also the locality in which your particular garden happens to be, but, generally speaking, the ground should be well frozen before you apply a mulch.

Perhaps the most important of the three reasons for a mulch is that it will prevent alternate freezing and thawing. So often this happens in the late winter when a few warm days are followed by more zero weather. The second reason for mulching is that such a covering is sure to prevent the winter winds from drying out the ground. Then the third reason is that a mulch provides immediate food for the plants when they start into growth in early spring.

In the case of the rock garden it is wise to provide a sufficient covering to prevent the plants, especially those set out this year, from being thrown entirely out of the ground. The second season these plants will be better established and may not require so much protection. Plants in damp soil are more susceptible to heaving, therefore must be covered several inches deep.

Evergreens which are exposed to the sun must be well mulched. Do not apply an especially heavy mulch, but rather a light covering. For these low-growing shrubs use a covering of pine boughs, oak leaves, straw or peat moss.

Never use manure about the roots of plants which are susceptible to blight. Peonies and delphiniums are among this group. One well-known authority tells us to work a handful of bonemeal into the soil about the roots of these plants and then, after the first frost, to apply a mulch of leaves or cornstalks.

You will need to give only a very light mulch to any perennials that are evergreen. Shasta daisies, hollyhocks, sweet williams and canterbury bells will need only the lightest covering.

Never use maple leaves or even elm leaves for mulching purposes, as these leaves have a tendency to form a soggy mass, and they may cause the foliage or roots of the plants with which they come in contact to decay. Peat moss and leafmold make excellent mulching materials and have one advantage, that they are not apt to be blown away with heavy winds.

Do not rake and burn all leaves from your lawn in November, but keep in mind that they are a natural protection and should be permitted to remain. It is especially wise to let them drift about the shrubbery border.

Jane Interprets the Mode

New York, Sept. 29.

IS a lovely lady ever high-hat? Wel-l-l-l, she never was before last week, but now that last week has come and brought with it the news that only high-hat ladies will be smart ladies these days, what can she do?

No foolin' though—Paris suddenly woke up to the fact that the shallow, flat little hats that disported themselves in so wholesale a fashion all over the world just weren't appropriate to the rest of the "romantic era" silhouette. The hats that did complement this fashion were high hats. And naturally, having made that interesting discovery, Paris started to work on it subtly but firmly.

For instance, the first step was to raise the line of the trimming on the Second Empire hats toward the top of the crown. Then, feathers and bows were applied to the hats at definitely upstanding angles. And the last step before the definite announcement by Paris that the hats themselves would be created on higher lines was the putting on of feathers that stood right straight up in the air, looking as though any stray breezelet would waft them away, but sticking on securely just the same.

But now the hats themselves are growing tall, especially in the crown, and with trimmings that make them look even higher than they are. This is proper directoire style, and in keeping with the present-day costumes—but not too easy to wear. So, discriminate, my deahs, discriminate!

* * * *

There's a dignity and quiet charm about an autumn wedding, utterly in keeping with the season, that is never encountered in June's crop of weddings. Then laces and ruffles and posies were the order of things—but wouldn't they be out of place in golden autumn days? And autumn's bride may have a distinctive beauty all her own. Today's bride that I have illustrated for you is wearing a gown of heavy, ivory satin, classically simple, the bodice with a softly draped cowl neck and the skirt's slender silhouette given by deep inverted pleats. This skirt extends to a simple train and there are long sleeves, with wide, turned-down cuffs. The strass, laurel-leaf girdle is another classical touch. 'N' the stately bride's veil is of ivory tulle, entirely untrimmed, and falls from a Grecian fillet of strass leaves.

The dignified, Junoesque woman is wise if she waits for an autumn wedding, for then the kind of gown most suited to her particular charms is beautifully appropriate to the season. Not that many Junoesque women are going to wait for an October wedding if the men of their dreams propose in April!

A bag, to be a bag worth talking about today, must have lots 'n' lots of personality—and must be of velvet! Aside from that, it doesn't do any harm for your bag to know a few little sophistries that raise it above the level of common or garden or $20 bag varieties! And then, when you consider that you can make the bag yourself, easily and quickly and at very little expense, you'll see just why you should dash off your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Post for this week's leaflet!

Au revoir!

A TEMPTING FALL MENU.

Baked Ham and Pears
Baked Potatoes
Biscuit Butter
Stuffed Tomato Salads
Vanilla Wafer Dessert Coffee

Baked Ham and Pears.

2 pounds ham
1 cup water
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
6 pears
¼ cup brown sugar

Have ham cut 1-inch thick. Fit into baking pan and add the water and spices. Cover and bake 1 hour. Peel pears and arrange around ham. Sprinkle with the sugar. Cover and bake 30 minutes. Baste frequently. If canned pears are used they need to cook but 15 minutes.

Stuffed Tomato Salads.
(Serving 6)

6 large tomatoes
1 cup chopped cabbage
½ cup chopped celery
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1 tablespoon chopped onions
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup salad dressing

Wash and peel tomatoes. Chill. Remove part of pulp and seeds. Mix 4 tablespoons of dressing with the cabbage and seasonings. Stuff tomato cases. Arrange on lettuce and top with remaining dressing.

Vanilla Wafer Dessert.
(Serving 6)

36 vanilla wafers
2 cups whipped cream
½ cup coconut
½ cup red cherries, chopped
3 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla

Mix cream, coconut, cherries, sugar and vanilla. Spread on half the wafers. Arrange six wafers for each portion by placing on top of each other. Arrange on plate and chill two hours or longer. When ready to serve spread top and sides with more cream and serve at once. This is an ice box cake and very easy to make.

When cleaning in gasoline, place pan containing gasoline in pan of hot water. This heats gasoline and makes it more effective in cleaning work. Work outdoors.

Ohio College Puts Pupils on Probation

Cleveland (U.P.).—Undergraduates at Adelbert College of Western Reserve University are now on "probation" during the first two years of their collegiate career, under a new policy adopted this year.

Freshmen and sophomores are considered provisional students, who must attain a certain standard if they are to continue their studies for a degree. If their endeavors fail, they will be asked to leave.

Burglar Halts Police With Carpet Tacks

When police here recently responded to a radio flash they were stopped en route to the scene by two flat tires.

Mother and Son Claim Record.

Fergus Falls, Minn. (U.P.).—David Driscoll, jr., New York, and his mother today claimed an all time speed record for automobile travel after driving 1,776 miles from his home to Battle Lake at an average speed of 57 miles an hour. They were stopped only once by a motorcycle policeman just outside of Chicago, but convinced him that they were not violating the speed laws. They wanted to see how fast it was possible to cross the eastern half of the continent on modern paved roads.

Good Sausage Linker Can Do Work of 40

Sandusky, Ohio (U.P.).—Something new in the way of a sausage linker has been devised by August Merk, who makes the little pork blimps.

Merk's contrivance links sausage in a series instead of individually, a mechanical improvement that will enable one first-class sausage linker to do the work of 40, the inventor maintains.

Duck Assumes Role Of Swimming Master

Philadelphia (U.P.).—Ring, a pet duck on the farm of Bert Brewin, a south Jersey farmer, has become swimming instructor to his flock of 400 chickens.

Last summer a group of little chickens watched Ring swim in the pond. Soon three or four tried the water. Now the entire flock takes a daily swim.

Huge Sunflower Blooms.

Portland, Oreg. (U.P.).—Iowa's tall corn has nothing on Oregon's sunflowers. A bloom in Mrs. W. H. Morris' flower garden grew to a height of 14 feet. It measured 15 inches in width.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

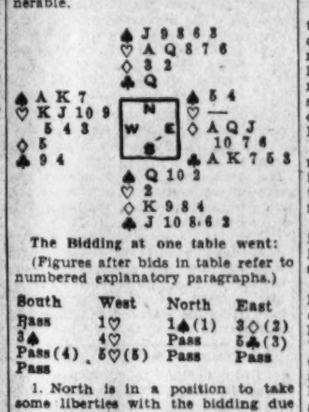
NON-FITTING HANDS.

IT is a pleasure to watch expert Contract players exchange information during the bidding with the purpose of arriving at the best contract. With normal hands and normal distribution the task is not unduly difficult, but when distribution has been playing pranks with the scattering of the suits and honor-tricks around the table it requires real expertness to avert catastrophe, even though the partnership holds the vast majority of the honor strength in the 52 cards.

In a recent national congress there was one hand that gave a great deal of trouble to almost every East and West pair holding it and this trouble seemed in no wise lessened because all the players engaged in the contest were known as experts through the fact that they had won one or more national championships at Bridge.

South, Dealer. East and West vulnerable.



The Bidding at one table went:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♡	1♠(1)	3◇(2)
3♠	4♡	Pass	5♣(3)
Pass(4)	5♡(5)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1. North is in a position to take some liberties with the bidding due to the nonvulnerability of his side.

2. Perhaps East is not greatly to be blamed for making a Forcing Takeout. He had reason to fear that the hands may prove a misfit, but North's "nuisance bid" may have dictated the showing of great strength on his two-suited holding despite the entire absence of his partner's bid suit.

3. East again is faced with a hard decision. Void of hearts, he fears a great disaster and hopes to find in the club suit a place where the two hands can be effectively combined.

4. Perhaps South was unduly timid or overcautious in failing to double the bid of five clubs. The exchange of bids between East and West should by now have made evidence to him that North must hold considerable heart strength and can double that bid.

5. Whether West should again rebid is an open question. However, he figures that there is a chance to make five hearts regardless of his partner's lack of heart support. If the heart losers can be held to two, East's clubs and diamonds and West's Ace and King of spades should count for the remaining tricks.

In play, this hand was defeated 2 tricks at five hearts, a penalty of 300 points. East and West can make game at notrump and this should probably be the final decision, although South's interference Raise renders reaching that contract almost impossible.

Without the Raise, the misfit nature of the hands could be disclosed as follows:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♡	1♠	3◇(1)
Pass	2♡(2)	Pass	3♣(3)
Pass	3NT(4)	Pass	Pass
Pass

1. East, although he holds a strong two-suiter, might be well advised to consider the future of any bid he makes. His hand is void of hearts; his partner's may be void of diamonds. The danger of the bidding stopping before reaching the best declaration is slight, even without a Forcing Takeout.

2. West, holding a seven-card suit, rebids to disclose that unusual holding. His partner's failure to jump the bid has left him sufficient sea room in which to navigate safely.

3. East now has completed the showing of the two-suited nature of his hand, all below the level of a game at notrump.

4. Technically West has another heart rebid, but he realizes that East could never bid notrump as he must lack stoppers in the spade suit. With West's holding in spades and East's diamond and club bids, North's strength in high honors must be largely concentrated in the heart suit. This suggests to West that there may be game in notrump and not at hearts. As a matter of fact, good play would produce a game at hearts with any other opening than the Singleton club, if East would permit West to play it at four hearts. With a club Opening the contract of four hearts would be defeated. At notrump, the Opening matters not at all. West must make five diamonds, two clubs and two spades for game, let North and South try as they may to prevent it.

TODAY'S POINTER.

The partner of the player who has opened the bidding is called the Responding Hand. The bids of the Responding Hand are largely based on information given and strength shown by the Opening bid. In consequence, even a slightly better than average share of honor strength or a favorable distribution in the Responding Hand warrants expectations of game.

PIVOT TOURNAMENTS.

With the end of the vacation season and the resumption of cool weather activities, Bridge lovers are seeking new ways to play their favorite game. From Mr. Edward W. Faith, of Mobile, Ala., comes a suggestion for an interesting form of Contract tournament.

"A great many players would play in tournaments but they dislike the features of progressing from table to table. This is especially true at public or semipublic affairs. There are usually more "parties" than tournaments, and yet the tournament feature of playing the same cards can be made applicable to a party where the players prefer to pivot at one table rather than progress from table to table. Most players participating in these public or semipublic affairs prefer to remain at the table with their friends, rather than progress to tables and play with strangers or bare acquaintances.

"To meet such a suggestion, the writer was recently asked to suggest a plan where there were to be 96 players, making 24 tables. The tournament was for a charitable benefit. The plan adopted was very simple and proved very attractive and was greatly enjoyed by the players. It was arranged that twelve games should be played, and in order to provide uniformity, prearranged hands were selected. The 24 tables were divided into two sections of twelve each. Each player at each table cut or selected a letter "A," "B," "X" or "Y," and throughout the tournament kept this designation. In order to have uniformity in pivoting, special tally cards were printed showing how the players would sit in playing each board. It was also provided that when playing boards 1, 5 and 9 no players were vulnerable, on boards 2, 6 and 10 East and West only were vulnerable; on boards 3, 7 and 11 North and South only were vulnerable; and on boards 4, 8 and 12 both sides were vulnerable. The schedule was so arranged that each player played with the other players four times, once neither side vulnerable, once adversaries vulnerable, once that player's side vulnerable, and once both sides vulnerable. By having the players designated by letter and the tally cards giving the compass position of each player on each separate game, the result was that the players designated "A" were in competition with each other, the "B" players in competition with the "B's," and "X" and "Y" likewise in competition only with players of similar designation. In this way four individual prizes could be given. In the actual play this "Pivot" tournament was very successful."

BRIDGE FOR THE TITLED.

In these days when thrones are tottering and waiters in restaurants may be grand dukes, activities of those bearing titles excite little comment. However, an interesting item of news comes from London, where Lady Doris Rhodes has opened a Contract Bridge school at 19 Upper Grosvenor street in the heart of the fashionable West End, where reside many of those bearing distinguished titles.

Lady Rhodes in starting her school limited the size of classes to four persons. A preliminary course of six lessons is designed for beginners. Bridge teaching as a profession has an acknowledged place in the United States, but it is only recently that it has made any progress whatever in England.

Lady Rhodes' Contract Bridge School was opened last June and she states that the attendance has been such as to make certain its permanent success.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF September 30 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 1 p. m. to 3:10 p. m., and from 7:15 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger hours are from 10:20 a. m. to 12:45 p. m., and from 4 p. m. to 5:50 p. m.

Troubles and unsatisfactory influences overshadow September 30—so the stars say. Not only will complications arise in business, but troubles will arise in the family. Everything will seem to be at cross-purposes. Careful navigation will be needed to avoid major difficulties, and impulse should be curbed.

Children born on this September 30 will be free from the taint of deception. They will always be outspoken and truthful, even though the consequences to them may be anything but pleasant. They will, whilst actively interested in sports, study hard, be quick to learn, and excel. Their natures will be affectionate; their loyalty unquestioned.

Strong in your beliefs and convictions, you, if born on September 30, are neither bigoted nor pig-headed. Always ready to listen to others and capable of judicial appraisal, you are not so cocksure of yourself as to hold to an opinion just because you expressed it. This same spirit of adaptability to reason is also evident in the work you undertake. No matter how addicted you may be to certain ways of your own, you are always willing to junk them if a better method is shown you. This is not vacillation, but it is wisdom, and largely responsible for the success that generally crowns your efforts.

You are interested in a wide range of topics and can talk instructively and entertainingly. In small talk, you do not shine. In matters of interest, however, you display exceptional knowledge, a retentive memory, and a lucidity of expression that comes very near to carrying conviction.

Your highly developed sense of toleration will help you out in family life and insure you more happiness than that enjoyed by those who are custom and convention bound. Not expecting 100 per cent perfection in either mate or chiren, not banking on permanent conformity with your individual tastes and desires, you will be easily satisfied, and contentment will be your portion.

Successful people born September 30:

Isaac Newton Seligman, banker.
George Bancroft, movie actor.

CHURCH BODY PLANS FOR ITS CONVENTION

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mrs. Marian Ballenger, president of the Fairfax County King's Daughters Circles, presided at the thirty-seventh annual session of that organization held yesterday in Grace Church Parish Hall, when plans were made to attend the annual State convention, to be held in Orange, Va., October 13, 14 and 15.

The program yesterday included vocal selections by a trio, Mrs. Harry B. Caton, Mrs. John G. Graham and Mrs. Harrie White, and the principal address was by Mrs. Henry Eley, of Norfolk, State president of the King's Daughters. Letters and telegrams of greeting were read by Mrs. J. W. Cox, of the Woodlawn Circle, the secretary.

A tribute was given to Mrs. Batone, the first leader and founder of the organization, and a memorial service was held for the late Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Church; Mrs. Florence Dorsey Wheat, Miss Eva Cowling, Miss Gillingham and Miss Smith. The memorial candles featured in the service were lighted by Miss Effie Wilkinson.

The report of the last convention was read by Mrs. Cox. Mrs. Eleanor Aud reported on the welfare work in Fairfax County; Mrs. Marguerite Wallerstadt reported the work of What-So-Ever Circle; Mrs. Llewellyn Wood, of Warrenton, reported the State Bible staff work, and also the Story of Gideon. The meeting adjourned at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Alexandria High School faculty has announced a new department, that of vocational civics, with Miss Eleanor Appich and Miss Ruth Watkins conducting the classes and Miss Eddie Dickert as vocational counselor.

Three men, George O. Keeney, 60 years, 1808 King street; George F. Feagans, 31, and Orville O'Meal, 26, were assessed fines in police court yesterday morning by Acting Judge Harry F. Kennedy that totaled $820.50, for violations of the prohibition law. Keeney, known as Dad Keeney, was fined $500 and costs; Feagans was charged with possession and sale and assessed $250 and costs, and noted an appeal. O'Meal was fined $70.50, charged with sale and possession.

Alexandria Missionary Societies to Meet Today

The Women's Missionary Societies of the Andrew Chapel zone of the Alexandria District, which includes the churches of Fairfax, Falls Church, McLean, Herndon, Chesterbrook, Andrew Chapel, Dranesville and Forestville, will meet this morning in the church at Andrew Chapel, Va. The program will open at 10 o'clock with either Mrs. H. C. Frebrey, of Falls Church, or Miss Sarah Day, of Andrew Chapel, in charge of the morning devotional services.

Mrs. George Parker, of Clarendon, secretary of mission study of the Alexandria District, will have charge of the business session, which will include a discussion of the general mission work of women. The afternoon devotional services will be under the direction of Mrs. Lemuel H. Crowder, of McLean, Va.

Citizens of Lyons Park Ask Better Trash Plan

Improved facilities for the collection of garbage and trash is urged by a resolution adopted by the Lyon Village Citizens Association at its meeting held last night at the home of S. Groome Eareckson. The president will appoint a special committee to make a study of the situation with the view of having the county take over such work.

Candidates for the office of trial justice of the new county court addressed the meeting. Those speaking included J. Hammond Brewer, jr.; M. G. Ely, H. W. Dudley, B. M. Hedrick, Walter U. Varney, Bryan Gordon and Hugh McCaffrey.

Arlington Women Plan Clubs for Recreation

The Arlington County Business and Professional Woman's Club tomorrow night will consider plans for the formation of a number of interclub recreational clubs. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Teresa Clark, 212 South Walnut street, Lyon Park.

The proposal is the result of efforts of the health committee, consisting of Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Bertha Bennett and Miss Ethel Johnson, to work out a plan whereby members of the club may combine pleasure with the type of recreation that will furnish them the exercise denied most women in their business capacities.

Alleged Speeder Is Seized Long After Evading Arrest

Montgomery County Policeman Windsor C. Poole, of the Bethesda substation, was grinning yesterday. Six months ago, Uriah Lawson, 1737 A street southeast, grinned at the policeman as he flashed across the District Line, safe for the nonce from arrest for speeding in Maryland.

Policeman Poole recognized Lawson yesterday as he passed him on Old Georgetown road near Bethesda and haled him before Justice of the Peace A. L. Moore at Bethesda on the six-month-old speeding charges of exceeding a speed of 60 miles an hour and failing to keep to the right of the center of the road. Lawson posted collateral of $110 for his appearance in county police court at Rockville, October 12.

Policeman Poole said he chased the man from Bethesda Bank to the District Line, about two miles, at from 60 to 70 miles an hour and stopped him over the line but Lawson refused to return to Maryland and post collateral and the policeman was forced to let him go. Lawson had changed the license tags on his car but the policeman had impressed the car too well upon his memory for changed tags to halt recognition, he said.

ROCKVILLE MAYOR TO PRICE JAIL SITE

Sale to Peter Heirs May Be Means to Opening of Two Streets.

Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Mayor J. Rogers Spates was appointed to represent the county in the appraisal of the old jail site at Rockville which will be abandoned when the new courthouse and jail is placed in use in the next few months, at a meeting of the Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday at Rockville.

Heirs to the estate of the late Judge Edward C. Peter have expressed a desire to purchase the three-fourths of an acre site if a satisfactory price can be arranged. They own practically all of the surrounding property. They have announced their willingness to dedicate a 40-foot right of way for a street from the Fire Department through Rockville Athletic Field to Jefferson street at the Rockville school, and to dedicate a 60-foot right of way from the firehouse to Maryland avenue, which connects with the Great Falls-Potomac road.

The rights of way also would provide a location for a drainage line for the new courthouse. The two streets would provide another artery for traffic from the Potomac section and help remedy traffic congestion at the Frederick road traffic light.

The commissioners made plans for purchase of 200 tons of coal to heat the two courthouse buildings this winter. Before advertising for bids, however, they plan a series of tests to determine the grade and type of coal best suited to needs of the plant.

Special examiners who investigated the petition of Joseph W. Trimble for closing of Capitol View avenue in Capitol View Park, near Kensington, reported adversely yesterday to the county commissioners. The commissioners announced that a public hearing will be held October 22 at 2 o'clock. They approved recommendations of Commissioner Clagett C. Hilton and Sherwood Duvall that the board complete the contract for the construction of the Boyds Station pedestrian underpass. The commissioners also approved several suburban paving contracts.

ARLINGTON LEAGUE TO HEAR CANDIDATES

23 Out of 51 Accept Bid of Better Government Body for Tonight.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With election five weeks away, more interest is being manifested in the meeting of the Better Government League this evening, in the Odd Fellows Hall, Clarendon, than in any previous meeting of the campaign.

Announcement was made last night that 23 of the 51 candidates for the county board have accepted invitations to attend. Each candidate will be allowed five minutes in which to speak. Five candidates of the Republican party have refused to have their names considered and will not attend.

Friday night at Lyon Park the league will select its slate of five candidates to be indorsed for the county board.

The Organized Women Voters of Arlington County will hear candidates for county offices today at St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Glebe road and Rixey Station, following luncheon.

Speakers will be candidates for Commonwealth's attorney, William C. Gloth, incumbent; Clarence R. Ahalt, Lawrence Douglas, Amos C. Crounse, and Emery N. Hosmer; for House of Delegates, Hugh Reid, incumbent, and J. Foster Hagan, and commissioner of revenue, Harry K. Green, incumbent, and C. W. Clever.

The Arlington County Board of Supervisors will meet officials of the Virginia Public Service Company today to discuss plans for installation of a more modern street lighting system. Plans for the extension of water lateral lines in several sections of the county will also be considered.

William Clifton Hull, former president of the Arlington County Civic Federation and a candidate for the county board, announced last night that he has asked the Better Government League not to consider his name when it selects its slate. He is the eighth candidate to announce he did not seek the indorsement of the league, but will appreciate the vote of any individual member.

Plane Service Link To Norfolk Is Near

Ludington Line Expects to Start Operation October 25.

Establishment of direct passenger and express service between Washington and Norfolk, Va., some time next month is planned by the Ludington Lines, which yesterday completed arrangements for erection of a passenger station at the Norfolk Airport, Paul F. Collins, vice president in charge of operations, announced.

Tentative plans call for completion of the work by October 25, and passenger service will be inaugurated soon after, he said. The new service will cut approximately five hours from the time required for travel between Norfolk and Washington.

The schedule, according to Mr. Collins, will enable Washington business men to leave Washington in the morning, transact their business in Norfolk, and return to their homes the same day. Proximity of Old Point Comfort, Virginia Beach and other tidewater points will enable the company to serve these points, it was stated. Ludington Lines already operate an hourly plane service between Washington and New York.

5 MADE HOMELESS IN GREAT FALLS FIRE

Two Pet Dogs Saved, but Third Dies as Connor House Is Razed.

Five persons were made homeless and a pet dog was burned to death yesterday when the 7-room home of Mr. and Mrs. Dent Connor at Great Falls, Md., burned to the ground. A few charred sticks and twisted metal were all that was left of the two-story frame building.

With the Connors lived Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Davis and Clyde Raymond Sipes, the latter two being granddaughter and son of Mrs. Connor. The three men were absent when the fire was discovered shortly before 8 o'clock by Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Davis was in her grandmother's side of the house and had walked to the door into her rooms when she saw thick smoke. She screamed to her grandmother and they tried to extinguish the fire with tubs of water, but were unsuccessful. Their screams attracted Foreman James Sullivan and his crew of five State Roads Commission men from nearby, and they brought fire extinguishers, but without avail.

The Cabin John Volunteer Fire Department responded to a call, but was unable to reach water with the amount of hose it had. A second alarm was sent to the Bethesda Volunteer Fire Department.

Efforts of both departments were unavailing. Mrs. Connor managed to save her two pet dogs, despite the excitement, but a pet dog belonging to Mrs. Davis became excited and ran back into the burning building and was burned to death.

Laundress Robbed of $33.

Through Mrs. A. G. Keyser, her employer, Anna Veenie, colored, reported to police that her purse containing $33.60 was stolen from the former's home at 1777 Lanier place northwest yesterday. The laundress said she left the purse in the basement, and discovered on returning that it was gone.

$102,405 LOW BIDS FOR HIGHWAY WORK

Several Road Improvements Slated for Montgomery and Prince Georges.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 29.—Low bids amounting to $102,405.35 on contracts calling for construction work on 4.76 miles of highway and three bridges were opened today at the offices of the State Roads Commission, Harry D. Williar, jr., chief engineer, announced.

The G. & L. Contracting Co. was low bidder for 2.26 miles of road on an extension of the Upper Marlboro-Croom road, Prince Georges County. The bid price was $30,239.75.

A low bid of $15,980.60 was made by L. R. Waesche & Sons for one mile of macadam highway along the Gaithersburg-Quince Orchard road in Montgomery County. Christhilph & Ensey made a low bid of $9,360.75 for five-tenths of a mile of concrete road from Central avenue to the District of Columbia line in Maryland Park, Prince Georges County.

Phillips Brothers were low bidders for one mile of concrete highway along the extension of the Berlin-Libertytown road in Worcester County. The bid price was $23,960.50.

The Fredericksburg Bridge Co. made a low bid of $3,177.50 for a single span concrete bridge over Sligo Branch on the Wheaton-Four Corners road in Montgomery County. A low bid of $9,540 was made by J. S. Bowers for a double span concrete bridge over Northwest Branch on the Glenmont-Colesville road in the same county.

Victor A. Pyles was low bidder for a double span concrete girder bridge over Northwest Branch on Prospect avenue near Mount Rainier in Prince Georges County. The bid price was $10,146.25.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK OCTOBER 4TH TO 10TH

Thoughtful people throughout the United States will again observe Fire Prevention Week, as suggested by the President in his annual proclamation.

This year October 4th ushers it in. Commercial, civic, social and other organizations will hold appropriate meetings. Millions of school children will take part.

You can make a definite contribution to Fire Prevention Week by increasing your efforts to safeguard your own home and business.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

has always been an active factor in Fire Prevention Week—through the National Board of Fire Underwriters and other organizations, and through its local agents in all states.

The purpose of Fire Prevention Week is not only to reduce the fire waste, but to save human lives. In doing that, further reductions in the average cost of insurance will be justified—a cost that has consistently declined for many years.

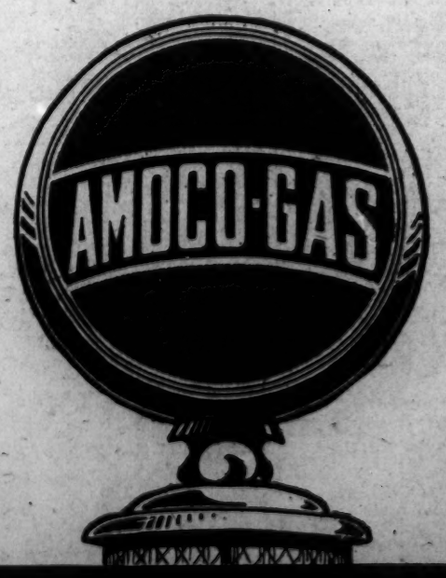
Save your CRANKSHAFT with Amoco-Gas

SAVE your crankshaft and avoid repair bills with Amoco-Gas. Amoco-Gas burns evenly, gives your motor controlled power--smooth, steady, truly economical.

If you run rapidly into a closed door, both you and the door will receive quite a jolt. But if you push the door steadily, it will open easily without jolt or jar. The same thing is true of your motor. A gasoline that explodes suddenly and erratically will jar and strain your crankshaft.

All of the power coming from the pistons in your car is transmitted to the driveshaft through the crankshaft. It receives more strain than almost any other part of your motor.



The AMERICAN OIL COMPANY
Washington Office: South Washington, Va.

RECOVERY PROGRAM OUTLINED BY BARNES

Revision of Foreign Debts, World Court, Disarmament, Among Suggestions.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Revision of foreign debts, adherence to the World Court and effective international disarmament topped a twelve-point answer presented tonight by Julius H. Barnes to the problem of American economic recovery.

The chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce and close friend and advisor of President Hoover, emphasized the need of an international "political moratorium" through a Franco-German accord in a world program to overcome "a lack of general confidence."

He addressed the annual meeting of the American Electric Railway Association.

Rotation of Employment.

Rotation and spread of employment and adoption of a shorter work week were included by Mr. Barnes in his suggestions for restoring enterprise in the United States. Other points were:

Revision of antitrust laws which, he said, "destroy the small business because it is unlawful to consult regarding production and distribution."

Framing our tax requirements "to spread justly and fairly where they can best be borne without injury."

Giving regulated industry like the railroads "a fair chance to maintain their earnings and credit.

"Economy in national expenditures."

Reassurance that we shall preserve "the tradition of private enterprise," including especially termination of Farm Board operations in commodities, transfer of Western barge lines to private interests and the end of agitation for Government operation of Muscle Shoals. "Step by step" tariff adjustment to represent "only the difference in wage scales and living standards against cheaper labor competitors."

Against Federal Doles.

Dependence on private resources for relief work and avoidance of Federal "charity doles."

Barnes said adherence to the world court would demonstrate "international cooperation and goodwill," and that to follow the moratorium "a financial program should be framed with regard to the capacity to pay off our debtors, leaving a margin of savings to rebuild their own capital."

Despite the achievement of a dominant financial position, he said, France "can not wholly escape all consequences of a disorganized Europe." French aid is much needed by Germany, Barnes said, and added:

Germany Needs Overseas Money.

Mr. Barnes said Germany needs "overseas money to fill the credit vacuum at home" and that she must give evidence these credits will "not be dissipated in social services beyond their means."

He said the world relies on British financial experience and that "her retreat to second-line trenches does not mean defeat."

Besides an atmosphere of peace and confidence in Europe, Mr. Barnes said a continuity of administrative responsibility is needed in South America, where "political instability repels timid capital."

In conclusion, he stressed the need of redefining proper relationships between economics and politics before idle credits "can flow freely into productive service in other lands."

WOOD ADMITS CHICAGO HOLD ON CAPITAL GAS COMPANY

memorandum shortly after Congress adjourned."

Mr. Wood, made president of the local company in April, 1930, by the new owners of 84 per cent of the gas stock, in his testimony apparently making a battle upon more issues than were appearing directly in the record, which has been filled with instances in which his plans and those of his engineers have been disapproved by one or another of the officers or executives of the Central Public Service Corporation.

Says Memorandum Worthless.

"To call attention to its worthlessness," he said regarding the Hurlburt memorandum, "it need only be mentioned that he proposed a merger between the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light companies, which could not be done except through legislation. He made other recommendations which were irritating and unsound."

"Worthless" was another adjective employed by Mr. Wood to express his opinion of some of Mr. Hurlburt's recommendations.

Mr. Ennis, controller of the local company, and George B. Fraser, a vice president and treasurer, were to be ousted from their jobs under a reorganization plan proposed by R. H. Morrison, accounting consultant, Mr. Wood said. Mr. Fraser was to be divorced from the company and Mr. Ennis was to be dropped to a subordinate position and Mr. Morrison was to take charge of the accounting system, Mr. Wood said. It was Mr. Morrison's pronouncement on this subject which Mr. Wood described as the "last straw" he could bear.

Natural Gas Contract.

The devious route followed by the contract for natural gas for the local company, dealt with in previous testimony, was again dealt with in questioning by Mr. Roberts in the course of his examination of Mr. Wood. He had begun to negotiate a contract for natural gas, but the Central Public Service Corporation had taken the matter out of his hands, Mr. Wood said. At one time the Washington company was buying natural gas from the Patuxent Gas Co., which is a subsidiary of the Central Public Service Corporation, but which owns neither natural gas nor a natural-gas pipe line, it was stated. Mr. Wood said he couldn't explain that.

The contract for the desired natural gas was the subject of a letter written by James Piper, of Piper, Carey & Hall, Baltimore attorneys, to Donald McPherson, general counsel for the Central Public Service Corporation, in the course of which it was proposed to have the existing contracts changed. The existing contracts made the Washington company owner of the pipe line as a part of the consideration entering into the deal. The plan outlined by Mr. Piper would have permitted the Chicago interests to charge the local company for the line it already owned. This charge of $2,400 a month was made and paid until stopped by the Public Utilities Commission.

Proposal of Walter M. Russell, chief engineer of the Washington company, to abandon the Georgetown plant and center production in the southeast plant, which was to have been improved, had been given his approval Mr. Wood said. The Georgetown plant has been partially condemned, and is located on ground which is to be a part of the Rock Creek-Potomac Parkway. Mr. Hurlburt, Mr. Wood said, overrode the Russell plan and forced large expenditures on the Georgetown plant.

One of the proposals was to change the accounting system. This change would entail a loss of $40,000, and the only saving would have been the dismissal of two clerks, whose combined salaries were $2,400 a year, Mr. Wood said.

Wilton J. Lambert, counsel of the gas company, informed him that Mr. Peirce felt that he should be a director of the local company, Mr. Wood said. Mr. Fraser had been sent to see Robert D. Weaver, who was formerly a president of the company, but then was a director, and Mr. Weaver had resigned and Mr. Peirce was elected in his place the next month.

Assistance for Capital.

The Central Public Service Corporation, Mr. Wood said, never had assisted the Washington company to get any additional capital which it might need. He told of refunding of short term obligations of the company amounting to about $3,000,000. Mr. Fraser said his recollection was that the amount was about $2,500,000. The company, however, has not exhausted its credit with the banks, Mr. Wood said.

Whatever financing had been undertaken by the Central Public Service Corporation in connection with the local gas company, Mr. Wood admitted, had been for the purpose of getting money to buy the company and not to help it get capital. Mr. Wood said that he did not believe the outstanding capital stock of the local company was adequate.

"Did the Central Public Service Corporation ever assist in getting capital for the Washington company?" Mr. Roberts asked.

"Not so far as I know," replied Mr. Wood.

"All these loans were for the purpose of acquiring the Washington company and not for capital for it?"

"Yes."

"None were for the benefit of the Washington company?"

"Not so far as I know."

One Hundred Exhibits Marked.

More than 100 exhibits have been marked for identification in the course of the hearing. These will be offered in evidence tomorrow. At that time counsel for the gas company owners, Mr. Lambert and Mr. Dean, will enter a general objection to them all, and specific objections to some, including the letter of resignation written by Mr. Wood to Mr. Peirce. These objections probably will be overruled by Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, commission chairman, an exception will be noted and the case will be nearly ready to take to the courts.

Robert V. Fleming, president of Riggs National Bank, shared the spotlight of interest with Mr. Wood. Mr. Fleming was summoned by Arthur Dean, counsel for the Central Public Service Corporation.

For a few moments a sensation seemed imminent when Mr. Roberts questioned the bank president about Washington Gas Light Co. stock which had been deposited with the bank as security for a $1,000,000 loan to the company.

Loan to Buy Company.

The loan had been negotiated to supply funds for the purchase of the municipally owned and operated gas plant of Alexandria.

When the powerful utilities interests which had acquired control of the Washington system decided to take over the Alexandria system, too, there was organized the Alexandria Gas Co. This was begun with $1,000. This was taken out of the funds of the Washington Gas Light Co. by Mr. Wood.

Having organized the company and given it $1,000 capital, the utilities magnates set about to buy the Alexandria system. They sought and got from the Riggs Bank and several other Washington banks the loan of $1,000,000 for their purpose. The Alexandria system was bought for $750,000. The production plant was junked forthwith. The remaining $250,000, it is said, was used for improvements of the distribution system of what had been the Alexandria plant. There were numerous large fees for lawyers connected with the transaction, one amounting to $30,000, although the whole deal took only a short while. One lawyer is suing for $4,000.

Details Not Disclosed.

These details were not gone into in the course of the examination of Mr. Fleming, however. He testified that when the loan matured, it was renewed, but that his own and other local banks interested desired greater security and 20,000 shares of Washington Gas Light Co. stock were deposited.

"Did you ever make any inquiry as to the ownership of that stock?" Mr. Roberts asked.

Mr. Fleming said the stock was in negotiable form.

Mr. Roberts asked if he knew whether the stock was partly pledged to secure a prior $10,500,000 loan, referring to one of the many involved financial transactions incident to the maneuverings with local and nearby gas companies by nationally powerful utilities interests.

Mr. Fleming said that if some of the company stock had been pledged he assumed that the 20,000 shares were some which had not been.

The stock which was deposited with the Riggs Bank was to have been placed in escrow to secure the loan of the local banks, but some difficulty arose, and the loan was called and paid before this was done.

Payment Data Forgotten.

Mr. Fleming said he could not say why, nor who paid the $1,000,000. He suggested lawyers had handled these details, and he would have to refresh his memory before he could answer, although he had received notice previous to his appearance as a witness about what he was to be asked.

Mr. Roberts, however, ceased this line of inquiry there, and details of that transaction were not disclosed through testimony of Mr. Fleming, although the record of preceding days shows that William H. Wildes, vice president of the Central Public Service Corporation and vice president, also, of the Southern Cities Public Service Co., a corporation subsidiary, had handled the repayment of the loan.

The money was loaned by the Southern Cities Co. The transactions were arranged by Mr. Wildes. One of the trustees of the Washington & Suburban Cos., successor to the Seaboard Investment Trust, original purchaser of the local company, resigned one day, and the same day Mr. Wildes was elected in his place and given authority to carry out the intricate transactions which totaled an estimated $13,500,000.

Scope of Transactions.

They included issuance by Washington & Suburban Cos., a trust, of $6,500,000 in 5½ per cent gold bonds to the Southern Cities Co.; issuance of 70,000 shares of preferred stock of Washington & Suburban to Southern Cities, and issuance by Washington & Suburban of 171,000 shares of common stock to the Westfield Trust, ostensibly owned by Mr. Peirce. These shares of common stock had no fixed value, and are not included in the estimate of $13,500,000 total of the transactions. The gold bonds, incidentally, were issued to the bankers, headed by Chase, Harris, Forbes Corporation, and sold to the public.

As soon as these things had been done Mr. Wildes resigned as trustee, and the man he had succeeded was again chosen to fill his former post.

A vivid picture of how the Hyattsville Gas Co. was acquired was painted verbally in the course of the testimony of Mr. Wood. An offer to buy the company was spurned. It simply refused to talk sale on reasonable terms. Though the matter was not put nearly so bluntly, it was developed that Mr. Wood, after being turned down, got Maryland franchises to supply gas to various territories, so that he completely hemmed in the Hyattsville company. When negotiations for purchase were reopened the Hyattsville owners agreed to sell.

HOOVER MAY APPEAL TO PUBLIC ON FUNDS

Warns Navy Officials Not to Ask for Increases in Budget.

ecutive hopes to maintain or slightly speed during 1933.

Savings are hoped to be made otherwise than in construction in the Navy. Secretary Adams said a considerable saving would be effected through a reduction in living costs.

The developments attracted immediate comment on Capitol Hill.

Expressing sympathy with the purpose to cut military expenditures, Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, demanded to know why Mr. Hoover would have to appeal to the country to do this.

"The President is commander in chief of the Army and Navy," he said. "All he has to do is to send out orders to his subordinates to stop any agitation he suspects. So far as Army and Navy expenditures are concerned I am for cutting them down, but I am for increasing expenditures for unemployment and the bonus."

A Democratic demand for balancing the budget came from Senator Gore, of Oklahoma.

Should Be Balanced.

"My first choice of a method is through economy rather than taxation. But if that is not sufficient the budget should be balanced anyway," he said. "If additional revenue was still needed I believe it could be obtained by reducing the tariff rates."

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, said he feared it would be necessary to increase income taxes, but insisted that first sinking fund payments on the war debt should be reduced and all possible economies effected.

"Why should we make payments on the public debt," he said, "when we have to borrow money to do it."

Copeland also warned that the Navy "is far below treaty strength and we are going to have to build up or we will have nothing whatever to trade in the next conference."

"As for the President being unable to control one of his own departments I don't understand it," he added.

Statement of Britten.

Representative Britten, of Illinois, chairman of the last House naval committee, said yesterday that since Congress authorized the eleven destroyers "it is difficult to see how the President can undo what Congress does, when Congress is charged by the Constitution with the responsibility for maintaining adequate defense."

The Illinois member said Mr. Hoover had the bids for the vessels on his desk before the Navy Department slashed six from its construction plans.

"I am quite satisfied," he added, "the department would not have requested these bids unless highly of the opinion these ships were necessary at this time to round out the efficiency of the fleet."

Besides aiming his economy program at the destroyers, Britten said, the President desired to prevent the construction of any additional cruisers, aircraft carriers and submarines under the terms of the London treaty.

"The President would be backed up by Congress if he would call another naval limitation conference immediately to further reduce all naval armament," Britten said. "But he will meet with much opposition throughout the country if he intends to reduce the national defense to a point of incompetency at a time when the entire world is sitting on top of a volcano."

Forced to Economy, Navy Sinks 6 of 11 Paper Ships

Secretary Adams Visibly Disappointed as He Announces Award of Four Destroyer Contracts; Britten Warns of Opposition to Slashes.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy yesterday scuttled six of its eleven paper destroyers.

Secretary Adams announced the award of contracts for four vessels of this type. One destroyer had already been awarded to the New York Navy Yard.

It was not possible, a statement by the Secretary said, to place orders for the six others because of the necessity for limiting expenditures during the current fiscal year.

Those who received contracts yesterday were one each to the Bath Iron Works Corporation, Bath, Me.; the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation, Quincy, Mass., and the Boston and Puget Sound Navy Yards.

After issuing his statement the Secretary sat on his desk facing newspapermen with their barrage of questions, placed his feet in a chair beside the desk and prepared to explain the slashing of the destroyer program.

Eleven destroyers had been authorized by Congress and $10,000,000 had been appropriated for beginning work.

Mr. Adams would not comment on whether the department would submit a new construction program to the President aside from saying that none had been definitely decided upon and that none had been submitted thus far.

Any decision to build the remaining six destroyers in private yards would necessitate a call for new bids, the Secretary said. He added he understood some arrangement might be made whereby construction of the six could be begun should a final arrangement for a naval holiday among the nations in preparation for the general disarmament conference be concluded.

Details of the projected 1932-1933 building program have never been made public by the department. A list including two aircraft carriers, one destroyer leader, one experimental six-inch gun cruiser, one flying deck cruiser and six fleet submarines, was described by one official as "substantially correct" as the original program.

Naval officers and congressional leaders close to the Navy Department expessed the opinion emphatically that no new construction would be asked and that 1933 expenditures for construction would be on contracts already awarded.

Secretary Adams, while he expressed no personal opinion regarding the cut in destroyers, was visibly disappointed at the necessity for slicing the destroyer program. Before the decision was announced he conferred with Assistant Secretary Ingalls for Aeronautics who left the Secretary's office with his head down, speaking to no one as he crossed through the waiting room.

The slash was the main topic of discussion among small groups of officers during the closing hours at the department. Outspoken disappointment was evident everywhere. The officers made it plain they felt that the Navy's position had been made more difficult by the cut in the program after the difficulty of securing congressional appropriations had been surmounted.

One report which could not be confirmed was that the administration had even contemplated building none of the destroyers but had decided employment would be benefited if some were constructed. Naval officials estimate that 90 per cent of the cost of a destroyer goes to labor with the remainder devoted to materials.

Representative Britten of Illinois, chairman of the last House naval committee, said that since Congress authorized the eleven destroyers "it is difficult to see how the President can undo what Congress does, when Congress is charged by the Constitution with the responsibility for maintaining adequate defense."

The Illinois member said Mr. Hoover had the bids for the vessels on his desk before the Navy Department slashed six from its construction plans.

"I am quite satisfied," he added, "the department would not have requested these bids unless highly of the opinion these ships were necessary at this time to round out the efficiency of the fleet."

Besides aiming his economy program at the destroyers, Britten said, the President desired to prevent the construction of any additional cruisers, aircraft carriers and submarines under the terms of the London Treaty.

"The President would be backed up by Congress if he would call another naval limitation conference immediately to further reduce all naval armament," Britten said. "But, he will meet with much opposition throughout the country if he intends to reduce the national defense to a point of incompetency at a time when the entire world is sitting on top of a volcano."

Hearings on Supply Bills Delayed Until December

(Associated Press.)

Contrary to custom, hearings on the annual supply bills for Government departments will not be conducted before Congress convenes December 7.

Representative Wood (Republican), Indiana, chairman of the last House appropriations committee, yesterday said that because of the possibility that either the Democrats or Republicans might organize the House it would not be proper to proceed with hearings before Congress meets.

Cut in Passenger Rail Rates Urged

(Associated Press.)

Lower railroad passenger rates were proposed before the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday as a means of restoring traffic to the lines.

Arguing against the 15 per cent freight rate increase asked by the carriers, C. E. Blaine, of Phoenix, Ariz., representing the American National Live Stock Association, and J. H. Mercer, of the Kansas Live Stock Association, urged a thorough trial of lower passenger fares as a revenue producer.

The commission yesterday neared the end of its hearings in the case. Shippers virtually concluded their argument, and today railroad attorneys will present a brief discussion of questions raised by the opposition. The commision will then take the case under consideration. Its decision is expected late in October.

Schedule Again Speeded By Chesapeake & Ohio

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad yeserday announced a further reduction in running time between Washington and Cincinnati. Effective Sunday, October 4, trains for the Ohio city will leave here at 6:01 p. m., more than a quarter of an hour later than heretofore, while arrival time at Cincinnati, 9:05 a. m. will remain unchanged.

The change in the railroad's schedule brings Washington two hours nearer all Midwestern and Southwestern cities served by the line than it was at the first of the year.

MAJ. GEN. LASSITER TO BE RETIRED TODAY

Native of Petersburg, Va., Has Had Active 46 Years of Army Service.

(Associated Press.)

Maj. Gen. William Lassiter, born in Petersburg, Va., 64 years ago yesterday, has completed the last day of his 46 years of active service in the Army of the United States and automatically is retired today under the law.

Gen. Lassiter is now en route to New York City from Honolulu where he was commander of the Hawaiian department of the Army. His immediate plans for the future are not known here.

The noted Virginian during his long and active service in the Army won the Distinguished Service Medal and a silver star citation and was brevetted for gallantry in action at Santiago de Cuba during the Spanish-American War.

During the World War he first commanded the American troops in England and later was made a major general and chief of Artillery in the Second Army, which participated in the Champagne-Marne and the Aisne-Marne defensive and in St. Mihiel defense. Later he commanded the Thirty-second Division during the occupation of the Coblentz sector on the Rhine. For these services he was decorated by the United States, France and Great Britain.

He has served three tours in the Philippine Islands and was with Gen. Funston at Vera Cruz in 1914. Since the war he has commanded the Field Artillery School at Camp Knox, Ky.; the Panama Canal department, the Sixth Army Corps at Chicago, the Philippine department, the Eighth Army Corps at Fort Sam Houston, Tex., and the Hawaiian department.

Virginia Assault Case Reopens Behind Doors

Montross, Va., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The trial of Henry L. Taylor, 55, of Oak Grove, Va., on charges of criminal assault opened here this morning before Judge E. Hugh Smith behind closed doors. The day yesterday was consumed in selection of a jury to hear the case, two venires being required.

Taylor is charged with attacking Mrs. Alan Combs, 30-year-old mother of four children, last April near her home at Oak Grove. He has denied the charge. The hearing was continued from June 29 because of the illness of Judge Smith. At that time a mistrial was declared.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

TO harp away again upon a futile subject, concerning which, it seems, there is nothing that can be done, it is becoming increasingly apparent that Washington motion-picture audiences are the most ill-mannered in the world and steadily growing worse!

It must have been about three or four years ago when this column emitted its first blast against the boorishness of those who lend their obnoxious presence to the initial screenings of film entertainment up and down F, Ninth and Fifteenth streets. Since then, mass behavior in our downtown, first-run theaters has become more and more objectionable. The invention and manufacture of the mechanical device that produces the raucous and rowdy "razzberry," sometimes more genteelly designated the "Bronx cheer," has not appreciably helped matters. Rather has it served as the last straw to break the backs of those patient beasts who no longer look upon opening days at the films as any fit time to attend.

One thing must be said on behalf of the hoodlum element that makes opening days at the cinema monuments of misbehavior—they play no favorites. Every theater in town is prey to its indifference to the demands of decency and decorum. I have been equally on the verge of taking the law into my own feeble hands when attempting to review opening performances at the Palasce, Fox, Earle, RKO-Keith's, Columbia, Rialto, or where not?

It is, of course, a very tough order for house managements to spot scattered offenders in capacity audiences ranging from 1,200 to 3,500 persons. It is a matter of personal knowledge that the managers of the local picture houses do their utmost to curtail rowdyism among their patrons, but they seem to be helpless.

I, therefore, suggest that the rest of us, constituting the reasonably well-behaved majority, appoint ourselves a vigilance committee intrusted with the duty of squelching the more obstreperous element by whatever means may seem most efficacious at the moment. Personally, I am swinging four or five baseball bats out in the back yard every morning and perfecting my technique with the blackjack, preparatory to wading into any such gang of roughnecks as sat in the adjoining loge to me in the Palace last Friday and sprayed "damns" and "hells" all over the place, and at the Fox the week before that, the Earle the week before that—or whenever the annoyances occurred, in case my chronology is a little spotty.

As I contemplate it in restrospect, a full 24 hours after, it occurs to me that "Once in a Lifetime," currently rolling the gentry up and down the aisles at the Belasco, wallops the newspaper film critics quite as thoroughly as it does the motion picture industry in general and a few of the "big shots" of the business in particular.

The climax of the play arrives when "Dr. Lewis," the dumbbell of a small-time vaudeville act, gets things so gloriously balled up on the movie lot that a script shot by biograph back in 1910 is filmed, instead of the one Mr. Glogauer, the mighty producer, had intended to plop into the receptive faces of an expectant public. It appears that the befuddled Dr. Lewis had a filing cabinet that looked exactly like his waste basket and in selecting the continuity to be shot he merely reached into the wrong receptacle!

That is less the point, however, than that when the film was released it was ecstatically reviewed by the eagle-eyed representatives of the press, who pretended to perceive in everything the good Dr. Lewis had done wrong a new and indisputable claim to genius.

I am wondering just how nearly we may approach to being that dumb, and I don't mind telling you there's a shudder goes with it!

There can't be very much complaint among the customers about the number of movie stars who are being presented locally for personal appearances from week to week in the cathedrals of the garrulous and gallumphing celluloids. Joe E. Brown, Fifi D'Orsay, Helen Kane and Raquel Torres will have followed one another in an unbroken succession, and the end is not yet.

The dulcet tones of Miss Irene Weber, recently elevated to a post of importance in the publicity department of the Fox Theater, have just faded from the telephone wire leading to this desk, but not until they had conveyed the interesting intelligence that beginning Friday, October 16, the heavily underlined luminary at the Fox will be Estelle Taylor, in the act that has met with signal success in all of the cities in which she has presented it.

Miss Taylor, present sparring partner of former champion Jack Dempsey in the divorce courts, was last seen personally on a local stage upon the occasion of the world premiere of "Cimarron" at the RKO-Keith Theater many months ago.

Her act, in addition to displaying her histrionic talents to advantage, is said to reveal a singing voice of merit which disports itself in three specially written songs.

Mr. Dempsey, I understand, will not be along!

And what is your feeling in the matter of the gold—if any—standard?

Last Chinese Emperor Sued For Divorce; Scandal Hinted

Peiping, China, Sept. 29 (U.P.).—Shu Fei, vivacious third wife of Pu Yi, the former boy Emperor of China, has taken advantage of the new status of women in her country to file suit for divorce and air the scandals of her husband's royal apartment.

Shu Fei, who married the boy emperor nine years ago when he still lived in the forbidden city of the Manchus, escaped from her quarters, hunted up a lawyer and told him she had been confined in her Tientsin home for a year; that she has seen only her sister and various eunuchs, who were constantly instigating quarrels between her and her husband; and that she wasn't going to stand for it any longer.

She did not mention the former emperor's first or second wife in her complaint, but it was said she had quarrels with them.

Pu Yi was said to be "greatly concerned" over her suit, because it was the first hint of scandal coming from his establishment. The suit raises an interesting legal question as to the rights of concubines to seek divorce under the new laws. Legal experts said a concubine married before the present code became effective has the same rights as a first wife and may sue for divorce. The case will establish a precedent.

Marriage to Bar Pupils From Ohio School

London, Ohio (U.P.).—Marriage of public school undergraduates in London will automatically bar them from further attendance in the city's schools by terms of a resolution adopted by the board of education.

The board's resolution said such marriages had "a demoralizing effect upon the morale of the student body" in stating that henceforth the young couples "shall be barred from admittance" to the schools.

Thief Steals Bible From Synagogue

Columbus, Ohio (U.P.).—A strange theft occurred in the synagogue Beth Jacob here. A window was found broken, a door opened and the Torah, or Bible, was gone from the altar.

Pennies in the poor box were not disturbed. A year ago a thief broke in and stole 250 pennies from the box. The Torah was 40 years old and valued at $150.

AUTUMN DAYS BRING NEW LURE TO BEACH

Post Property Proves Ideal for Nature Lovers on Bracing Days.

These bracing autumn days inspire the average city dweller to search for a place out of doors where he may enjoy the fresh air, tramp through the country, and revel in the splendors of nature, at her best.

Where to go is always the question, but The Washington Post has solved this problem for a great many residents of the Capital through the offering of Woodland Beach lots to the public at very reasonable rates.

Woodland Beach, a resort site on the South River of Maryland, just 32 miles away, is now the mecca of hundreds of Washingtonians not only through the summer months but for the major portion of the year, for the place is as delightful in fall and spring as it is in summer.

The cost of obtaining property at Woodland Beach is small. All lots are on sale there at the same price—$93. Terms have been arranged whereby purchasers need put down only $9 at the time of making selections paying off the balance at the rate of $3.50 per month. There are no interest charges.

A cottage at Woodland Beach will solve many of your problems. It is the ideal spot in which to spend a vacation; it is a perfect place in which to entertain guests, and it is a splendid location for week-end and overnight parties.

Call at The Post any day and choose one of the fine locations on the 4½ miles of waterfront. If you don't want to build right now, buy for next summer and enjoy 1932 as you have never enjoyed any previous year.

Hyattsville Fire Force Will Seek New Members

Members of the Hyattsville Fire Department have been selected to make a house-to-house canvass for new members in the drive which will start October 15.

The First Ward team will be Chief Noble F. Rushe, Robert Anson, John Cooksey and Harry Wilcoxen. Second Ward, C. O. Proctor, W. C. Proctor, W. C. Johnson and Alfred Degges. Third Ward, Lloyd Anderson, Earnest Davis, Earle Dorrelle and George Wilcoxen. Fourth Ward, Charles E. Trott, Laurence Watson, Wayne Read and Harry Degges.

FILM TIME TABLES

Rebuilding Begun At Fort Necessity

Ground Is Broken at Site Where Washington Fought French.

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Ground was broken today for the rebuilding of Fort Necessity, 10 miles east of here, where George Washington fought the French in 1754.

Col. Frederick H. Payne, Assistant Secretary of War, in an address at the ground-breaking exercises, recalled how Washington at the age of 22 waged an unsuccessful campaign to prevent the French from seizing the land at the forks of the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers. In the first battle of the French and Indian War Washington's campaign culminated in the withdrawal of his small army of Virginians and a larger force of French and Indians from Fort Necessity.

Patriotic societies and the George Washington bicentennial celebration committee plan to make a national shrine of the fort, funds for rebuilding of which have been appropriated by the Federal and State governments.

Open-Flame Cooking Range Put On Akron

Amarillo, Tex. (A.P.).—The Navy's giant new dirigible, the Akron, will be the first lighter-than-air craft to be equipped with an open-flame cooking range.

Inflated with helium, an inert gas produced in large quantities at the Government plant near here, the Akron's motors are inside its body, instead of being suspended from gondolas. An airplane hangar and machine gun nests are also located inside, which would be impossible in a hydrogen-filled ship. As a final convenience made practicable by use of the safety gas, the range was installed.

CARDS TO OPEN SERIES WITHOUT ADAMS IN LINE-UP

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

EN ROUTE TO ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29.—As this column is being transported to the battleground of the opening game of the world series, it is perhaps both mete and proper to peer into the possibilities that the clash of the big league champions holds for the faithful.

But before venturing into the uncertainties of the new series that will start on Thursday, it may be well to remark that ever since 1924, when the monopoly of the two New York Clubs on world series fame and fortune was ended, each October classic can be remembered in its own right for a particular thrill it produced and these stand as marks for the new series to shoot at.

The 1931 presentation of world series baseball will doubtless develop its own outstanding thrill, but unless it introduces something distinctly novel in the way of heart throbs, the current series can not escape the charge of plagiarism, for during the past seven years the October clashes have run the gamut of thrills from McNeely's climatic pebble hit in 1924 to John Miljus' startling wild pitch in the ninth inning of the last game in 1927.

1924 in Washington

Nineteen hundred and twenty-four is best remembered for the money-winning single of McNeely in the twelfth inning of the seventh game between Washington and the Giants. Walter Johnson, beaten in his two attempts to win a world series game, had been called into the box to relieve the faltering Washington pitcher. The game wore into the twelfth inning and Johnson still retained a chance to score a world series victory.

Muddy Ruel, hitless through every one of the seven games, responded in the twelfth with a double. Johnson, next up, also reached base. Then McNeely slammed one of Art Nehf's pitches back toward third base. Freddy Lindstrom was set for the catch. He lowered his glove to gather in the easy grounder, but it took an eccentric hop and bounded over his shoulder for a freak single. A Washington fan claims to own the pebble it struck. Ruel sprinted home with the winning run of the world series.

Peck Ties Record

There was 1925 with Washington and Pittsburgh deadlocked after six games. Rain and sleet fell throughout the seventh game at Forbes Field. Walter Johnson, who had twice beaten the Pirates, was again on the pitching mound. The wet ball afforded him little control. He was batted solidly from the start. But Washington was also hammering the Pittsburgh pitching. The game developed into a seesaw slugfest until Roger Peckinpaugh, the steadiest of all the shortstops, inserted his eighth error of the series to decide the game against Washington and tie the record for misplays in a single series.

There was 1926 when the St. Louis Cardinals, boasting their first National League pennant, carried the fighting into New York against the Yankees in the seventh game. How Grover Cleveland Alexander strode in from the dugout, looking for all the world like he had been aroused from a comfortable haystack, and relieved the faltering Jesse Haines, is a baseball epic. How he struck out Tony Lazzeri with the bases full and then outlasted the other Yankee pitchers until St. Louis won the game and the series is more stirring world series history.

Wild-pitch Miljus

There was 1927 when the Pirates, in a last desperate effort, were meeting the Yankees in New York in the fourth game of the series after losing three straight. Miljus was opposed to Pennock in a gripping pitching duel. It was the last of the ninth, none were out and the winning Yankee run was on third base. Up came Ruth and down he went, a strike-out victim. Up came Gehrig and Miljus struck him out, too. There remained Lazerri to dispose of. Miljus threw two strikes past the Italian. And then he delivered another pitch plateward. It was a wild pitch and the winning run clattered in from third in as wild and unorthodox a world series ending as will ever be witnessed.

There was 1928. The Yankees had won three straight from the Cardinals and were playing the second game scheduled in St. Louis. Babe Ruth, whose big bat had played a prominent part in earlier Yankee triumphs, struck out on his first turn at the plate. A salvo of boos greeted him from the bleachers as he returned to his position in the field.

Street Wants To See Grove In Opener

Cards Ready to Shoot Works to Annex First Contest.

19 of 27 Champions Won Initial Fray in Series.

By GEORGE KIRKSEY.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29 (U.P.).—Bent upon bringing the world championship back to the National League after four years of American League supremacy, the St. Louis Cardinals' plan of battle calls for a victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in the all-important first game Thursday.

Setbacks in opening games the past four years have done much to lower the morale of the National League pennant winners and allow the American League champions to turn all except last year's series into a rout.

"That first game is the one we want," said Manager Gabby Street, grizzled leader of the Cardinals, "and we are going to shoot the works to get it. I don't know who will pitch for the Athletics, but we hope it's Grove.

"We beat Grove once last year and I think we can do it again this year. If Grove pitches and we win, well, any one can see what a tremendous psychological advantage we'll have the rest of the series. That's why we are going after this first game hammer and tongs."

First Game Important, Figures Say.

World series history records that the team that takes the first game has gone on to win the championship 19 out of 27 times. The American League Team has won the first game the past six years. The last time a National League Team won the opener was in 1924, when Artie Nehf, New York Giants' southpaw, won a twelve-inning duel from Walter Johnson, Washington star.

Street has three pitchers from which to select his opening day pitcher. They are Paul Derringer, right-handed rookie who won eighteen games and lost eight during the season; Burleigh Grimes, veteran right-hander, who won seventeen and lost nine, and Bill Hallahan, southpaw, who won nineteen and lost nine.

It has been taken for granted that Derringer will start the series, but Street hasn't said so. If Derringer starts for the Cardinals, it will be a contradiction of sound baseball judgment. Only once before in world series annals has a rookie pitched the first game. Babe Adams, Pittsburgh, pitched and won the first game of the 1909 world series against Detroit. He later won two more games and the series for the Pirates.

Grimes or Hallahan seem the more logical choice if Street is sincere in mustering his strongest battle front for the first game. Grimes pitched the opener against Grove last year and lost, 5 to 2. He also was beaten in the fifth game, 2 to 0, but Grimes pitched well enough to justify sending him back again this year. No pitcher can win many ball games on an average of two runs every eighteen innings.

Hallahan Showed Form.

Hallahan blanked the A's, 5-0, in the third game last year, and although he was driven off the mound in the sixth game, he demonstrated that he has the stuff to stop Simmons, Cochrane and Foxx.

Jess Haines' physical condition seems to preclude any chance of his getting into action, but, as usual before a world series, all sorts of rumors are flying about. One is that Haines has been scouting the A's and that he will pitch the first game. Haines pulled a muscle in his arm at Pittsburgh just before Labor Day, and, to all intents, is out of the series.

The other two Cardinal cripples, Outfielder Pepper Martin, who has a wrenched left knee, and Third Baseman Sparky Adams, who has a bad ankle, are responding to treatment and will be in the line-up Thursday. Both of them practiced with the Cardinals today and showed little signs of their ailments.

Two Riders Badly Hurt In Spill at Cranwood

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—John Bardales, 21, New York City, and Billy Hawkins, 23, Milwaukee, jockeys, were critically injured at Cranwood Race Track late today when their mounts fell and threw them in the fifth race.

It was believed at the hospital where they were taken that Bardales' neck was broken. Hawkins suffered a fractured skull and internal injuries.

Combination of Grove and Cochrane Gives Macks Edge Over Cardinals in Comparison of Battery Strength

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—For two good reasons a comparison of pitching and catching strength of the Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals is a heavy task. The first reason is Robert Moses Grove; the second is Mickey Cochrane.

The Cardinals undoubtedly have the finest pitching corps in the National League and perhaps the second best in either league, but they do not have a hurler in the same class with "Lefty" Grove. They have a capable catcher in Jimmie Wilson, but he is not a Mickey Cochrane.

Grove and Cochrane Game's Best Battery.

In other words, it is a top-heavy arrangement. Grove, who won 31 games this season and lost only four, is the greatest southpaw of modern times. Cochrane is the greatest catcher in the game today. Take those two away from the Athletics and they still would be a tolerably good club. With them they are favorites to win their third straight world championships, something never before accomplished.

Thanks to a schedule which Connie Mack might have drawn up himself, Grove will be able to start three games in the forthcoming world series, providing it goes the limit. He might also be able to get in a little relief work.

The records show that the National League champions have been particularly weak against left-handers this year, approximately half of their defeats being credited to southpaws. Manager Gabby Street has been drilling them for several days against smart left-handed pitching, borrowing Bill Walker, of the Giants, for the purpose.

It is not to be inferred Grove will not have plenty of help. There is big George Earnshaw, the right-hander, who beat the Cards twice last year and was the individual pitching hero of the series. There also are George Walberg, another southpaw, winner of twenty games this year; Leroy Mahaffey, who delivered fifteen victories toward the Athletics' victorious march, and Waite Hoyt, veteran of six world series while with the Yankees.

Against this great array of Mound talent, Gabby Street will pit virtually the same staff that failed to make the grade a year ago. The only important addition to the Cardinals' staff is Paul Derringer, the big rookie from Rochester, winner of 18 out of 26 games. Derringer looks like the logical nominee to face the A's in the opening tilt, despite his lack of world's series experience.

Burleigh Grimes, Bill Hallahan and Jesse Haines, all of whom saw plenty of action in the last series, round out the Cardinals' "big four." Jim Lindsey probably will do any odd jobs of relief pitching.

There is doubt that Haines will be available for regular service in the series, as he has been on the ailing list for some time. He is the club's leading pitcher in point of games won and lost. Grimes, who was beaten by the A's twice last fall, also has not been quite up to his best form this season. Even so, the veteran still is one of the finest "money" pitchers in the game.

After carefully sizing up both staffs, however, it all reverts to Lefty Grove. If the slender southpaw mows down the Cards with his blinding speed ball, as he has all other opponents this year, the Athletics couldn't help winning. If he fails, it's a toss-up.

Comparison of Rival Pitchers

Following are the season's records of the rival pitching and catching staffs, based on latest official averages. Those listed are considered the most likely to see service in the world series:

The records show that the National League champions have been particularly weak against left-handers this year, approximately half of their defeats being credited to southpaws. Manager Gabby Street has been drilling them for several days against smart left-handed pitching, borrowing Bill Walker, of the Giants, for the purpose.

It is not to be inferred Grove will not have plenty of help. There is big George Earnshaw, the right-hander, who beat the Cards twice last year and was the individual pitching hero of the series. There also are George Walberg, another southpaw, winner of twenty games this year; Leroy Mahaffey, who delivered fifteen victories toward the Athletics' victorious march, and Waite Hoyt, veteran of six world series while with the Yankees.

Against this great array of Mound talent, Gabby Street will pit virtually the same staff that failed to make the grade a year ago. The only important addition to the Cardinals' staff is Paul Derringer, the big rookie from Rochester, winner of 18 out of 26 games. Derringer looks like the logical nominee to face the A's in the opening tilt, despite his lack of world's series experience.

Burleigh Grimes, Bill Hallahan and Jesse Haines, all of whom saw plenty of action in the last series, round out the Cardinals' "big four." Jim Lindsey probably will do any odd jobs of relief pitching.

There is doubt that Haines will be available for regular service in the series, as he has been on the ailing list for some time. He is the club's leading pitcher in point of games won and lost. Grimes, who was beaten by the A's twice last fall, also has not been quite up to his best form this season. Even so, the veteran still is one of the finest "money" pitchers in the game.

After carefully sizing up both staffs, however, it all reverts to Lefty Grove. If the slender southpaw mows down the Cards with his blinding speed ball, as he has all other opponents this year, the Athletics couldn't help winning. If he fails, it's a toss-up.

9 AMERICANS VICTORS IN CANADA

TORONTO, Ontario, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Nine players from the United States, two from England and five from Canada moved into the second round of the Canadian women's golf championship today. All the outstanding favorites, including the defending champion, Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., disposed of their first round opponents with ease.

Advancing to the second round along with Miss Orcutt were such formidable contenders as Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City; Marion Hollins, of Santa Cruz, Calif., former American champion; Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago; Ada MacKenzie, of Toronto; Mrs. W. G. Fraser, the former Alexa Stirling, of Ottawa, and Enid Wilson and Marjorie Kerr, of England.

Of the eight United States players who fell by the wayside today, four were eliminated by fellow Americans, three by Canadians and one by an English contestant.

Miss Orcutt, the medalist, overwhelmed Mrs. L. G. Riley, of Pittsburgh, 7 and 6, the same count by which Mrs. Hill put out Mrs. Cecil Cowan, of Toronto. Mrs. Hill provided the outstanding golf of the day. She was out in 36, two under women's par, to turn five up and then won two of the first three holes of the incoming journey to terminate the match on the twelfth green.

Miss Hollins had no trouble with

Mrs. Haynes Qualifies In Quaker City Golf

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 29.—After finishing in a three-cornered deadlock for the last two places among the qualifiers in the nineteenth annual golf tournament for the Berthellyn Cup today over the Huntington Valley Country Club course, Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Columbia C. C. of Washington, D. C., emerged victorious in the play off to gain a position among the first sixteen.

Mrs. Haynes traversed the layout in 91 strokes, 11 above the total of Mrs. Edwin H. Vare, jr., the former Glenna Collett, who equaled the women's competitive record for the course and led the field with an 80.

Toledo Club Placed In Hands of Receiver

Toledo, Ohio, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The Toledo Baseball Club of the American Association was placed in receivership today and plans were made to sell its franchise to pay the debts of itself and affiliated companies. Bondholders, who brought the action, and Al E. Reuben, who was named receiver, said, however, they expect to keep the franchise in Toledo.

BILL TILDEN WINS.

University of Virginia, Va., Sept 29 (A.P.).—Bill Tilden today defeated Albert Burke, French professional champion, 6—1, 12—10, 1—6, 6—2, in the first professional matches to be played on the new University of Virginia tennis courts.

Other memmers of the Tilden troup helped entertained the crowd of over 1,000 spectators.

Cubs, White Sox Open Chicago Series Today

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The Cubs and White Sox will open their city baseball championship series tomorrow at Wrigley Field, home grounds of the National League representative.

The set will be conducted along world series lines, four victories being necessary to decide the title. Red Faber, the 43-year-old spitballer, is expected to be the Sox's starting pitcher, with Charlie Root opening for the Cubs.

Waterbury Polo Final Delayed Until Sunday

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The final of the Monty Waterbury Memorial Cup polo tournament has been postponed from Wednesday until Sunday at 3 p. m., at the Meadowbrook Club, the United States Polo Association announced today.

An injured knee, twisted in last Sunday's semifinal between Greentree and the Gauchos is still bothering G. H. ("Pete") Bostwick, Greentree's bantamweight No. 2, and he will be unable to play before Sunday.

The final will be between Greentree and Devereux Milburn's Templeton four, which yesterday eliminated the last Argentine threat, Lewis Lacey's Hurlingham four.

JR. WORLD'S SERIES ON TODAY

ST. PAUL, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Manager Lefty Leifield of St. Paul and Manager Billy Southworth of Rochester, both predicted the first victory today for their teams in baseball's little world series.

Tomorrow the champions of the American Association and the title winners of the International League will decide who was wrong when they play the first tilt at Lexington Park.

Huck Betts will hurl for the Saints in an effort to win the first contest of the nine-game series. Southworth said he hadn't made up his mind who would be on the mound for the Red Wings, though Ray Starr, the most consistent winner for Rochester, was expected to get the call.

Silent on his pitching selection after a workout at the park this afternoon, Southworth was confident of setting a 1931 precedent for Rochester's parent club, the St. Louis Cardinals, to follow in the world series opening Thursday.

"I have heard that St. Paul is one of the greatest clubs that ever won a pennant in the association," said

BASEBALL AND CHARITY

William Harridge, president of the American League, and John Heydler, president of the National League, replying to the proposal that a share of the world series receipts be devoted to relief for the needy of the Nation, cite the contributions to charity already made by the big league baseball clubs.

In a telegram to The Post, Mr. Harridge says:

"In reply to your telegram of September 27, during the past three weeks six exhibition games have been played between the National and American League clubs, the receipts from which amounted to $203,757.90. This entire amount was turned over to the various charity funds for the unemployed. In addition, an exhibition game was played at Shibe Park Philadelphia, between the Philadelphia National and American League clubs for the charity fund. From this, I believe you will agree that the major leagues have shown their willingness to cooperate with the various charity organizations in providing for the needy and unfortunate."

Baseball has made a very creditable showing in its charity efforts, says Mr. Heydler in his reply. Referring to the sums collected by the interleague benefit games, Mr. Heydler declares that "this money has been turned over to local communities which in my opinion are best fitted to disburse such funds."

St. Louis Must Hit Ball To Beat A's, Says Heydler

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Defensive baseball won't beat the world's champion Athletics in the forthcoming championship conflict in the opinion of John Arnold Heydler, chief executive of the National League.

"The Cardinals must play aggressive, hard-fighting baseball from the outset, if they expect to stop Connie Mack's team," declared Heydler on his arrival today with an official party to witness the opening of the world series Thursday.

"It won't do a bit of good to consult the oracles or nail horseshoes over the clubhouse door," added the league president. "The games will be won and lost right out there on the ball field.

"It is up to our club to force the fight. The Cardinals start the series on their own grounds with the National League ball. If this is an advantage to them, they should make the most of it.

"I have no prediction to make as to the outcome. The Cardinals are a good team. They are well rested for the series. They will be handicapped if Haines is unable to pitch at all, but the club has good reserve strength. It has shown it can hustle

President Hoover to See Monday's Game in Philly

(Associated Press.)

PERHAPS Philadelphia baseball fans can find a good omen in President Hoover's announcement today that he will attend the third game of the World Series at Shibe Park on Monday. Since he entered the White House, Mr. Hoover has seen five big league ball games. The Athletics were one of the contending teams in each and won all five games. Two were world series contests.

The Chief Executive plans to go to Philadelphia by special train on Monday morning, returning to Washington that evening.

Smiling, he he made the announcement at this regular press conference, the President said:

"I will be glad to have all the press support on this trip you can muster."

The President will leave on a special train and return the same way immediately after the game.

Injured Ankle Fails Star Third Sacker in Workout; Street Will Rely on High

Macks Quoted 2-to-1 Favorites in St. Louis

St. Louis, Sept. 29 (U.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics were quoted as 2-to-1 favorites tonight by Tom Kearney, St. Louis betting commissioner, to win the world series from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Kearney's odds follow:

SERIES.
Athletics, 1-2.
Cardinals, 3-2.

FIRST GAME.
Athletics, 3-5.
Cardinals, 6-5.

FOUR STRAIGHT.
Athletics, 6-1.
Cardinals, 20-1.

A'S CHEERED AS TEAM DEPARTS

Frenzied Fans at Station to See Champs Off for St. Louis.

By WILLIAM R. SPEAR.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The champion American League baseball team left for St. Louis tonight in quest of its third consecutive world series pennant with the cheers and good wishes of frenzied fans echoing after its special train.

Photographers' flashlights flared, the crowd roared its acclamation and farewell, and some of the fans pressed so closely against the train that the departure was delayed five minutes while a group of redcaps pushed them back.

Mack Given Greatest Innovation.

Each athlete received an ovation as he appeared at the North Philadelphia Station, but the greatest roar was reserved for Connie Mack, the smiling mentor of the A's.

Mack was reluctant to make any predictions as to the outcome of the series of games his boys will play with the St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League for the second straight season.

"We realize we have a real battle on our hands," he told the Associated Press. "No, I wouldn't say we are sure we are going to win, but we hope to win and will do our best."

A group of youngsters lent their quota of shouts to the occasion. They established themselves at one end of the platform an hour before the guards went to the gate downstairs and clustered around each player as he ascended.

Car-Window Wings Are Torn Off.

"Strike 'em all out, Lefty," and "Don't forget that home run, Al," were some of the cries that greeted them.

Even after the conductors called "all board" and the members of the team and the rest of the party were in their seats the crowd's enthusiasm continued.

Several wings that project from sleeping car windows were torn off.

G. U.-West. Md. Grid Tickets Are Available

Choice tickets for the Georgetown-Western Maryland football game at Griffith Stadium Saturday are still available at the Hilltop athletic office, the stadium and Spalding's store, 1338 G street northwest, it was announced last night.

A radio outline of the game's prospects will be given by Harry Costello, former Georgetown back field star, over station WOL from 5:45 to 6 p. m. tomorrow.

Navy Drills for Opener In Hard Scrimmages

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 29.—A hard offensive scrimmage against the Plebes featured the practice session of Navy today. A similar program will be carried out tomorrow.

In today's workouts first and second varsity outfits lined up against the two strongest plebe combinations.

"Bullet Lou" Kirn, backfield ace, who suffered a twisted ankle last week, will be out of the opening game against William and Mary Saturday, the coaches preferring to save him for the hard battle expected from Curly Byrd's Marylanders the following Saturday. His place has been taken by Tschirgi, veteran of two campaigns.

Cards Take Batting Practice Against Lefthanders.

Derringer Still Seen as Starting Hurler for St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The jinx pursuing Cardinal prospects in the world series struck another blow today with the indication Earl (Sparky) Adams, veteran third baseman, will not be able to play in the opening game Thursday because of an injured ankle.

Adams participated in the workout this afternoon at Sportsman's Park, after the National League champions had been acclaimed in a brilliant "victory parade" through the heart of the city, but the dimunutive third sacker obviously was not in the best of condition.

Adams' ankle, hurt ten days ago, pained him so much that he told Gabby Street after the practice that he doubted his ability to play in the first two games here. The Cardinal pilot said he would start Andy High at third if Adams is not sufficiently improved to take the field Thursday.

Adams Injury Jolt To Cards.

Coming on top of the shoulder injury that has put Jesse Haines on the shelf, the condition of Adams today was another jolt to the hopes of the Cardinals that they will overthrow the world champion Athletics.

Adams has been a spark plug to the team all season, hitting close to .300 and playing a fine defensive game. High has a reputation as a money player, however, and has proved his ability in an emergency role in the past.

The third major Cardinal casualty, Center Fielder Pepper Martin, probably will start the series despite a damaged knee. Manager Street has two alternative outfield combinations in reserve if Martin can not play or is forced to withdraw after starting. Against right-handed pitching, Watkins will play center and Orsatti right. Roettger will get the call in center and Blades in right against southpaws.

National League Stars On Scene.

Walker's appearance, together with the arrival of Glenn Wright, captain of the Brooklyn Club, and other National League stars, indicated an unusual concentration of the senior circuit's forces aimed at accomplishing the end of the America League's world series streak.

Club officials placed the capacity of Sportsman's Park at 39,500 for the series and predicted a sellout for the first two games here. The record of 39,960 was set in the 1926 series with the Yankees.

The civic victory celebration today was enthusiastic, although not so spontaneous as the outburst of popular sentiment following the first triumph of the Red Birds five years ago. Manager Street and his men were showered with ticker taps and cheers in a triumphal parade.

Miss Cross Defeats Miss Jacobs in Upset

San Francisco, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Playing the most spectacular tennis of her career, Edith Cross, of San Francisco, defeated Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, generally regarded as the second strongest player in the country, 3—6, 8—6, 6—3, today in the second round of the women's singles.

Monday Boxing Show Is Canceled at Fort

Owing to conflicting attractions, such as world series baseball and football games, and the fact that many of its officials will be taking part in military maneuvers, Fort Washington has canceled its proposed boxing show for next Monday night. Marty Gallagher was to have appeared in the feature bout against either Frankie Wine or Reds Barry.

The next show at the fort will be on October 12, with Billy Landers and Frankie De Angelo clashing for the third time in the headliner. This will wind up the fort's season. A semifinal between Henry Irving, local knockout artist, and Joe Finazzo, of Baltimore, is under consideration.

BERBER UP IN FINAL STRIDE TO WIN HAVRE DE GRACE FEATURE

Sunvir Loses Decision by A Head

Hagerstown First Field Horse of Meet to Win; Pays 15-1.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Sept. 29.—A crowd of 8,000, which included Vice President Charles Curtis, saw one of the greatest finishes of the present meeting when Mrs. James Arthur's Berber got up in the final stride to win by a head from Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt's Sunvir in the mile and one-sixteenth of the Middle Classes Handicap.

Off slowly, Berber could do not better than fourth in the field of five going down the back lane. In the meantime, Aldershot, Meridian Queen and Sunvir were endeavoring to make a runaway of the race.

Swinging for home Berber was still fourth, but when Jockey Pat Remillard started whipping him, the 4-year-old chestnut son of Bondage and Freezy Sneezy ran as if possessed.

Sunvir Is Overhauled Near Finish.

At the eighth pole, he was third. Swinging by the sixteenth pole, he was second and by then the fans realized he had a chance of overhauling Sunvir, who was bowling along in front. At the 70-yard mark Workman was driving Sunvir, but Berber was not to be denied and Remillard dropped his mount's head down in front at the pay-off line to register his eighth score of the meeting.

The Gadabout, the day's secondary feature, saw a decided upset when the Log Cabin Stud's Queenly Way, paying $30.10, raced 6 furlongs in 1:13 2-5, to win from Mrs. A. Nelson's Penchant, another long shot. Third money went to the Greentree Stable's Delicacy.

The fans installed Mrs. John D. Hertz's Seven Veils, an odds-on favorite, but the gray daughter of Luke McLuke showed speed for a bit over a half mile and then faded out of the picture.

J. D. Baker's Hagerstown, a field horse, the first of the fall season to win, outran eleven other 2-year-olds in the day's opener. Mrs. Max Hirsch's Dunny Boy, a first time starter, saved the place from the Foxcatcher Farm's Firade. A claim of foul was lodged against the winner, but it was disallowed.

Bad Actors in Stalls to Be Banned.

The ruling made Saturday by the stewards that the further entry of all horses would be refused who would not break from the stall gates was put into effect in the mile and one-sixteenth of the fifth, when J. Goff's Signeeze Play was unruly and had to be taken outside the gates.

The winner turned up in J. C. Cremen's Margaret Mc, one that came from behind in the stretch to whip Arras. The latter outran the field of nine from the start and led until well into the home stretch. Third money went to Redivius.

Staging a rousing rally in the last stages, Mrs. C. M. Middleton's Vimont, ridden by E. Barnes, defeated Gun Man, Crossbones and the others in a field of twelve to win the seventh race of 1⅛ miles for older horses. Vimont rewarded his backers with the nice price of $17.40 on a $2 mutuel wager.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Havre de Grace Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

HAVRE DE GRACE RACE TRACK, Md., Sept. 29.—Tomorrow will be Penn A. C. Day here and approximately 400 members of the organization for which the day is named will be guests of the Harford Agricultural & Breeders Association. Featuring a well-balanced program of seven events will be Penn A. C. Handicap for a purse of $2,000 to be decided over the mile and a sixteenth route and run as the fifth race. The feature drew eight entries overnight.

Taking a line through Preston Burch's Tambour, which beat TRED AVON, Mate and other good 3-year-olds in last Wednesday's Potomac Handicap, Mrs. John Hertz's RISQUE appears well placed in the Penn A. C. Handicap. The daughter of Stimulus was an easy winner over Tambour in the mile and a quarter Alabama Stakes at Saratoga Springs last month. We are assuming, of course, that Trainer Willis Knapp has RISQUE up to a good race. HILLSBOROUGH may be up to beat TRED AVON. It is, indeed, hard to say just how good TRED AVON is, because she seems to improve with each start. The fact remains, however, that HILLSBOROUGH should have beaten the Sir Greysteel filly the last time they met.

FIRST RACE — LAUNCELOT and CHARLIE K., first and second, respectively, on the also eligible list in the day's opener, figure to finish in the order named. LAUNCELOT showed improvement with each start in New York. He has had a light campaign this year. CHARLIE K. raced as though short in the first race Saturday. He's in good hands. MAGOTHY is dead fit. She wasn't up to a mile-and-a-sixteenth race last Saturday. We expect her to hang on longer this time. SIR WRACK is preferred over the others.

SECOND RACE—MEA'S race here last Friday can be tossed out. She reared at the break and was not persevered with when it was apparent she could not win. On New York form, the Messenger filly figures best. JAMBALAYA had a rough journey back of Ha Ha, his stable mate, and ALTMARK last Friday. He was forced to take the overland to gain a good position. ALTMARK is a rapid beginner. He had no excuse when Ha Ha beat him a neck last Friday. ALTMARK'S best races have been over deep tracks. AMERICANA will be dangerous if he gets off the also eligible list.

THIRD RACE—MASKED KNIGHT, a brother to the fleet Masked Ball, needs to improve slightly over his race back of Clotho here last Thursday to win the Yarrow Brae. The W. R. Coe colorbearer only weakened in the last few strides. He probably needed the race. CAPACITY was good third to Burning Blaze and Our Fancy last week. Clotho, which beat MASKED KNIGHT, was in the same contest and he was far back of CAPACITY. FREDERICK has been racing with better company.

FOURTH RACE—MAGNIFICO has turned in some sharp training moves since his last disappointing race and is well placed here. SURF BOARD has been training well. Six furlongs may be too short for him. RIP VAN WINKLE should hold AVLON safe.

SIXTH RACE—WORKLESS has little to beat in the sixth. If he is ever going to win a race it will be this one. GLENNO, providing he is in a running mood, should be up to whip HARRIS II. The latter ran a good race here Monday.

SEVENTH RACE—DADDY NELSON was close up his last two starts. The nightcap looks like the right spot. Old RUBAN ROUGE will fancy the long route. The antiquated gelding was at his best through the recent half-mile season. JORICO can hardly miss earning some part of the purse. He performed over the small ovals. His two recent efforts at this track were good.

WEATHER, CLEAR. TRACK, FAST.

FIRST RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:15. Off at 2:20½. Winner, J. D. Baker's b. c. (2), by Sandy Beal—Belle of Plymouth. Trained by E. Brining. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:47, 1:13 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HAGERSTOWN (field), $32.20, $10.00, $5.80; DUNNY BOY, $15.10, $9.70; FIRADE, $7.10.

HAGERSTOWN, in close pursuit of the leaders from the start, raced into an easy lead when leaving the back stretch and was never menaced thereafter. DUNNY BOY improved his position under pressure, but could not reach the winner. FIRADE broke fast, raced CLEAR KNIGHT into submission, but weakened fast in the final three furlongs. POLYCRON, a forward factor and saving ground early, weakened when put to punishment. JUNGLE BOY went evenly. FACCHINA was held safe. CONSUMMATION broke slowly and lacked speed. CLEAR KNIGHT stopped.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:55. Off at 2:59½. Winner, C. Harvey Pierce's b. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—THE HEATHEN, $4.50, $4.30, $3.00; GRAND PRINCE, $25.90, $10.50; DUNLIN'S LAD, $3.90.

THE HEATHEN, slower than usual to get going, entered contention on his own courage, secured clear passage on the inside until approaching the homestretch, came to the outside in the latter part and finished second to the leader. GRAND PRINCE, Latter, well up in the early running, was forced wide into the home stretch, but continued stoutly to the end. DUNLIN'S LAD suffered much early interference. He finished stoutly when gaining racing room during the stretch run. HACKY H. weakened slightly in the final drive. PERKINS finished with a rush on the outside. ANGRY PLUME raced well. JUST BELIEVE quit.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—QUEENLY WAY, $30.10, $13.20, $5.80; PENCHANT, $18.90, $7.10; DELICACY, $3.40.

QUEENLY WAY, quick to begin and showing good speed, raced CAMBETTY and GENERAL ADVANCE into defeat in the first half mile, came determinedly when challenged during the stretch run and outstayed PENCHANT. Latter, rated along for the first half mile, went to the outside of the leaders with a rush and was wearing the winner down steadily nearing the finish. DELICACY, forced to race on the outside all the way, closed courageously after losing ground into the home stretch. GENERAL ADVANCE, stoutly ridden in the early running, faltered in the final test. SEVEN VEILS could not threaten the leaders after the first half mile. CAMBETTY stopped.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,600. The Middle Classes Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:02. Off at 4:04. Winner, Mrs. James Arthur's ch. c. (4), by Bondage—Freezy Sneezy. Trained by J. P. Mayberry. Value to winner, $1,125; second, $275; third, $150; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24, $0:48 2-5, 1:14, 1:40, 1:46 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BERBER, $19.30, $5.30, $2.50; SUNVIR, $3.40, $2.20; ALDERSHOT, $2.30.

BERBER, well handled and kept within striking distance of the leaders, gained stoutly when put to a drive in the final half mile, swung to the outside of the leaders and, closing resolutely, was up in the final twenty yards. SUNVIR, rated for the first six furlongs, disposed of MERIDIAN QUEEN after a brief brush and fought it out gamely nearing the finish. ALDERSHOT, steadied in pursuit of the pacemaker, closed with good courage. MERIDIAN QUEEN had high speed for six furlongs. SIDNEY GRANT labored under his impost.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:33. Off at 4:41. Winner, J. C. Cremen's ch. f. (2), by Lucky Hour—Fulminate. Trained by J. G. Wagnon. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:15, 1:40 3-5, 1:46 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MARGARET MC, $9.30, $4.60, $3.40; ARRAS, $5.80, $5.20; REDIVIVUS, $8.00.

MARGARET MC, reserved in the early running, reached the leaders with good speed, shook off ARRAS and came away in the final furlong. ARRAS, hard hustled to shake off repeated efforts from SQUEEZE PLAY in the first six furlongs, was unable to withstand the winner's rush in the final drive. REDIVIVUS, swung to the outside of the leaders in the final issue, closed stoutly. AIRWAY showed a good effort. SQUEEZE PLAY, fractious at the barrier, broke from the outside of the stall gates, was made entirely too much use of chasing ARRAS and weakened badly. CLIPSETTA had no speed.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:10. Off at 5:11. Winner, J. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FOURTH WARD, $8.40, $4.80, $4.40; VOWED VENGEANCE, $9.90, $6.90; SKID, $5.30.

FOURTH WARD, going along in the first division while under slight urging, responded stoutly when shaken up and, wearing the leaders down nearing the final furlong pole, withstood a stout drive gamely to last long enough. VOWED VENGEANCE, shuffled back going to the first turn, reached full stride midway of the back stretch and came through on the inside when staging a bold effort nearing the end. SKID was hard ridden from the start and held on well after shaking off ROYAL ROCK and BLUE DARTER. BLUE DARTER and ROYAL ROCK were made too much use of. FIXIT showed a good effort. BAKED ALASKA tired.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:40. Off at 5:43½. Winner, Mrs. C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—VIMONT, $17.40, $8.40, $6.50; GUN MAN, $16.50, $8.00; CROSSBONES, $6.00.

VIMONT, slow to settle in his stride, worked his way up stoutly when racing on the back stretch, circled his field and finished full of run, caught the leaders in the last sixteenth. BUN MAN began slow, improved his position steadily and outstayed CROSSBONES. Latter sprinted into a good early lead, but weakened during the stretch run. FAIRDALE went gamely for the final issue. ALL BLUE tired suddenly in the final furlong. ELIZABETH raced well. FIRE BRIGADE fell back early.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

THE "Ghost of Howth" is believed to be that of a Mistress Grace O'Malley, the daughter of an Irish chieftain who lived nearly three centuries ago. The stately and ancient Howth Castle stands on an upland overlooking Dublin Bay. The story goes that Grace O'Malley was once refused admittance to the castle when she sought shelter after being forced ashore by a storm, when returning from a visit to Queen Elizabeth. Her party left in a rage, but kidnaped one of the Howth children on their way and returned the child only after the Howths had pledged themselves to yield to the demands of the Mistress O'Malley.

To teach them a lesson in politeness toward guests, she demanded that as long as the Howth family existed they should set at each meal a place for her. She would never eat with them, but would always be present in spirit, and should they fail to fulfill her wish, a curse would fall on the house of Howth for all time. Fearing that the Mistress O'Malley would make good her threats, the Howths have, one generation after another, for 250 years, prepared a place at the table for their unseen guest.

GEORGETOWN-WEST. MARYLAND GAME WORRYING COACHES

Rival Teams Not at Top Form

New Set of Linemen Impressive in G. U. Drill.

5 Berths Still Open on Terror Squad, Is Report.

TOMMY MILLS and Dick Harlow, respective football chieftains of Georgetown and Western Maryland, are two coaches with but a single thought, viz, "Oh where, oh where can I find a first-string team?"

It is not news that Mills has been in a quandary as to selecting a regular eleven for the season, but yesterday the word came down from the hills of Maryland that Harlow, too, is perplexed on the subject, despite the fact his season has not begun.

Mills Not Yet Certain Of Starters.

Mills had a chance to watch his charges in a regulation game last Saturday when Georgetown defeated Lebanon Valley, yet at this moment the fiery Hilltop leader can not tell you just how his team will line up in Griffith Stadium next Saturday.

As this is the date for the clash of the Hilltoppers and Green Terrors, a game that means much to both sides, it is easily understood why Mills and Harlow are worrying overtime.

Some uncertainty about Georgetown's line-up was dissipated yesterday when Mills sent his men through a strenuous 1-hour scrimmage. The line play of one team caught the mentor's fancy and he announced later that this set of forwards in all probability would answer the starting whistle Saturday.

This group is composed of Tommy Carolan and Ray Hudson, ends; Ed Katalinas and George Dyer, tackles; Maurice Dubofsky and Dick Danner, guards, and Fred Callahan, center.

The immediate problem for Mills now boils down to the selection of a back field. He had Leroy Bordeau, Mickey Lione, Joe Alenty and Bill Maczees working as a unit yesterday, but their work left plenty to be desired, Mills indicated.

Talent for Five Berths Sought By Harlow.

Coach Harlow's trouble deals chiefly with finding one half back, a pair of ends, one tackle and one guard. In the other positions Western Maryland is well fortified. Now that Paul Bates has gone from one end position, Harlow feels the loss keenly, for Bates was one of the outstanding flank guardians in Eastern football the last two years.

The problem of replacing George Ekaitis, a really great quarter back, who graduated, is becoming less worrisome to Harlow since Carl Jones, a 1930 substitute, has been improving by leaps and bounds in current drills. Before the campaign is far gone, Jones, it is predicted, will prove himself a worthy successor to the departed Ekaitis.

Floyd Doughty, a half back, who caused Georgetown a lot of bother in 1929 and 1930, will appear once again on Saturday, as will Tiny Pincura, giant tackle, and Harold Koppe, triple-threat full back.

GOOD HITTING TO WIN FOR CARDS—HEYDLER

under Street's leadership and I expect it to start the series in an aggressive frame of mind."

After four years of world series famine for the national league, Heydler feels that it is up to his circuit's representative to "fight the good fight," win or lose.

"The Cardinals gave a good account of themselves last year," continued Heydler. "Until Foxx's home run in the fifth game, it was a toss-up.

"The experience-plus the improvement of our championship club, should be manifest in making this a close contest. It will mean much to whichever team gets the jump.

"The Athletics' not only have a powerful club but exceptional advantages in possessing such experienced leaders as Connie Mack, Kid Gleason and Eddie Collins.

"Street, in a short space of time, has achieved fine results. He has a seasoned field leader in Frank Frisch.

"In the final anaylsis, however, the result will be determined by the spirit of the players on the field. If the Cardinals go into the series on their toes, determined to force the opportunities and play real offensive baseball, they have a good chance to win."

GOLF "LADIES' DAYS."

Ladies will be admitted free to the golf course at White Flint Country Club each Tuesday until further notice, it was announced yesterday by Walter McEachern, manager of the Rockville pike layout.

Women golfers will not have to be accompanied by escorts in order to use the course.

ELON ELEVEN OBSTACLE FOR G. W.

Colonials Are Drilled Hard to Prepare for Visitors.

IF Elon is a set-up, one couldn't tell it from the way the George Washington Colonials are going about preparations for their visit here Saturday. The Buff and Blue gridmen are getting plenty of hard work to have them on edge for the North Carolinians.

Reports brought back by Coaches Leo Raskowski and Jean Sexton on the ability of Elon caused Head Coach Pixlee to proceed with full steam ahead. According to Raskowski and Sexton, Elon has a pair of backs good enough to cause trouble for any team. They also report that they have a good line and will furnish the Colonials with plenty of opposition.

Last winter Elon came to Washington with its basket ball team and gave G. W. a defeat that wasn't relished Anxious to wipe out this score, the Colonials will trot out on Central field Saturday ready to even up matters and at the same time hang up their second straight win.

Three Added to List Of Casualties.

Three more players joined the growing casualty list of the Colonials. Frank Blackistone, center, and Jack Jones, full back, have wrenched knees that keep them out of practice, while Boyd Hickman, promising sophomore guard, has a bad shoulder that forces him to the sidelines except in signal practice.

The freshmen were taught Elon plays by Coach Sexton yesterday and the varsity, besides working out a defense for them, also practiced several new plays of their own.

President's Cup Game Listed Here on Dec. 5

The President's Cup football game, thought abandoned when the All-Marines Team was disbanded last fall, is to be renewed in Washington this season with the Quantico Marines taking the place of the team that represented the entire corps.

As for the past two years, the other team for this game will be the Coast Guard. The game is scheduled in Griffith Stadium on December 5.

December 5, All-Coast Guard at Griffith Stadium. Washington (President's Cup game).

Southworth. "However, we have been through the grind of three postseason series and I think our experience will pull us through."

Leifield was no less confident. "I look for a hard-fought and interesting series, but I think our club will win. We have shown our mettle in the 1931 race and I believe we will be just as effective in a short series."

PLAYGROUND NETMEN IN FINALS

Burroughs Wins Jr. Title; Seniors to Clash Today.

BURROUGHS PLAYGROUND Junior tennis team, composed of Walter May, Jimmy Roach, Wilbur Robb and Eddie Pinkham, yesterday won the Playground Tennis Junior League championship on the courts at Chevy Chase grounds, beating Rosedale in the final round, 4—1.

Play for the senior title begins today on the same courts with Montrose, heavy favorite, meeting Chevy Chase. The two teams won their respective sections in handy fashion. Play will start at 3:30 o'clock and consist of four singles and one doubles.

While 4—1 gives evidence of being a runaway, the individual matches in the Burroughs-Rosedale match produced some of the closest tennis since the league was formed, two months ago. Jimmy Roach, playing No. 2 position on the winner team, beat Bob Boyd 6—4, 5—7, 10—8 in a match which could easily have gone the other way.

Rosedale's lone victory came when Elvin Shanks turned in a 3—6, 3—0, 6—1 victory over Eddie Pinkham. Shanks, after dropping the first set rallied strongly to take the next two in more than decisive fashion.

Singles — May (Burroughs) defeated Clements, 8—6, 6—3; Roach (B.) defeated Boyd, 6—4, 5—7, 10—8; Robb (B.) defeated Laskey, 6—4, 6—1; Shanks (R.) defeated Pinkham, 3—6, 6—0, 6—1. Doubles—Shanks and Clements (R.) defaulted to Sample and Cooke.

C.U. CHANGES FOOTBALL LINE-UP

4 Reserves Are Slated to Face C. C. N. Y. Here Saturday.

Eager to see more of his shock troops, Coach Arthur Bergman yesterday selected Fred Guarnieri, quarter back; Carl DeMello, half back, and "Bingo" Flynn, full back, to team up with Tom Whelan in the back field. "Whitey" Ambrose, veteran snapper-back, is to give way to Bill Conter at the game's beginning.

Bergman's purpose in saving Oliver, Janowski, Sheary and Ambrose is twofold. Primarily, he is desirous of seeing his emergency men under fire. And again, he believes the quartet mentioned will profit by a rest.

Regulars to Be Used If Necessary.

In event the competition warrants it, the above-mentioned regulars will return to action as the game progresses. Otherwise, still more changes will be in order.

"I'd like to use some of the boys who failed to crash the Boston College game," Bergman stated yesterday. "City College has a fairly formidable team, though, and we can't take too many chances."

Substitutes again absorbed a lion's share of the work yesterday as the Cardinals continued practice. Phil Gross, big tackle, and Jim Lyons, clever guard, again were missing. Gross, fearing a torn muscle in his left side, is to be X-rayed today.

PREP GOLFERS SCHEDULING.

The Goergetown Prep Golf Team would like to arrange matches with local and nearby high and prep school golf teams for the remainder of the season. Gordon Zubrod is manager of the team, and can be reached at the school.

CENTENNIALS STAGE PRACTICE.

The Centennials, 115-pound grid team, will practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Seventeenth and B streets.

MD. RETAINS LINE-UP OF VETERANS

No Changes Expected in Array to Meet U. of Virginia.

MARYLAND'S second and third stringers did all the hard work yesterday at College Park as the Old Liners, with the floodlights turned on, got down to brass tacks for the tilt with Virginia in Byrd Stadium Saturday.

Although he was ashamed of the way his veteran combination played against Washington College last Saturday, Coach Curley Byrd has kept the first team intact. He feels that experience is the best teacher and that the Old Liners are not so "cocky" as they were previous to the tilt with the Eastern Shoremen.

"If they are, Virginia will take it out of them, and we probably will be better equipped for the battle with Navy in Washington on October 10," Byrd said. "However, I believe the boys will snap out of it for the game Saturday."

Old Liners in Good Shape Physically.

Except for a few bruises, the worst being to Shorty Chalmers' shoulder, the Old Liners are in good physical trim. And they have shown a lot of pepper during the last two evenings in running through plays they are perfecting for Virginia and Navy.

In the meantime the other members of the squad are having scrimmages to determine who shall play the understudy roles or gain the job of some failing first-stringer.

The veterans will get one rough session this week, perhaps today.

Emerson Wins, 13-0, Over Business Eleven

Business High and Emerson Institute went through a fast practice scrimmage yesterday on the Monument Grounds, with each team using all of its reserves and substitutes in an effort to season their squads for important week-end tilts. Emerson won, 13-0.

Business' regulars were able to hold the Emerson Team throughout most of the game. The Stenographers' season opens Friday against Gonzaga at Gonzaga, while Emerson on Saturday engages Gettysburg at Gettysburg.

Team Net Title Play To Start Saturday

The draw for the team tennis championship of the District will be played Saturday and Sunday at Wardman Park Hotel and bring together the six winners of the city's six tennis leagues.

Edgewood, Capital City League champs, meet Standards, Suburban winners, and Navy, Departmental League title holders, clash with Public Parks Saturday. On Sunday Edgemoor, country club champions, will meet the winners of the Public Parks-Navy match, and champions of the Bankers League will take on the winner between Edgewood and Standards.

Saturday's matches will start at 1:30 o'clock and Sunday at 9 o'clock and 2:30 o'clock. The matches bring together virtually every prominent player in town. There will be four singles and three doubles to every match.

JUNIOR NAPOLEON WINS.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 29.—Junior Napoleon, owned by the Jones Construction Co., of Elizabeth City, N. C., today won all three heats of the 2:24 pace, the only harness event on the Interstate Fair card. Little Corporal was second and Caddo Silk third.

Hitting The Head Pin

THE National Capital League functioned again last night at the Lucky Strike pin toppling salon, with nothing in the way of spectacular scores. Takoma Park took all three games from King's Palace, but only in the third game, 581, was midseason form approached by the line-up of Watson, Neirs, Walker, McDonald and James.

Competition was keen in the Washington Ladies' League at Columbia, Hilltoppers, Columbians, Shamrock and University defeated, respectively, Cardinals, Beeques, Keenos and Veterans' Bureau, but the margin was 2-1. Bess Hoffman, of Shamrock, with 358, took individual honors.

King Pin and Lansburgh No. 2 were the fair-haired boys of the King Pin Business Men's League last night, the former beating Nationals, 2-1, and the latter nosing out Hecht.

On the same alleys Kann's, Columbia and Tip Top scored victories over Navy, Capital and Lansburgh's in the Ladies' Independent League.

Next Best to a Box Seat Is The Post's Scoreboard

Again The Post will bring the world series home to Washington fans by medium of its magnetic scoreboard, radio and public address system.

Next best to a box seat at Philadelphia and St. Louis is the automatic scoreboard on the front of The Post Building, depicting the plays exactly as they take place on the ball field, showing the line-ups, the box score as the game progresses and bringing to Washington fans every event that transpires on the scene of play, which starts tomorrow at St. Louis.

You see the pitcher wind up, the batter take his "cut" and then witness the course of the ball as it is fielded from any part of the diamond.

There will be no dull moments for the fans watching The Post's scoreboard. A member of The Post's sports staff will address the throngs through the huge amplifiers, giving sidelights on the game, tracing the progress of play and detailing the characteristics of the players as they appear at the plate or make outstanding plays in the field. Next best to a box seat.

Women's Golf Title Play On Cards at 3 D. C. Clubs

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WOMEN'S club championships were the golf features yesterday at three of the local clubs. On two courses some of the matches were extended, Mrs. L. C. Pray and Mrs. J. J. Hasley winning at the Manor Club at the nineteenth and twentieth holes, respectively, while at the Indian Spring Club Mrs. George Diffenbaugh was carried to the nineteenth hole before she was able to claim a victory over Mrs. C. J. Matson.

At the Indian Spring Club the final round will be played today between Mrs. J. V. Brownell, the medalist in the qualification round, and Mrs. A. C. Heap, the latter defeating Mrs. J. W. Harvey, jr., 2 up in the semi-final round. Mrs. Harvey was 2 up at the turn, materially aided by a birdie 4 on the long seventh hole, but lost the tenth when she attempted to gain distance with a brassy after her drive into the rough and was eventually defeated. The matches at the Indian Spring Club resulted as follows:

First flight—Mrs. J. V. Brownell defeated Mrs. H. H. Shinnick, 6 and 4; Mrs. A. C. Heap defeated Mrs. J. William Harvey, jr., 2 up.

Pairing for today—Mrs. Brownell vs. Mrs. Heap. Consolation, final round—Mrs. Tom Moore vs. Mrs. J. H. Holland.

Second flight—Mrs. George Diffenbaugh defeated Mrs. C. J. Matson, 1 up, 19 holes; Mrs. E. B. Wagner defeated Miss Grace Tregeser, 1 up.

Mrs. Jerome Meyer yesterday led the field in the qualifying round at the Woodmont Club women's championship with a card of 100. Match play will begin this morning with the following pairings:

First flight—Mrs. Jerome Meyer vs. Mrs. L. B. Schloss. Mrs. Gilbert Hahn vs. Mrs. Jack Shulman. Miss Sylvia Straus vs. Miss Bertha Israel. Mrs. F. Bensinger vs. Mrs. Theodore D. Peyser.

Second flight—Mrs. Jesse Miller vs. Mrs. M. D. Montage. Mrs. A. J. Stephens vs. Miss Sylvia Sherby. Mrs. D. R. Simon vs. Mrs. Leon Oppenheimer, bye vs. Mrs. E. R. Nordlinger.

The match between the teams of the Chevy Chase Club and the Rolling Road Club, which ended last Sunday in a tie, 9 to 9, will be played off next Friday on the course of the Chevy Chase Club, and the winner will play the Elkridge Club on the Elkridge course.

The Indian Spring team is scheduled to play the team of the Manor Club next Sunday on the Indian Spring course.

Four flights of women players yesterday competed in the first round of match play at the Manor Club for the Women's Club championship, the results being as follows:

First flight—Mrs. L. C. Pray defeated Mrs. H. J. Simons, medalist, 1 up, 19 holes; Mrs. F. M. McClelland, defending champion, defeated Mrs. H. T. Whitlock, 3 and 2; Mrs. J. T. Powell defeated Mrs. B. C. Hartig, 3 and 1; Mrs. D. N. Burnham defeated Mrs. T. B. Beers, 2 and 1.

Second flight—Mrs. George D. See defeated Mrs. J. T. Chappell, 5 and 4; Mrs. J. J. Hasley defeated Mrs. R. N. Calhoun, 1 up, 20 holes; Mrs. P. A. Smith defeated Mrs. H. K. Beck, 4 and 3; Mrs. George F. Miller defeated Mrs. J. C. Gibson, 2 and 1.

Third flight—Mrs. R. E. Jones defeated Mrs. M. L. Simcoe, 3 and 1; Mrs. W. W. Talcott defeated Mrs. A. H. Perley, 1 up; Mrs. H. J. Kane defeated Mrs. H. P. Teitman, 3 and 2; Mrs. J. G. Taylor defeated Mrs. G. F. Platt, 4 and 2.

Fourth flight—Mrs. W. C. Geling defeated Mrs. George Adams, 6 and 5; Mrs. George W. Riley defeated Mrs. D. A. Seran, 9 and 8; Mrs. Wilson Barrett defeated Mrs. H. G. Wood, 4 and 3; Mrs. F. T. Smith defeated Mrs. C. Steifel, 6 and 5.

Qualifying rounds in the Indian Spring men's championship will be played Friday, Saturday and Sunday, the low sixteen scores to be eligible for match play in the championship flight. Match play rounds will be continued each Saturday and Sunday until the contest is completed.

In the Berthylin invitation cup tournament at Philadelphia yesterday Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, of the Columbia Club and former District amateur champion, qualified with a score of 91 by winning in the playoff and is paired in match-play round today against Miss Edith Quier.

STANTON DRILLS TONIGHT.

THIS MORNING:

ers. But the Cardinals were still in the game and the boos in the bleachers increased as Ruth trotted back to his outfield post. Ruth knocked a second home run in this third time at bat. But the Cardinals were still in the running and St. Louis fans jeered the Babe to the echo for his effort.

Two innings later, the Cardinals had been hopelessly outdistanced. Ruth slammed his third home run clear over the right-field roof. He went back to his outfield position and the ten thousand in the bleachers rose as one to pay homage to the home run king. Mark Anthony at Caesar's burial never transformed a hostile audience into a wildly adulating mob with the completeness that did Ruth with his three home runs that October day in 1928.

There Was 1929

There was 1929, Connie Mack dipped down into his strategical hoard and pulled Howard Ehmke out of his bag of tricks in the opening game against the Cubs. That was the day that Ehmke, hardly mentioned as a world series figure, shut the Cubs out with five hits and struck out 13 with his slow ball and change of pace to set a new strikeout record in a world series game.

But 1929 had another kick. Remember in the fifth and last game, when the Cubs at last seemed on their way to a decisive victory, how the Athletics rose in their might in the eighth inning to wipe out an 8-to-0 lead with a ten-run rally of their own? Yes they did.

The Cardinals made a game comeback last year, evening the series after losing the first two games in Philadelphia. Burleigh Grimes started the fifth and for the first time since 1924, it appeared that a National League contender might take the lead in a world series. But it was not to be. Grimes tricked with Mickey Cochrane in a verbal tilt until he lost control and walked him. And then apple-cheeked Jimmy Foxx rifled one of his three home runs of the series over the fence to win the game that proved to be the turning point of the series. That was 1930.

What will 1931 bring?

ROBINS SEEK FOES.

The Washington Robins, tuning up for their first game in The Post's Capital City League, 135 pound class, are looking for a game for Saturday or Sunday. Call Manager Lou Evry at Lincoln 1329. The Robins will meet at French's this afternoon for weighing in.

OHIO STATE CUTS DRILLS.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Ohio State University gridiron players started their one-a-day practice sessions today with the beginning of classes at the university. A light scrimmage was dished up to the candidates, probably the last before the game Saturday with the University of Cincinnati.

TECH MEETS EPISCOPAL FRIDAY

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Sept. 29.—McKinley High School gridders will invade Hoxton Field at Episcopal High School Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock for a game with the Maroon and Black warriors, who last week copped from Eastern High, of Washington, 6-0.

This will mark the sixth season the Technical High eleven has met the Episcopal boys in football. Last year Episcopal defeated Hap Hardell's team, 26-13, in one of the best played games here.

According to reports, Tech has a fast club this season. It has defeated Baltimore Poly, 13-0, and Handley High, of Winchester, 32-0, in contests so far this campaign.

Game Shifted From Tech Gridiron.

The Episcopal boys were slated to play this contest on a foreign field, but as the Tech gridiron was not ready for a game, the contest was shifted here by the two coaches.

$10,000 Woodbine Race Is Captured by Mate

Toronto, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Completely outclassing his three rivals, A. C. Bostwick's Mate, generally rated as coholder with Twenty Grand of the 3-year-old title, carried 129 pounds to victory in the $10,000 Stanley Produce Stakes over the Woodbine track today. Mate finished the mile and a quarter 12 lengths in front of G. M. Hendrie's Chokoloskee, to pay $2.30 for $2 in the mutuels.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

SPOTTED SKIN.

We get letters about vitiligo at the rate of about one a week and this convinces us that the disease must be widespread.

In this condition there are several patches or blotches of white skin, scattered here and there on the face, neck, body, or limbs. The patches are not inflamed; they do not itch, burn, or pain; they lead to no ulceration nor to anything else of consequence; they are blemishes, and that is the sum total of their offending.

About the only advice we can give is to tell people to dye the spots to about the color of the surrounding skin. Any person can acquire the knack of keeping the skin at about the proper shade.

For this purpose a homemade watery solution of juice from ordinary walnut hulls suffices, particularly if a little alum is added to the solution to mordant it. A recipe sometimes used is:

8 parts alcohol.

The ammonia acts as a mordant and alum can be substituted for it. One correspondent wrote me of some experiments in curing it that were being made in a university medical school, but no proof that they had found a cure has appeared in the literature.

The writer wonders if some of these cases are not related to the condition known as white spots on the nails. The nails are semitransparent, and their normal color is the result of the color of the underlying tissues being viewed through the nail. In a white spot area the nail has lost its transparency and the pink color of the blood and tissue in the nail bed can not be seen.

The color of the pink skin of a good complexion is due to the blood and tissues below showing through the semitransparent skin. The color of such a skin is due, therefore, to the tissues below and not to the skin itself. One wonders if the white spots in such cases may not be merely spots in which the skin has lost its transparency and, therefore, in which the color of the underlying tissue is not transmitted. White spots on nails indicate that some irritation, inflammation, or infection operates at times on the nail bed when the nail is being formed. Prevention consists in avoiding the irritation or injury to the nail bed, be it chemical, bacterial, or mechanical. Is it possible that white spots on the skin result from some local irritation—chemical, bacterial, or physical—and that if such could be found and avoided the white spots would disappear?

In the tropics they have a skin disease called pinta. It is due to a fungus. In this disease the fungus first causes an irritation which results in excess pigmentation. Then, in the midst of the deeply pigmented areas, white blotches make their appearance. These are vitiligo patches, due to a fungus which causes irritation and this, in turn, causes extra pigmentation in some areas and white spots in others.

PROTRUDING EARS.

R. V. J. writes: My small brother's ears protrude quite far from where they should normally be. He is 8 years old. Could you advise how to turn them back?

2. Why should a normal eye continuously water?

REPLY.

1. Have him wear a kit cap that covers the ears and binds them against the head. Such a cap should be worn day and night for a long time.

2. The tear duct is too small to properly drain away the eye secretion.

Bridge Club Women Find 'B' Fatal for Them

San Benito, Tex. (U.P.).—Within a week three San Benito women, all belonging to the same bridge club and all having a surname beginning with "B," were widowed.

John C. Bowie died after a long illness; Elias J. Blount of a heart attack and John W. Betts of injuries suffered when thrown by a mule.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

FRENCH CHIC.

Style No. 294 is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39-inch material with ⅜ yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Address Fashion Dept., The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

STOCK PRICES CLOSE LOWEST IN SIX YEARS

Decline Averages 3.5 Points as Interior Selling Adds to Liquidation.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The wearied security markets took another drubbing today. Stocks generally sold at their lowest quotations in half a dozen years or more.

Actual news developments contributed little or nothing toward the decline. British political uncertainties and the possibility of further flights from the gold standard, together with out own budget problems and the absence of trade revival, remain in the background of the financial picture; perhaps their cumulative effect is encouraging further liquidation. It was reported that some of today's selling came from the interior. The obvious assumption was that with bears under surveillance a large part of the offerings represented other than professional operations.

Industrial and utility stocks lacked support, and most of the favorites in those groups made new lows. Rails, on the other hand, held reasonably firm until toward the close when the entire market was under pressure, having given up a rally that preceded declaration of American Can's regular extra dividend. The decline in the averages was 3.5 points, putting the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite at 79.9. Sales totaled 2,902,390 shares.

Stocks Close at Bottom.

With few exceptions stocks closed at the bottom. U. S. Steel at 72¼ was off 3¼. General Motors was hammered for a loss of more than 2; so was General Electric. American Telephone, after selling as low as 132¼, closed at 134, where the net loss was 1¾.

Woolworth, Westinghouse, Consolidated Gas, Procter & Gamble, Sears Roebuck, Union Pacific, Public Service of New Jersey, Safeway Stores, International Shoe and International Silver lost 2 to 3. General Motors preferred and Wrigley closed 5 lower. Coca Cola went under 100, off 13 points at the lowest, although there was a slight recovery. Kresge and Case were weak. Rails averaged fractionally lower at the finish.

It was a busy day for gold. Foreign earmarking withdrawals amounted to $37,000,000, bringing the total now set aside for this purpose to $332,000,000. Shipments to Europe reached the largest volume in some time. Loss of gold may be expected to continue, bankers point out, although they emphasize that a far greater volume could be sold before there would be any suggestion of a threat to America's financial position.

Outlook Is Obscure.

The domestic trade outlook, so far as the heavy industries are concerned, remains obscure. As one steel trade review pointed out, it is now too late for a seasonal gain to develop in that industry. Consumers are still buying only for immediate requirements and the yearly rail-purchasing movement has not yet made itself felt. Car loadings for the week ended September 19 were sharply higher, but the previous report had covered Labor Day. Freight volume is well below seasonal tendencies.

Sterling exchange strengthened toward the close of the business day, finishing at $3.91, or 5¼ cents higher. Swedish and Dutch currencies also improved and Italian steadied. In general, quotations swung over a wide range.

September wheat lost 2½ cents net, but other months were off much more moderately. Bearish European crop advices and a small export demand appeared to be factors. Corn was down ¾ to 1 cent net, reflecting good weather, weak cables and a poor cash market. Cotton was somewhta affected by stocks and closed 6 to 10 points lower.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Carried down by untoward actions of the stock market, grains today equaled or outdid the season's lowest prices. Adding to unsteadiness of wheat were reports that Russia had cheapened her export quotations 2¾ cents a bushel, and that pressure to sell Canadian wheat abroad had intensified. European purchases of wheat from North America dwindled to a meager total, 250,000 bushels, exclusively Canadian.

Wheat closed fidgety, ¾ to 2¼ cents down; corn, ¼ to 1 off; oats at ¾ to ⅞ decline, and provisions unchanged to 12 cents up.

Lowest prices of the day in wheat, duplicating the season's bottom level for the September delivery, were received just before trading ended. Simultaneously, all deliveries of corn sold down to below any 1931 record. In both grains the chief unsettling influence was the behavior of securities. Reports of a British authority that the full effect of suspension of the gold standard had been witnessed failed to act as a counterbalance. the wheat market in itself was highly sensitive to word of stop loss selling by wheat holders at Liverpool, where closing quotations were 1½ to 1¾ pence lower.

Rallies in wheat were few and far between. About the only support for the market came from previous speculative sellers who were in position to collect a profit. Minneapolis, however, wired that good sized sales of flour were made on the declines in wheat futures. The world's wheat available supply increased 5,055,000 bushels for the week and is now 435,760,000 bushels, against 423,699,000 a year ago.

Increased rural selling of corn accompanied favorable weather conditions. Receipts in Chicago were liberal, 125 cars compared with 95 a week ago and 75 on the corresponding day last year. Shipping demand here was the lightest in a long while. Oats fell with other cereals.

Despite lower quotations on hogs, provisions were firm on account of covering by Eastern shorts.

BONDS YIELD GROUND IN $21,000,000 SALE

Domestic Issues Take Lead in Wide Losses; Some Foreigns Recover.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—In the second most active session of the year bond prices resumed their downward trend today. Sales approximated $21,000,000.

Here and there, particularly in the list of foreign governments, rallying tendencies were displayed, but all sections of the list were forced to give ground in the face of heavy selling pressure.

Liquidation in United States Governments, influenced somewhat by recent signs of hardening rates for medium to long term credit, and the prospect of further Government financing, was at a rapid pace, and carried three of the low-yield issues below par. New minimums for the year were reached by a half dozen or more of the Government's obligations. There was some recovery from the lows of the day, however, and net declines, with one exception, were limited to a quarter of a point. Liberty fourth 4¼s closed 21-32 lower.

Recoveries Cut Losses.

Recovery of many issues of German origin, and some scattered obligations that have suffered wide declines, offset to a small extent the heavy undertone of the foreign section.

Nevertheless, most of the bonds, although some sales were confined to a handful, were on the downside. Dealings in Japanese obligations were unusually large, amounting to more than $1,200,000 in two issues alone, the government 6½s, which reacted 1 point to a new low, and the 5½s, which closed 3¼ lower, after an extreme decline of 3½ points.

Italian 7s sold off 6½ points, Norway 6s of 1952 dropped 10, the 5s of 1963, 7; Denmark 5½s, 8½s, Canadian 5s and 4s about 3 each, and Austrian 7s of 1943, 1½. South American bonds were as a whole lightly traded and tended to show some recuperative power. The same was true of some European loans.

Domestics Lead Drops.

In contrast with recent sessions in which foreigns have suffered the widest declines when liquidation expanded, domestic obligations as a whole gave the most ground today. Selling affected some of the highest grade railroad and utility bonds as well as the second grade type.

All groups, as measured by the averages, reached new minimums for recent years, and the total of 60 bonds was off a full point.

Canadian carrier obligations, in fairly active trading, dropped from 1 to 7 points, possibly reflecting the drastic curtailment of earnings of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific, and the depreciation in the market value of Canadian exchange. Such high grade domestic bonds as Atchison general 4s, American Telephone debenture 5½s, debenture 5s, Consolidated Gas 4½s, Great Northern 7s, National Dairy 5½s, Pennsylvania general 5s and Standard of New Jersey 5s yielded from ¾ to more than 2 points in active trading.

LOADINGS FOR WEEK MOUNT 74,878 CARS

Many Addresses Listed on Convention Program of Personal Bankers.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Loading of revenue freight in the latest week for which statistics have been compiled, that ended September 19, amounted to 742,625 cars, an increase of 74,878 cars above the previous week, when loadings were reduced by the observance of Labor Day. The total for the latest reported week, however, represents a decrease of 209,933 cars below the corresponding period in 1930 and is 424,767 under the comparative week in 1929.

A report made public yesterday by the car service division of the American Railway Association with headquarters in the Transportation Building, shows the following comparison of revenue freight loadings for the year thus far with those of the 1930 period.

Personal Finance Addresses.

An interesting program of addresses has been prepared for the annual convention of the American Association of Personal Finance Companies to be held here October 20-23. Secretary of Labor Doak's speech will deal with the stabilization of family income as the credit base of the Nation's business and industry.

Dr. Frank M. Surface, assistant director, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, speaking on the subject, "Business Charts a New Course," will review current business trends in the light of recent economic experience.

Personal finance, the financial resources of the individual and of the family, as they affect the strength or weakness of general business conditions, will be discussed by John J. O'Connor, manager, finance department, Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The address of Milan V. Ayres, Chicago, economist, National Association of Finance Companies, will treat of installment buying and its financing. That of James R. Hewitt, Baltimore, chairman legislative committee, National Retail Credit Association, is entitled, "Retail Credit's Contribution to Business."

Others on Program.

Other speakers and their subjects are: Robert H. Montgomery, resident partner, Lybrand, Ross Bros. & Montgomery, "Accounting as a Business Essential;" William A. Hendrick, New Haven, executive vice president, Connecticut Association of Personal Finance Companies, "Credit Services and Public Responsibility;" Lester E. Shippee, Hartford, vice president, Hartford-Connecticut Trust Co. and former State bank commissioner, "Constructive Public Supervision;" Dr. Clyde William Phelps, head of the department of economics and commerce, University of Chattanooga, "The Present Scope of Consumer Credit;" F. L. Hinckley, Providence, counsel, Rhode Island Association of Personal Finance Companies, "Public Understanding of Personal Finance."

The fiduciaries section, District of Columbia Bankers Association, has organized its executive council for the new administrative year as follows: Chairman, Kenneth F. Brooks, assistant trust officer, Riggs National Bank; vice chairman, Leonard Marbury, assistant trust officer, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; secretary, T. Stanley Holland, assistant trust officer, American Security & Trust Co.; additional members, Ralph D. Quinter, trust officer, Commercial National Bank, and William E. Howard, assistant trust officer, National Bank of Washington.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—Cotton was generally lower today, under a moderate volume of Southern selling combined with liquidation or some local selling.

December contracts sold off to 6.06 and closed at 6.07, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 6 to 10 points.

The opening was steady, unchanged to 4 points lower under Southern selling combined with some selling here for continental account and scattered liquidation which may have brought about the easier showing of Liverpool. Traders, however, seemed to be paying less attention than recently to Liverpool fluctuations, which were attributed partly to changes in sterling rates, and orders here were evidently quite evenly divided.

This was reflected by narrow fluctuations during the entire forenoon, which gradually worked lower under a continuation of Southern selling and liquidation or local selling promoted by the action of the stock market for its position was made new low records for the day and movement, with October selling off to 5.85, or 10 points net lower, while March declined to 6.34, making a net loss of 8 points. Closing quotations were the lowest of the day on most positions.

Expectations of a possible increase in crop estimates following the favorable weather and more extensive ginnings by the first of the private crop reports to make its appearance. This placed the condition of the crop at 66.3, against 67.1 a month ago, and placed the ginning indication at 15,908,000 bales, compared with the last Government estimate of 15,685,000. The figures, however, seemed to be without any appreciable effect in the market. Southern selling was less active than it was yesterday, but was in evidence during a good part of the day and the buying for trade account on the dips were said to have absorbed a considerable amount of contracts.

Liverpool cables reported hedging and general liquidation in that market and said Manchester was quieter, with demand for cotton cloths and yarns.

Exports today, 27,906 bales, making 682,767 so far this season. Port receipts, 82,994. United States port stocks, 3,226,962.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Sept. 29 (A.P.).—The Motometer Gauge & Equipment Corporation is spending $1,000,000 in retooling its Toledo, Ohio, plant for the manufacture of a new temperature gauge. The plant, which has been operating three days a week for several months, was placed on a five-day week basis this week.

Stockholders of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co. have approved restatement of the capital so that $11,250,000, or $25 a share, will be set up as capital applicable to common shares. The difference between the former and the reduced capital is to be set up as capital surplus, out of which the company intends to set up reserves for contingencies and also to pay preferred dividends, should earnings or earned surplus not be sufficient.

The board of managers of the New York Cotton Exchange has denied a petition of members requesting a vote on the question of making Saturday, October 10, preceding Columbus Day, an exchange holiday.

W. H. Baker has been elected a director of the Cuba Co., to succeed the late R. B. Van Horne. F. A. Monroe has been elected a director of the Cuba Railroad Co., to succeed Mr. Van Horne.

Funds have been received in New York for the payment of the October 1 coupon on New South Wales 5 per cent bonds of 1958. It was understood that the money was sent direct by the State, whereas the August 1 coupon on the 5s of 1957 and the April interest on a sterling loan were paid by the Australian government.

In all probability directors of Burroughs Adding Machine Co., at their meeting late next month, will declare the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents, according to Standish Backus, president. "I can see no reason why the dividend should not be paid," Mr. Backus said. "There have been rumors to the contrary, but they are entirely unfounded."

The Edison Co. of Boston has sold an issue of $20,000,000 4½ per cent one-year notes dated October 1, 1931. One-half of the proceeds will be used to pay off $10,000,000 3¾ per cent notes maturing November 1 next and the remainder will be used for General purposes. The syndicate purchasing the notes is headed by Lee, Higginson & Co. and is offering the notes at par.

Contracts for construction work involving more than $1,000,000 have been placed with the Austin Co. The work includes a manufacturing plant for Jefferson Electric Co. at Bellwood, Ill., a sales and service station for Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. in Chicago, an office building for United Air Lines at Dallas, Tex., and a new hangar for American Airways at Chicago.

DAHLIA SHOW PRIZES ARE WON BY VIRGINIA WOMEN EXHIBITORS

SOCIETY POINT MEDAL GOES TO DUNN LORING

Scores of persons last night filed through the ballroom at the Carlton Hotel to view more than 100 classes of dahlias and fall flowers on display in the annual exhibition of the National Capital Dahlia and Iris Society.

Exhibitors from the District of Columbia and nearby Maryland and Virginia entered many varieties of flowers in competition for silver and bronze medals offered by the American Dahlia Society, with whose cooperation the show is being staged.

An unusual feature of the exhibition is the competition between garden clubs for the most attractively staged exhibit. The winner in this class is determined by votes of the visiting public. Last night's prize was awarded to the Barcroft Garden Club, of Barcroft, Va.

Mrs. Willett Takes Honors.

In announcement of prize winners last night, Mrs. J. E. Willett walked away with honors, having nine firsts, nine seconds and five third prizes to her credit.

A close second was L. W. Holland, who won twelve first, one second and three third prizes, while Mrs. M. B. Payne was next with five first, four second and two third prizes. A runner-up for the honor of collecting the largest amount of prizes was Einar Lund. She was awarded six first prizes, two seconds and two thirds.

Miss Lund Takes Medal.

Others who won awards were L. A. Hanson, Gladys John, G. W. Rose, Mrs. J. T. Schaaf, Mrs. W. F. Bowen, Mrs. Arthur Presmont, R. W. Lloyd, G. S. Gruver, Dr. Whitman Cross, Mrs. Charles Purdum, James C. Dulin, jr., Mrs. M. A. Davis, Mrs. Edna M. Reinohl, Gladys Johns, Helen W. Sheets, Betty C. Sheets, Jane A. Sheets, Mrs. Lawrence Voorhees, Mrs. Nina C. Watkins, Mrs. R. O. Marchetti, Mrs. Robert McCauley, Mrs. M. M. Bridges, Alice Updergraff, Mrs. C. E. Galliher, E. W. Offutt, Nellie P. Colby, Mrs. W. D. Keneesi, B. F. Reynolds, Mrs. W. P. Starr, Mrs. F. D. Willis, Mrs. Charles E. Wood, Mrs. A. Handy, Mrs. Alfred Fisher, B. H. Lane, A. C. Brightenburgh and George W. Harris.

Miss Lund, who lives in Dunn Loring, Va., won the silver medal of the American Dahlia Society by scoring the most points in her class, while Mrs. Willett, of West Falls Church, Va., was awarded the bronze medal for the most points scored in the class of dahlias she exhibited.

These baskets of dahlias have already been awarded prizes by officials of the National Capital Dahlia and Iris Society in the show being held at the Carlton Hotel in conjunction with the American Dahlia Society. The public attending the exhibit is helping select winners. Miss Dorothy Wells, 2938 Bellevue terrace, is holding one of the trophies to be awarded the Barcroft, Va., Garden Club for the greatest number of points.

CITIZENS ASK END OF NEW LEFT TURN

Southeast Association Also Seeks More Stop Signs in District.

After hearing some of its members attack the traffic situation in Washington as "criminally dangerous," the Southeast Citizens Association last night went on record as opposing the new left-hand turn as too hazardous for pedestrians and asked that a number of intersections in the Southeast section, where accidents have occurred recently, be safeguarded.

C. G. Degman, chairman of the law and legislation committee of the association, suggested that Congress be asked to enact a law establishing a bonding company in Washington, through which motorists would be required to place a bond of $10,000 or more before they could receive a driving permit. Other members favored a plan whereby motorists would be compelled to have automobile insurance before being given permits. The suggestions were submitted to a committee for study.

Stop Signs Requested.

The resolution opposing the left-hand turn was introduced by G. W. Bell and seconded by William A. Maio, both motorists. Intersections for which stop signs will be asked as a form of protection are Fourth and B streets, Seventeenth and C streets, Seventeenth and D streets, Fifteenth and G streets, and Kentucky avenue and Potomac avenue, all in the Southeast section.

Fatal accidents have occurred recently at Seventeenth and C and Seventeenth and D streets.

Other matters taken up included appointment of a committee to confer with Col. U. S. Grant 3d relative to improvement of Barney Circle, a request to the Public Utilities Commission that the taxicab zone be extended from Fifteenth street southeast to the west bank of the Eastern Branch, pledging cooperation with those planning the Halloween celebration and appointment of a committee to draw up a resolution asking Congress for an appropriation for a comfort station at Eighth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

Election Next Month.

Officers will be elected at the next meeting on the last Tuesday of next month. A. G. Herrmann, who is serving his twenty-fourth consecutive term as president, is expected to be renominated.

The police situation was scheduled for discussion, but on recommendation of the executive committee it was agreed to defer the matter until the third degree investigation has been disposed of by a new grand jury. Mr. Degman, in suggesting that some action be taken, described the police situation as "deplorable."

Alleged Coin Swindler Is Held for Grand Jury

Judge Gus A. Schuldt, in Police Court yesterday, ordered Lem Harris, alleged flimflam manipulator, held under $5,000 bond for the action of the grand jury on a charge of grand larceny. On a second count, that of carrying a deadly weapon, a knife, Harris was held under $500 bond.

A sailor, Lavaughn Cobb, attached to the U. S. S. Asheville, now at Boston, got into a coin-matching game with Harris and another man. The companion of Harris has not been located.

Fox Theater Reports Oil Painting Missing

Harry Crull, manager of the picture house, told detectives the painting had been removed from the head of the main stairs in the lobby some time ago and had been crated to protect the finish. It was placed back stage, and, it is believed, was removed to the alley in the rear of the theater.

DAILY USE OF WATER 84,004,717 GALLONS

Per Capita Consumption in 24 Hours 171 Gallons, Report Shows.

Did you get your 171 gallons of water every day last year? If not, you had better take the matter up with the District Water Department, as that is the per capita consumption shown in the report for the last fiscal year.

The report, submitted yesterday to District Commissioners by D. W. Holton, superintendent of the Water Department, reveals a total consumption of 31,514,180,000 gallons of water in the year, an increase of 1,563,475,000 gallons over the previous twelve months. Included in this total, however, is water furnished to Arlington County, Va., and adjacent Maryland communities. The actual District consumption was 30,061,722,000 gallons, an average of 84,004,717 gallons each day.

August 5, 1930, was credited with the greatest consumption, 116,283,000 gallons, while March 22, 1931, had the lowest record, 62,073,000 gallons.

The report reviews the inspection of metering and regular and special surveys designed to stop leaks. An intensive drive to complete metering of the city was started at the beginning of the last fiscal year, the water superintendent states, and it is expected that by the end of 1936 all services will be metered and all nonregistering meters will be repaired or replaced.

Last year 7,669 nonregistering meters were removed, repaired or replaced, but on June 30 there were still 12,852 such meters. Out of 97,306 services, 83,140 were metered at the close of the year.

Of 7,752 complaints answered by the department last year, 1,306, or 17 per cent, were found to be false, the report states.

"As this wasted effort seriously impairs the service rendered to actual needs, at constant expense to the department, attention will be directed to reducing them to a minimum," Mr. Holton comments.

The special water survey was reported on several weeks ago. It has revealed, among other things, 86 underground leaks, discharging a total of 1,871,000 gallons of water a day.

Woman Is Unhurt As Car Overturns

Daughter of Basil Manly Escapes Injury; Other Driver Is Held.

Miss Laura Manly, daughter of Basil M. Manly, Washington journalist and special investigator for the Nye committee, of 1855 Irving street northwest, narrowly escaped injury last night when the automobile which she was driving overturned following a collision with another machine at Sixteenth street and Park road northwest.

According to police, the accident occurred when a car operated by William F. Garvey, 33 years old, of 1504 Columbia road northwest, failed to stop for a red light and crashed into Miss Manly's machine. Although the force of the impact overturned her car, Miss Manly escaped uninjured and was pulled from the wreckage by passing motorists. Witnesses declared that Garvey narrowly avoided striking a number of other machines before he reached the intersection of Sixteenth street and Park road.

He was taken to the Tenth Police Precinct, where charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor and failing to exhibit a driver's permit were placed against him.

DEPARTURE SERVICE HELD FOR CATHOLIC MISSIONARY GROUP

Ecclesiastical Dignitaries of Church Participate in Special Occasion.

BENEDICTION DELIVERED BY APOSTOLIC DELEGATE

100-Voice Dominican Choir Is Feature; Legionnaires Also Pay Honor.

Attended by high ecclesiastical dignitaries of the Catholic Church, a special departure service for four Dominican priests and two Dominican brothers, who are shortly to sail for China to participate in missionary work, was held last night at Saint Dominic's Church, Sixth and F streets southwest.

The Most Rev. Pietro Fumasoni-Biondi, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, pontificated at the solemn benediction for the departing missionaries. He was assisted by the Rev. Francis J. Hurney and the Rev. Louis C. Vaeth. The sermon for the occasion was preached by the Rev. Edward Hughes, editor of The Torch and director of the American Dominican Chinese mission work.

Reviewed Missionary History.

Father Hughes reviewed the history of Catholic missionary work in Chinese and other far-flung fields. In exhortation to the priests and lay brothers about to leave for the Far East he spoke of the moral debt owed by the United States to the missionaries of other times. Father Hughes told of the work done hundreds of years ago, when America was a wilderness, by the Jesuits and other missionaries who came here and carried the word of God into the new land despite innumerable obstacles.

The Dominican priests and brothers for whom the service was held are the Very Rev. T. S. McDermot, of New York City; the Rev. Martin Killian, of Utica, N. Y.; the Rev. Arthur C. Tierney, of Martins Ferry, Ohio; the Rev. Celestine Rooney, of Boston, Mass.; Brother James Murphy, of Omaha, Nebr., and Brother Jordan Warnock, of Providence, R. I. The latter two are being reassigned to work in China territory after having performed considerable faithful service there previously.

Veterans of World War.

Fathers Killian, Tierney and Rooney and Brother James are veterans of the World War, having seen service in France. A guard of honor from the Costello Post of the American Legion was present last night. Members of the St. John's College Cadet Corps, in dress uniform, also assisted at the ceremony.

A part of the service was the singing of Compline and a special departure hymn, composed for the occasion by the Rev. David O'Connor, by a choir of more than 100 Dominicans from Catholic University.

Present in the sanctuary during the service were Mgrs. Edward L. Buckey and Eugene J. Connelly, and Fathers George B. Harrington, James E. Connell and Patrick W. Brown. All of the church dignitaries, a number of Dominicans and the departing missionaries were present at a dinner held previous to the ceremony.

The missionaries will sail for China from San Francisco on October 30, and are expected to arrive in Fuchien, where they will base, about a month later.

G. U. Student Hurt in Crash.

Bernard J. Hughes, 20-year-old student at Georgetown University, was in Georgetown Hospital last night with injuries to the head and face received in a traffic accident in nearby Virginia. He was admitted for observation after receiving first aid treatment.

SYNOD MISSIONARY BODY OF POTOMAC OPENS CONVENTION

Women of Reformed Church From Five States and District Meet.

THREE-DAY GATHERING HELD AT FIRST CHURCH

Speaker Holds Selfishness Cause of World Ills at Opening Session.

Declaring that "religion is the only basis upon which an enduring commonwealth can be built and no amount of wealth or extent of culture has ever given a nation strength when the religious element has been in decay," the Rev. Lee A. Peeler, of Kannapolis, N. C., delivered the principal address at opening session of the sixteenth annual convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Synod of Potomac, Reformed Church in the United States.

His subject was "The Challenging Task of Home Missions." The meeting was held last night at the First Reformed Church, Thirteenth and Monroe street northwest.

Dr. Keeler, who has served more than 20 years in home missionary work, introduced his talk by telling unusual experiences in his work in the missionary field.

Ills Laid to Selfishness.

"Specialization will never help America," he said. "New legislation will never suffice. New industrial systems will never insure the endurance of the Nation. The chief source of our national and international troubles is old-fashioned selfishness. The symptoms of this disease can be found in most of our lives. It is tarnishing our record and impeding our progress."

The convention program, which will continue through Thursday evening, opened yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock with an executive board meeting. Delegates from five nearby States and the District of Columbia, which make up the Synod of the Potomac, were greeted by Miss Pauline Holer, local president.

Morning, afternoon and evening programs are planned for the three days with a fellowship dinner scheduled for tonight. Dr. Calvin K. Staudt, of Baghdad, Iraq, will address delegates this morning on "Our Work in the Bible Lands." Departmental reports will be made at 1:30 p. m. followed by election of officers. Mrs. W. G. Seiple will speak later in the afternoon on "The Challenge of the Church in Japan." Following this meeting delegates will be taken on a sightseeing tour of the Capital.

Delegates From Five States.

Tomorrow's schedule includes a report on "The Cause and Cure of War" by Mrs. J. M. Runkle, and an address by Miss Greta Hinkle on "The Church's Challenge to the Women's Missionary Society."

Officers of the society are: Mrs. Lee A. Peeler, Kannapolis, president; Mrs. E. B. Farney, Waynesboro, Pa., first vice president; Mrs. G. W. Welsh, Spring Grove, Pa., second vice president; Mrs. I. A. Raubenhold, York, Pa., recording secretary; Mrs. J. M. Runkle, Altoona, Pa., corresponding secretary; Miss Mary Wagner, New Bloomfield, Pa., statistical secretary; Miss Lou Seibert, Martinsburg, Pa., treasurer.

Boy Skater's Arm Broken.

John Smith, 10 years old, of 443 Tenth street southwest, was treated at Emergency Hospital last night for injuries received when he fell while roller-skating near the Monument Grounds. He suffered a fractured left arm.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

AS MAYOR WALKER MIGHT SING IT.

(Mayor Walker says his favorite song is "Home, Sweet Home."—News item.)

I.

'Mid pleasures and palaces though I may roam,
Be it ever so crime-swept, there's no place like home;
A probe every minute is guaranteed there,
Which, seek through the world, is ne'er met with elsewhere.
Home, home, sweet, sweet home;
There's no place like home, there's no place like home!

II.

A tourist abroad splendor dazzles in vain,
O give me the Hofstadter probers again!
Judge Seabury hammering Tammany Hall—
Give me that—and the hunt for that telephone call!
Home, home, sweet, sweet home;
There's no place like home, there's no place like home!

III.

In Paris or Berlin—wherever I sup,
I long for the headlines, "Seek Man Higher Up."
The talk about scandals in courts, docks and snow—
The sonorous "Answer me, please, yes or no!"
Home, home, sweet, sweet home;
'Tho it's much overprobed there is no place like home.

IV.

I wonder what's doing with Old Dr. Doyle?
"What's new in the courts?" is the thought in my mind,
And I wonder what magistrate's newly resigned!
Home, home, sweet, sweet home;
There's no place like home, there's no place like home!

V.

Out West on a ranch comfort loses its kick—
I long to be home, where the scandals are thick,
The press chirping loudly of rackets and crime
And Seabury quizzing nine men at a time!
Home, home, sweet, sweet home;
There's no place like home, there's no place like home!

VI.

Afloat on the ocean, away from it all,
O give me my lowly thatched Tammany Hall!
The pictures, receptions, parades and the "mike"—
The interviews, wisecracks; they're things that I like.
Home, home, sweet, sweet home;
There's no place like home, there's no place like home!

VII.

How sweet 'tis to reign over Manhattan Isle
And watch all the bloodhounds cavort in style!
Let others delight 'mid new pleasures to roam,
But give me the merry-go-round here at home!
Home, home, sweet, sweet home;
There's no place like home, there's no place like home!

VIII.

To thee I'll return, slightly tanned by the sun—
You're tough on the nerves but you're pretty good fun;
No more from the city again will I go—
'Til I check out again in some six weeks or so!
Home, home, sweet, sweet home;
There's no place like home, there's no place like home!

Hoover Assistant Named Upon Tuberculosis Board

GEORGE HASTINGS.

George Hastings, social welfare secretary to President Hoover, has been nominated to the board of directors of the Washington Tuberculosis Association, it was announced yesterday, following a meeting of the board.

This, it is understood, is the first time that any member of the White House staff has been permitted to serve in an official capacity in any nongovernmental organization, and Mr. Hastings' nomination was made only after the personal consent and approval of President Hoover had been obtained.

Garnet C. Wilkinson, assistant superintendent of schools, was also nominated to the board. These two appointments were made to fill the vacancies created by the deaths recently of Dr. George M. Kober, former president of the association, and Mrs. Wesley M. Stoner.

At its meeting the board adopted a resolution supporting the action of the subcommittee of the District Comissioners' committee of the Children's Sanatorium last week in urging erection of the sanatorium at the earliest possible date, and that erection of subsidiary buildings be set aside in order that the greatly needed institution for hospitalization of sick children might be expedited.

A series of lectures on tuberculosis control, general health building and nutrition and diet was announced by the association's lecture committee, which is headed by Dr. J. A. Murphy, chief medical inspector of the District public schools, and includes also Mrs. W. Frank Persons, Dr. James G. Cumming and Dr. J. Winthrop Peabody, superintendent of the Tuberculosis Hospital.

Among those who will deliver the lectures, which will be presented to the general assemblies of the personnel at Lansburgh's, Kann's, Hecht's, Goldenberg's, Palais Royal and Woodward & Lothrop department stores, are Dr. Peabody, Dr. Murphy and Dr. A. B. Coulter, chief of medicine at Gallinger Municipal Hospital.

ESCAPED PRISONER LOCATED IN ICEBOX

Man Held for Impersonating Federal Officer Flees, but Is Captured.

Hidden safely—too safely—in an ice box, J. P. O'Shea, arrested here yesterday morning for impersonating an officer of the Government, chuckled to himself yesterday while two deputy United States marshals, two agents of the Department of Justice and several score mere pursuers, searched in his immediate vicinity and failed to find his hideaway.

O'Shea was being taken from the Department of Justice to the office of United States Commissioner N. C. Turnage when he asked to stop by a railroad ticket office at Fourteenth and G streets northwest to exchange a railroad ticket. Coming from the office, he tripped Gus Cerimele, deputy marshal, and fled.

That set the stage for a man hunt that thrilled downtown shoppers at noontime. Police, agents, marshals and others combed the neighborhood vainly until the search narrowed down to the City Club. The building was gone over with a fine tooth comb and O'Shea was believed to have made good his escape when Cerimele opened an unused ice box and there stood his man.

O'Shea, who is known also as Ralph Wood, was then taken to the commissioner's office and held under $10,000 bond. He is charged with taking $87 from Mrs. E. L. Griswold through representing himself as a special agent of the Department of Justice.

Incidentally, O'Shea was automatically locked in the ice box and but for being found might have stayed there an uncomfortably long time.

Pedestrian Gains Traffic Last Laugh

Truck Driver Is Fined $10 for Failing to Give Right of Way.

The old "last laugh" law was invoked by Charles A. Keigwin, professor in the Georgetown University Law School, in Police Court yesterday when he saw a colored truck driver who had almost run him down fined $10 for failing to give the right of way to a pedestrian.

Prof. Keigwin was en route home when, at Seventeenth and Willard streets, he was forced to jump out of the pathway of a truck driven by Scincle Douglas, colored, who honked his horn and went merrily a block farther. The professor spoke to the man about the matter when he caught up to the truck, and was told rather impolitely, he said, that he "was supposed to jump" when a horn was blown.

Mr. Keigwin then hied himself to Police Court, obtained a warrant for the man and had him brought in. Judge Hitt sternly lectured the driver and then let him off with the fine. He promised to double the fine if the man is ever brought back.

CONFERENCE IS SET ON ISLAND COLUMNS

Aviation Committee Will Meet Tomorrow With Grant and Blee.

Members of the aviation committee of the Washington Board of Trade will meet tomorrow with Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the Arlington Memorial Bridge Commission, and Col. Harry H. Blee, of the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce, to discuss the proposed erection of two columns, each 200 feet high, on Columbia Island as a part of the Memorial Bridge program.

It is felt by the committee that construction of these shafts would be a serious hazard to the safe operation of airplanes into the Washington-Hoover airport, and it has been intimated that the Department of Commerce might revoke the licenses of commercial lines coming into the Capital should the columns be built.

Among the group to attend the conference is William P. MacCracken, jr., former Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of aeronautics, who has declared that the safety of a pilot visiting Washington for the first time would be seriously endangered should he be obliged to make an approach to the airport in an area in which the large shafts would rise.

It is believed that the meeting in Col. Grant's office may revive the discussion for the construction of a municipal airport at Gravelly Point.

The bridge commission plans to erect the memorial columns at a cost of $1,000,000, work on the foundations is not expected to start for some time, it was learned.

Four Youths Are Jailed In Robbery of Salesman

Police last night were holding for investigation four colored youths arrested in connection with the theft of several sample cases from the automobile of Harry Box, Lexington, Ky., clothing salesman. Contents of the cases were valued at more than $300. The car was parked in front of the Chastleton Hotel, where Mr. Box is stopping.

The prisoners are Alvin J. Kyser, 18, and Edward Kyser, 19, of 2346 Sixth street northwest; Mervin H. Lacy, 18, 1424 T street northwest, and Preston H. Lacy, 21, 1242 Irving street northwest.

Fractured Hip Suffered In Fall Proves Fatal

Mrs. Mary M. O'Brien, 76 years old, died yesterday at Georgetown University Hospital from a fractured hip, suffered when she fell down the steps at her home, 1608 Webster street northwest, four weeks ago.

She was born at Far Rockaway, N. Y., and was a resident of Washington for the last 12 years. Funeral services will be held at the Sacred Heart Church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, followed by interment at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

LABOR WAGE SCALE RAISED IN DISTRICT BY COMMISSIONERS

Action After Doak's Letter Probably Will Affect Only Three Contractors.

NEW MOVE IS EXPECTED TO CAUSE COURT STEPS

Work on Three Schools May Be Delayed; Capital Men Favor Standard.

While the District Commissioners will send notices of the prevailing wage scale adopted yesterday at the instigation of Secretary of Labor Doak, the higher pay requirements are expected to affect only three contractors. The remaining builders, according to District officials, already pay the wages set forth in the scale.

Some trouble and probably court action is expected from one or more of the contractors who will be ordered to raise their wages to meet the new scale. Whether this will result in a delay of the projects now under construction, all three of them schools, is conjectural. District officials hope that the contractors, if they make protests, will continue the jobs while testing the validity of the wage scale in court.

The three contractors who are said not to be paying the wages specified by the Commissioners are W. P. Rose Co., of Goldsboro, on the Woodridge addition; A. Lloyd Goode, Inc., of Charlotte, on the Paul Junior High School addition, and Charles S. Bannett, Inc., on the Benjamin Stoddard School.

The union scale is not being paid on several other projects, but in these instances the District Commissioners are powerless to enforce the new wages because the bids were advertised prior to enactment of the Bacon-Davis law.

Schools and Branch Library.

Twelve schools and the Northeast branch library constitute the construction projects which will be affected by the new scale. Several of these contractors, however, employ union laborers.

While District officials were unable to say whether their scale meets the union standard in all particulars, S. B. Walsh, assistant municipal architect, said it was his understanding that the wages are the same in several classes and are very near the union standard in the others.

The scale is the outgrowth of numerous conferences between Maj. D. A. Davison, acting Engineer Commissioner; Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner; Mr. Walsh and Labor Department officials, and followed receipt of a letter from Secretary Doak suggesting that the union wage standard be applied to District construction projects.

This letter, which has been kept secret by District officials, was still missing yesterday. It was not introduced at the meeting of the Commissioners, neither was an opinion previously rendered by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride that inclusion of a previous wage scale, based on pay of employes of the District repair shop, would be illegal.

Wage Scale Adopted.

	Rate per hour
Cement finishers	$1.25
Bricklayers	1.75
Carpenters	1.37½
Electrical workers	1.65
Granite cutters	1.50
Plumbers	1.50
Plasterers	1.75
Reinforce rod workers	1.25
Steamfitters	1.50
Steamfitters' helpers	.82½
Bridge and structural iron workers	1.65
Ornamental iron workers	1.65
Sheet metal workers	1.50
Stone cutters	1.25
Stone masons	1.50
Tile setters	1.50
Wood, wire and metal lathers	1.62½

As required by the prevailing wage act, the Secretary of Labor is made the final judge in case of dispute, save, of course, the recourse to court. Whenever District officials are unable to enforce the scale, the case will be referred to the Secretary of Labor, and action withheld pending his decision.

Should a contractor persist in refusing to pay the required wages, the District Commissioners may revoke its contract or withhold payments.

The new scale is understood to have met with favor among local building contractors, as they are required to pay the union scale for the most part, any way. The higher standard, they believe, will eliminate much of the cheaper outside competition which they have been unable to meet heretofore.

Heart Attack Is Fatal To 16-Year-Old Girl

Acute dilation of the heart caused the death last night of Lovina M. Buell, 16, of 4606 Davenport street northwest. The Fire Department Rescue Squad was called, but arrived too late to be of assistance.

Miss Buell was pronounced dead by Dr. Albert E. Craig, of 1330 Thirtieth street northwest. She had been treated for some time by the family doctor for asthma, and it was an attack of this that brought on the heart attack. She was the daughter of Miner W. Buell, a draftsman in the Navy Department.

Assist by Fire Department Helps Police Seize Suspect

Thanks to an assist by the Fire Department, police yesterday seized a 19-year-old youth named in a housebreaking warrant after a chase and scuffle on the roof of the suspect's house at 617 Massachusetts avenue northeast. He is Joseph Rogers and is being held at the Twelfth Precinct station for investigation.

Detective Sergt. O. W. Mansfield went to the house yesterday afternoon to serve young Rogers with the warrant. Going to the roof when he failed to find the youth inside the house, he encountered the suspect in hiding and they began to grapple.

Fire Lieut. Charles L. Bryan, who lives nearby, was passing below when he heard the commotion and rushed to the policeman's aid. Together they subdued the youth, but received minor injuries in doing so, Mansfield suffering a sprained wrist.

Father Says School Unfair In Failing to Promote Boy

Because his son was not promoted to a higher grade this year after receiving a higher than average mark in summer school, Philip Ebert, 1105 Jefferson street northwest, charged the public school system with deliberate unfairness when he appeared before Assistant Superintendent of Schools Robert L. Haycock yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Ebert presented a report card of his son, James, showing that he had successfully completed 3-B work at the Brightwood School last year and took the 4-A work at summer school. He took seven subjects at summer school and received B, which is higher than average. He also received B for deportment and effort and was not absent a single day, the report showed. Mr. Ebert contends that in view of these marks his son is entitled to advancement to 4-B grade. Instead, he says, his son was put back in 4-A and, because of this, has not returned to school.

Mr. Haycock presented a letter from the boy's summer school teacher, Miss Grace Chamberlain, stating that James was a little above the average when compared to some of the other pupils and expressing the opinion that his work does not warrant a promotion to 4-B and recommending that he take all the 4-A work during the winter.

The parent contended that a child should be passed on the basis of his record as shown in the report and that his standing should not be influenced by "supplementary" letters from the teacher. He argued that other pupils in the class who had advanced no further than his son were promoted.

Mr. Haycock offered to have the boy examined on 4-A work by three teachers. Mr. Ebert asked that other pupils who had passed the 4-A work be given the same examination. After the assistant superintendent said that this might be done the parent said that he would make a decision later. He threatened to take the case to court.

Mr. Haycock explained that students go to summer school for two reasons—because they are weak, and have to make up work, or so good that they can pass a full semester's work in the six weeks' summer school. He said that James Ebert, according to the report of his teacher, did not fall within either of these classifications.

Capital School Boy Baffles Searchers

Ferguson Hungerford, Central Freshman, "Gone North, Anywhere."

A wide search was still in progress last night for Ferguson Hungerford, 15, of 1773 Lanier place northwest, who left home for parts unknown Monday, to escape studies at Central High School, where he started this year as a freshman.

A note was found yesterday morning in which he gave his reasons for leaving. It read: Dearest Mother and Dad, I have gone away because I hate to go to school and for other reasons which I do not want to mention. Please forgive me. I am going North, anywhere, to get away."
